City Of Bowling Green Patiently Waits By BRICE J. CHANDLER to residents of the state to col- said. "Adams street does not Editor

The City of Bowling Green is patiently waiting to see the outcome of the marijuana tax and online purchase tax on the April ballot.

Bowling Green along with other cities in Pike County could benefit if the Online Purchase Tax passes.

As with the county commissioners, city officials can't actively campaign for the use taxes. They can only provide information and encourage residents to vote one way or the other on the April 4 ballot. According to county officials, the online purchase tax is not an additional tax. The money is already being collected as of January, when the Wayfair tax went into effect.

The Wayfair legislation into law on June 30, 2021. The Wayfair Legislation allows Missouri and local jurisdictions to collect an online use tax.

"Missourians who shop online will pay the state sales tax 4.2 percent which started in January. Missouri was the last state to approve such a requirement. It affects online marketplace facilitators and out of state retailers with at least $100,000 of annual sales to residents of the state to col- said. "Adams street does not lect state and local taxes." Pike County's Online Purchase Tax would allow the county access to funds that are already being collected. While Bowling Green city officials and the Board of Aldermen are planning on improvement projects, Bowling Green City Administrator, Linda Luebecht, told the Tribune any additional source of revenue would help.

"We have a lot of water and sewer projects we would like to do down the road," Luebrecht said. "Anything is going to help.'

The Online Purchase Tax ballot reads: Shall the County of Pike receive an internet tax for online purchases at the same rate as the county sales tax rate, currently at a rate of 2.5625 percent if the county sales tax rate is reduced or raised by voter approval, the internet tax rate shall also be reduced or raised by the same action.

A portion of that would go to the cities from Luebrecht's understanding, which could help with additional projects besides water and sewer improvements.

have a sidewalk and we have a lot of kids that walk there. There's also a lot of roads that need repaired. Some of the streets aren't very wide, so if we could expand just a little on each side, it would help a lot."

Along with the online purchase tax, the proposed marijuana tax could also eventually help the city.

Should it pass, the Bowling Green Board of Aldermen will have to decide if the city will include a similar tax in the future. The tax revenue generated could be significant for the county and the city should a dispensary open.

According to a report from the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services, the first month of marijuana sales generated over $102.9 million ($31.2M for medical use and $71.7M for recreational use).

We don't have a dispensary yet, we're just planning on the future should one come into the city limits, we don't know that one will," she continued.

As with other county officials, Luebrecht encourages "We would like to work on some sidewalks," Luebrecht April 4. April 4.

Cemper Fellowship er Award

Dr. Beth Whitaker

By BRICE CHANDLER Editor Bowling Green native and recipient of the University of Missouri's 2021 Outstanding Teaching Award, Dr. Beth Whitaker, was caught by surprise last Tuesday after being awarded one of the university's most prestigious fellowships. Whitaker, an assistant teaching professor in the College of Education and Human Development at the University of Missouri, was one of five recipients of the William T. Kemper Fellowship for Teaching Excellence in 2023. The award, established in 1991 with a $500,000 gift from MU graduate William T. Kemper, recognizes outstanding teachers who are nominated by their peers and in-cludes a $15,000 stipend. Whitaker was surprised with the honor Tuesday, March 21 by administrators and execufrom Commerce Bank.

where she oversees all aspects of the program and coordinates with program stakeholders. Her efforts have had a significant impact on her colleagues and students.

'She makes an incredible investment in time to serve students inside and outside her classroom," said Sarah Diem, department chair for the Department of Educational Leadership and Policy Analysis. "She is an inspirational teacher and mentor, and we need more people like her serving our MU students."

Whitaker's impact on her students has been felt by many, including former student Jordan Anderson, who said, "She taught me to ask the hard questions of equity for all students and let us know that it was ok to do things differently for the good of the order. Not only was the content she was sharing changing my view of education, but her character traits as a human and educator forever changed who I wanted to be." Whitaker earned a bachelor's degree in elementary education in 1982 from Central Methodist College, a master's degree in educational administration in 1986 at MU, and a doctoral degree in educational leadership in 1997 from Indiana State University. She also holds a certificate in effective college instruction from the Association of College and University Educators (ACUE) and from the American Council of Education

Dollar General Market To Open Summer 2023

BY BRICE J. CHANDLER Editor

Representatives with Dollar General confirmed to the People's Tribune that the new Dollar General Market is slated to open this summer of 2023 pending the progress of construction.

According to Dollar General's public relations representatives, work is currently underway on the new store at 905 East Highway 54 in Vandalia.

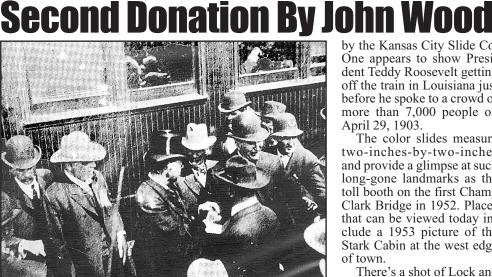

"At this time, a store opening is slated for summer 2023, but understand that construction progress may alter this date," a Dollar General's Public Relations representative wrote.

"Our customers are at the center of all that we do, and meeting customers' needs is Dollar General's top priority when choosing store locations," the representatives continued. "In selecting store sites, we take a number of factors into consideration, carefully evaluating each potential new store location to ensure we can continue to meet our customers' price, value, and selection needs. We further strive to provide convenience for customers who may not have affordable nearby retail options."

According to an email correspondence, the store is expected to employ approximately 15-17 employees, "depending on the individual needs of the store."

The company has advised the Tribune to check back periodically for updates on the store's opening date.

Interested applicants may apply for available positions online at www.dollargeneral.com/careers.

A print from a glass negative appears to show President Theodore Roosevelt, center, arriving at Louisiana's downtown train station for a speech on April 29, 1903

John Wood has added a second contribution to the Louisiana Area Historical Museum.

Wood recently donated 700 colorized postcards, black-and-white photographs and film from Louisiana's past. Now, he's added 200 color slides dating from 1952 to 1960 and 75 older images imprinted on glass.

"I want these to be pre-served," Wood said. "A generation or two down the road, they may want to look at them and say 'My, Lord, things aren't like that now." "We can't thank John enough for these pictorial gems," said Museum President Brent Engel. "The slides preserve a wide variety of scenes from Louisiana and the area.'

Included are images of people, businesses, school, churches, the library, neighborhoods, flooding, bridges and boats. There's even a Christmas tree.

The glass negatives are four inches wide and three inches tall. They were made by the Kansas City Slide Co. One appears to show President Teddy Roosevelt getting off the train in Louisiana just before he spoke to a crowd of more than 7,000 people on April 29, 1903.

The color slides measure two-inches-by-two-inches and provide a glimpse at such long-gone landmarks as the toll booth on the first Champ Clark Bridge in 1952. Places that can be viewed today include a 1953 picture of the Stark Cabin at the west edge of town.

There's a shot of Lock and Dam 24 at Clarksville taken from the same vantage point in the winter and summer of 1952. Other towns highlighted in the collection are Eolia, Troy, Hannibal, New London and Atlas, Ill.

The unidentified photographer loved flowers, too, because there are multiple shots of roses, lilacs, flowering crabs and other varieties. A scene from March 1960 shows plowed snow piled up at the riverfront.

Engel said the museum will catalog items from both sets of donations and eventually put together a display or permanent exhibit.

Early Spring Gardening Advice

The end of March through mid-April is ideal for planting cool-season crops like spinach, lettuce, kale, beets, cilantro, potatoes, radishes, peas, cauli-flower, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, and cabbage. If starting plants from seed, test old seeds before planting. Most leafy green seed is only good for a year. I purchase new lettuce and spinach seed every spring. In early February I tested 2018 pea and beet seeds. Three out of four pea seeds germinated, and most of the beet seed germinated.

Cold frames, high tunnels, and floating row covers are used to get an early start to the season and will give protection on cold nights. I use row covers on lettuce and spinach beds early in the season. Raised beds are popular with gardeners as they allow for good drainage and the soil to warm faster. They are also easier to care for with typically less weeding than a garden. When the beds are planted intensively, there is more foliage cover which shades out weed growth. Strawberries, rhubarb, and asparagus do well in a raised bed. Containers are also popular for growing vegetables for the same reasons.

Insects and diseases are typically a problem when growing fruit. Apply dormant oil in late winter or early spring while the plants are still dormant. Apply it on a day when temperatures are above freezing for at least 24 hours. Pruning of fruit trees and small fruit plants should be completed by mid-March. With trees, prune out watersprouts (thin, branches growing straight up), suckers at the base of the tree, crossing branches, and diseased and broken branches. The goal is to open up the tree for good air circulation. Elderberry plants can be cut back to the ground. They bloom and fruit on new growth. Apply a complete fertilizer such as 12-12-12 to fruit trees and small fruit plants at the time of pruning. There is generally a rule of thumb on the back of the bag of fertilizer.

State Representative Chad Perkins Report

Rep. Chad Perkins HB 428 & 912 -Rep. Perkins Bill Re-GARDING CHILD CARE CENTERS IS PERFECTED HB 428 & 912 were perfected this week in the Mis-House souri of Representatives. This bill will allow owners of licensed inhome care facilities to watch their own grandchildren without them counting against their total. Upon perfection, Rep. Perkins stated, "This is a great bill for rural Missouri. The overregulation of this industry has led to reduction in the capacity throughout the state. This is a step in the right direction and I hope we can get it across the finish line." This bill has one more vote in the House before it moves to the Senate.

ANTI-RED FLAG BILL HEARD IN COMMITTEE

"HB 701 is a protection of one of our most basic and cherished rights, the right to bear arms." Perkins said. "Red Flag laws are an infringement of our rights and should be fought against zealously every chance we get. I'm proud to support this bill and support every American that chooses to exercise one of their most fundamental rights.

Lawmakers Approve Historic Tax Relief Package (HBs 816 & 660)

The Missouri House has voted to provide more than $1 billion of tax relief to Missouri families, retirees, and businesses. By a vote of 111-48, House members approved HBs 816 & 660 to cut both the personal income tax and corporate income tax, and exempt social security benefits from state tax. After this legislation passed, Perkins stated, "Tax relief will bring countless benefits to Missourians. From increasing job opportunities to putting more attractive we can can be to businesses looking to open, to expand, or to relocate to Missouri. The corporate tax cut puts us in a situation where we can now attract those prospective businesses. In addition to that, the cuts being made to on personal income tax allows Missourians to keep more of their hard earned money and determine how they want to spend it. Finally, exempting social security benefits from state tax will allow those on a fixed income to more breathing room when it comes to their monthly budget." Perkins concluded, "With an historic budget surplus and plenty of revenue coming in, now is the time to provide this relief to Missourians." Under HBs 816 & 660 the state's top personal income tax rate of 4.95 percent would drop to 4.5 percent on January 1 of next year. The bill preserves triggers put into place when the General Assembly approved a tax relief package last year. If revenues grow at a healthy rate and all triggers are met, the top tax rate would be reduced to 4.05 percent.

The bill also includes a reduction for the corporate income tax that currently stands at 4 percent. The bill would drop the rate to 2 percent beginning January 1, 2024. The plan includes additional triggers that could eventually phase out the corporate income tax entirely if state revenues grow at a robust rate.

The bill sponsor said, "This tax cut on businesses means a stronger Missouri, stronger Missouri businesses, more jobs, the stronger possibility that the businesses yet to be created will be created right here in Missouri."

The final component of the bill would exempt social security benefits from state tax.

The bill now moves to the Senate for consideration. HOUSE MEMBERS SUPPORT LEGISLATION TO LEGALIZE

SPORTS BETTING (HBs 556 & 581)

Members of the Missouri House gave bipartisan support to a legislative proposal that would legalize sports wagering in the state. By a vote of 118-35, lawmakers approved HBs 556 & 581 to allow Missouri to join the more than 30 other states that have already approved a legalized framework for sports betting.

compete is predicated on how and regulated framework for sports wagering that will help bring in millions in additional revenue to help fund the state's priorities.

The bill approved by the House would allow licensed casinos to offer sports wagering. It would also allow anyone over 21 to download a sports wagering app offered by one of the state's casinos or professional sports teams to place bets from anywhere in the state through their computer, tablet, or phone.

The Missouri Gaming Commission would have full jurisdiction to supervise all gambling operators and adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill. Under the bill, sports betting would be taxed at 10 percent. Revenue generated by the tax would go to the state's education fund. The bill also requires the state to establish treatment and recovery programs for compulsive gambling.

The legislation now moves to the Senate for consideration.

HOUSE GIVES STAMP OF APPROVAL TO LEGISLATION TO PROTECT PROPERTY OWNERS (HB 909)

Lawmakers took action this week to prevent a potential landfill from being located near a residential area on the border of Jackson and Cass counties. With strong bipartisan support, the House approved HB 909 to create a one-mile buffer between landfills and neighboring municipalities.

The bill comes in response to public outcry about the potential development of a new landfill in southern Kansas City that would border Cass County. The development would be adjacent to tens of thousands of residents in the cities of Raymore, Lee's Summit and Grandview and multiple schools that serve those communities.

Under current law, the Department of Natural Resources is prohibited from issuing a permit for the operation of a solid waste disposal area designed to serve a city with a population greater than 400,000 inhabitants located in more than one county, if the site is located within one-half mile of an adjoining municipality without its approval. The bill would change the required distance from the adjoining municipality from one-half mile to one mile.

The House approved the bill by a vote of 139-16. It now moves to the Senate for

From The Mayor's Desk...

A city's investors, out of town owners, and property owners with two or more additional houses, duplexes, etc., can literally price housing, buildings, and in-town job workers, out of Bowling Green.

People and businesses that would like to come, make their home, start a new service, or currently live here are being priced out by higher rent, subpar housing conditions, over priced buildings, and of course, higher utilities, higher taxes -federal, state, county, and city, plus inflation. Unfortunately, in small rural towns, there are many houses that sit empty because owners can't afford to do repairs and upkeep. These are called "Zombie" houses and buildings and in some cities are charging $500 and up in fines for these derelict structures that also lower neighborhood property values.

Demolition is not affordable either to the owner or the city. As a result, small townships slowly die and become uninteresting to investors, new families, and potential businesses. What is happening to prevent this is entrepreneurs, non-profit organizations, and available grants for programs like Habitat for Humanity come in and revitalize or build anew. "Vision and goal setting" are needed by town leaders, financial institutions, real-estate investors, and volunteer citizens that want to revitalize and update their community and neighborhoods.

Our mission in Bowling Green should be to develop a viable community by providing decent housing and a suitable living environment. We must expand our economic foster or kinship care.

opportunities, not by over-pricing our housing, buildings, or properties. As a town, we must make our city welcoming, caring, and supportive, which inturn invites young families, business start-ups and expansions. This also means being inviting and accommodating to our senior adults, Veterans, and encouraging to our farmers and ranchers, as opposed to absentee owners.

I have encouraged "Shop Local" for the last three years and I encourage you as a consumer to continue. We had an 8 percent increase in revenues in 2021 but according to KPM the city's auditors, it dropped in 2022. Expenditures for the city increased as they are addressing the needs our aged infrastructure. The board of alderpersons and your city administrator are doing a fine job of caring for our city's streets and water and sewer lines. It's now becoming apparent that we Shop "Made in America" as we have become so dependent upon China. We need to bring manufacturing of products back to The United States!

Anne's Project Empowered Marion County Farmer Amy Lehenbauer

Amy Meyer Lehenbauer is a Marion County farmer who learned from Annie's Project, a program offered by University of Missouri Extension. A celebration to observe 20 years of Annie's Project will be held April 1 at Lee Greenley Jr. Memorial Research Center Northern Missouri Research, Education & Extension Center in Novelty, Missouri. Photo by Linda Geist Annie's Project, a program offered by University of Missouri Extension for two decades, gave Amy Lehenbauer the confidence she needed to become active in the family farm.

Lehenbauer is one of more than 19,000 women across the nation who completed the program during the past 20 years, says MU Extension agriculture business specialist Karisha Devlin.

The program celebrates two decades of helping women in agriculture gain skills in leadership, business and estate planning, self-de-fense and self-care. "Annie's Project educates and empowers women in agriculture and encourages them in whatever role they choose to have in their farming operations," says Devlin.

Lehenbauer, a 2002 agribusiness graduate of the University of Missouri, was no stranger to farming. Her family farmed in Pike County and owned and operated Meyer Implement. Still, she hesitated before joining the family business.

"Annie's Project gave me the confidence to come back to the farm," she says. She felt like Annie's Project gave her the confidence to prove that she had skills that brought value to the farm.

Lehenbauer brought an appreciation for tradition and an eye for innovation to the table during a time when the farm was growing rapidly. Those skills helped the farm implement new feedlot technologies and human resource practices to make the farm more efficient, profitable and sustainable.

Today, Lehenbauer is the go-to person for the commercial cattle operation. Morning begins with feeding four children and helping them feed 4-H show cattle before school and daycare. While they are at school, she splits time between cattle, pigs and farm office.

She moved farm records from paper to the Cloud and worked on creating standard operating procedures and human resource protocols for the farm's family, four nonfamily employees and seasonal workers. Much of the farm's work centers on emerging labor issues, such as backup plans for critical duties, learning how to attract workers through the H2A program and TN and how to use new technology such as apps for employee watches to record time and tasks.

She devotes afternoons to picking up children from school and attending school and community-events before dinner, homework and baths. The farm runs on seasons spring and fall calving, forage chopping, planting and harvest, and 4-H show season. Amy and her husband also are active in promoting agriculture on the state and national level. They are active in Missouri Soybean Association, U.S. Meat Export Federation Board, College of Agriculture, Food & Natural Resources Alumni activities and the local Community Foundation.

Annie's Project gave Lehenbauer resources, but just as importantly, she found a network of strong women who worked the land and livestock. "I saw the strengths and hardships of women in generations before me," she says.

Annie's Project helps women in agriculture through three multi-session courses.

MU Extension invites the public to celebrate Annie's Project from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 1 at the Lee Greenley Jr. Memorial Research Center Northern Missouri Research, Education & Extension Center in Novelty, Missouri.

Annie's Project is based on the life of a farm woman, Annie Fleck, who spent her lifetime learning how to be an involved business partner with her husband. She died in 1997 and was the inspiration for her daughter, Ruth Fleck Hambleton, to create the nonprofit Annie's Project in 2003. In Annie's Project classes, trained facilitators provide safe harbor, connection, discovery, and shared experiences. Vetted instructors and presenters deliver unbiased research-based information to small, dynamic groups of women.

Dear Editor:

My first six years of service as your superintendent have been a tremendous joy, and I have been in awe just how this community pulls together and supports their school, time and time again.

We have spent a great deal of time listening and learning during these years in determining what should be areas of focus within our new Strategic Plan and goals we should be working on for the next five years. After considerable time spent in community conversations with organizations around our community (i.e. Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Young Farmers and Ranchers, Heir Study Club, Pike County Retired Teachers, Frankford Red Hatters, the Knights of Colum-Radio Broadcast bus. Conversations and various booster clubs, etc...), in focus groups held here at the school and our Key Communicator Network, through community-wide and school-wide surveys, it is evident that our community is proud of our school. Our school has performed very well, especially these last few of years on state assessments, graduation rate, college and career readiness measures, and ACT composite (all of those areas measured on the state Report Card.) In fact, the Bowling Green R-I District has performed within the highest five districts in the state of schools our size.

What also rose to the top was the need to increase safety and security measures and expansion of our preschool program now that more state aid is available to assist with staffing. While much has been done in this area (buzzing in and security film at doorway entrances, adding the School Resource Officer position, etc...), much more needs to be done. The board has determined that after safety and security audits, and overwhelming direction from community and parent and staff surveys, we need to construct a new Early Childhood Center and Storm Shelter, develop a Middle School and High School Storm Shelter and expanded library in order to meet state See LETTERS on page 7 standards and ADA compliance, address safety and security issues by adding transaction window vestibules at the Middle School and High School like we have already done at our elementary schools, and add a secure gate and additional fencing to the AG area behind the high school, develop an improved drop off area at the BGMS for better safety and efficiency, upgrading the Frankford Roof and Bus Garage Roof so all of our roofs will be under warranty, paving the Frankford Emergency Access Road, implementing Visitor а Management System at All Locations so there is no doubt that those who enter our schools are okay to enter and be around students, upgrading playground Surfaces at Frankford and BG Elementary for ADA Compliance and Increased Fencing to Fully Surround Both Playgrounds and Exterior Door Replacements to Increase Security throughout the district.

While most of these updates are not "flashy", they are much needed in order to protect our students and to be good stewards of our schoolhouse and environment. All of these improvements can be done without raising the tax rate for any tax payer in our district. The board hopes that you will pull together once again for the district as we go to the polls on April 4th. For more information, please visit https://www.facebook.com/sa ferbgchildren/ or come to our community meeting and town hall at the Middle School Commons on Tuesday, March 28 at 6 p.m. followed by a short tour.

grandchild, Alyssa Danback; and various nieces, nephews, friends, and church family.

Elinor was preceded in death by her husband of 67 years, J.B. Waddell Jr., her brother, Paul Gabbert, and her youngest son, Ted Waddell.

Elinor was born Dec. 6, 1930 in Grandview to Chester and Lois Gabbert. She gradu-ated in May of 1948 from Bowling Green and went on to the Kirksville Teachers College that summer. After this, she began teaching at the Bryson School House in Pike County in the fall of 1948 at only 17 years old.

During this time, her father passed away and her remaining family moved to a dairy farm in Baldwin, Kan. Elinor decided to board with a family in the school district where she worked, the Waddells. During this time, she met dell, and his sisters, Katherine, Jane, and Betty Ann. She later married J.B. and moved with him to a home on their family farm where they lived until 2007. In 2007, Elinor and J.B. built a home with her youngest son, Ted, his wife, Rena, and their two children, Cade and Leah, where she lived for the rest of her days.

Elinor loved cooking for her family, spending time in her garden, and playing games with her girlfriends. She was a devout Christian and an active member of her church. Elinor didn't know a stranger, and always encouraged all of her grandchildren's friends to refer to her as simply "Grandma." To know Elinor was to love Elinor and she was utterly devoted to her friends and family.

Memorials may be made to Community Loving Care Hospice or the Grassy Creek Baptist Church.

Cremation rites are being provided by the Collier Funeral Home in Louisiana. Brownie Virginia

Historical Missouri State Flag On Display At Honeyshuck

ficial state flag is finally adopted in Missouri.

Marie Watkins Oliver has become known as "Mis-souri's Betsy Ross" for designing the state flag. Oliver hailed from an influential family in Ray County, married a soon-to-be senator, and

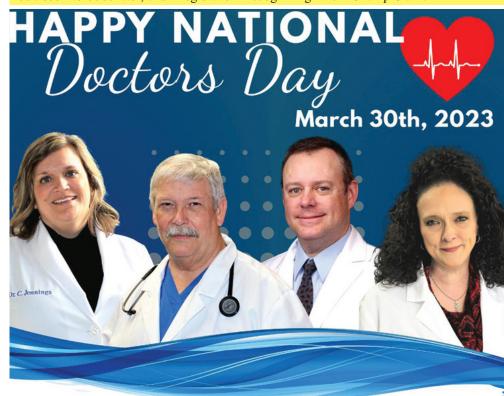

On March 22, 1913 the of- moved to Cape Girardeau. While he was practicing law, she was put in charge of the flag designed in 1908. She took painstaking effort to incorporate everything Missouri stood for into the flag. Governor Elliot Major from Bowling Green signed legislation recognizing the flag into law, and the original flag is now on display at the secretary of state's office. His wife was given one of the three flags flown over the capitol that day.

That flag is on display now at Honeyshuck, the home of Champ Clark.
