Hannibal Man Arrested For Parole Violation

On Tuesday, April 4 at about 3:25 p.m., NECOMM advised Hannibal police officers an Adams County, Ill., deputy was pursuing a grey Dodge Dart west bound on I-

Hannibal officers were familiar with the vehicle due to prior contacts with police. Officers saw the vehicle and recognized the driver, Quinton Long, 27, of Hannibal, who had a felony parole warrant for dangerous drugs out of Pike County. As officers attempted to stop Long he continued to flee. Due to the recklessness of Long's driving the pursuit was quickly terminated by officers.

The Dodge Dart was located in the area of Grace St. and Virginia. Officer knew Long frequented a home in the 1200 block of Broadway. As officers approached the home they saw Long looking out of a window. Officers quickly surrounded the home and had established that Long had barricaded himself in the attic. The Special Response Team (SRT) was activated and responded to the scene. A SRT member saw Long in the attic who was armed with a taser and knife. Long stated he was going to charge the officers and force officers to shoot him.

SRT disengaged and then deployed pepper spray into the attic which made Long extremely uncomfortable and he surrendered peacefully.

Long was taken to Hannibal Regional Hospital to decontaminate from the attic insulation and pepper spray. He was then taken to the Marion County Jail. The Hannibal Police Department was assisted by the Marion County Sheriff's Office and Missouri State Highway Patrol.

A criminal charge is merely an allegation and the defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty.

Louisiana Woman Chronicles Tales Of Ship's Survivors

BY BRENT ENGEL CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Editor's note: Following is the continuation from last week of a story series by contributing writer Brent Engel.

'She was in demand here in Louisiana for her sewing and because of relatives of friends in Louisiana," remembered local historian Betty Allen. "She also sewed for people in St. Louis and Kansas City."

The attention given to Genevieve and the influence she had was only enhanced by Champ's 1912 presidential campaign.

The Washington press loved her so much that something as incidental as pouring punch at a debutante ball drew attention. There was even a hairstyle named after

Though she didn't mind being featured in the society pages, a teenaged Genevieve made headlines for more serious topics. She attended most of her father's political rallies and was among the "coterie of thoughtful young women who have come out for woman's suffrage," declared the Washington Times.

May had earlier gotten a taste of the limelight when Eric Hawkins, a reporter for the New York Herald, visited Pike County to interview people who knew Champ.

She gladly accepted Genevieve's invitation to spend a few weeks in Washington before embarking with an aunt on a six-month vacation to Europe.

It would be the first chapter of an incredible journey.

Spring Into April With Season Inspired Plants

April is the season of new beginnings, especially for plant lovers. Outdoors, spring-flowering bulbs, shrubs and trees dot the landscape. Indoors, seasonal plants enliven and brighten dreary rooms, says University of Missouri Extension horticulturist Michele Warmund.

Crocus, daffodil, hyacinth and tulips are harbingers of spring, with their foliage emerging from the soil very early in the year, especially when temperatures rise above 50 degrees. Crocus and daffodils bloom first in the landscape, followed by hyacinth and Flowers of these bulbs are prized as their colors are often associated with Easter. The purple flowers of crocus and hyacinth symbolize penance, and purple is a color often associated with the season of Lent. Gold and yellow colors of dattodils are also associated with Easter celebrations. Warmund says white daffodils and tulips represent joy, love and virtue in secular and religious traditions.

Unfortunately, freezing temperatures often occur in Missouri during bloom, injuring cold-sensitive flowers. However, daffodil, hyacinth and tulip stems can be cut and brought indoors as soon as the buds show color. When placed in a container partially filled with water, the buds will continue to open, and the flowers can be enjoyed in a couple of days.

JOANNE HAMMUCK IS WINNER OF DEVERNE LEE CALLOWAY WOMAN OF THE YEAR AWARD

"I, along with Senator Fitzwater and First Lady Theresa Parson, was proud to present Joanne with this prestigious award on the House Floor this week. I could not think of a more deserving woman than Joanne. Her list of accomplishments and her dedication to the community is unmatched." Perkins concluded, "Her life has been spent in service to others, and it is one that we should all seek to emulate.'

PUBLIC HEARING ON SB 100 HEARD IN GOVERNMENT AC-COUNTABILITY

After listening to the public testimony in committee, Perkins commented, "The foundation of this bill is freedom. The monopoly held by the federal reserve has led disastrous consequences for Missourians. We can see it in our everyday lives, with the skyrocketing inflation that their incompetence has created. One moment, inflation is transitory, and the next, it's entrenched, making the socalled experts look like Perkins concluded, "SB 100 allows Missourians to pay all debts, public and private, with gold or silver. The United States dollar is backed by the full faith and credit of the United States, but gold has an intrinsic value that goes back to the beginning of recorded history. This is step in the right direction that I fully support.'

HOUSE MEMBERS APPROVE LEGISLATION TO ADDRESS MISSOURI'S CHILD CARE CRISIS (HB 870)

Members of the Missouri House of Representatives took action this week to address the lack of affordable child care in the state. With a bipartisan vote of 133-20, legislators approved HB 870 to create several tax credits designed to provide an innovative solution that will allow communities to work together to create the child care they

The bill's sponsor told her colleagues, "We have a child care crisis in our state and this issue is compounded when 30% of our child care providers closed during the pandemic and only 3% returned. Our parents, our employers, and our state and local chambers are all telling us they have frustration with the lack of affordable, reliable, quality child care.'

The sponsor noted that 58% of businesses across Missouri report child care has been a barrier to recruiting new employees and that 63 percent report it has been a barrier to retaining current employees. She also cited a report saying 43 percent of parents say child care is unaffordable so they choose to stay home.

HB 870 creates tax credit programs to help fund child care in the state. The sponsor said the approach is innova-tive because "business, government, and parents will all participate in the cost of care, making it affordable for families, stable for child care providers, and creating a reliable work force for our businesses."

The bill creates the following tax credits:

Child Care Contribution Tax Credit that allows a taxpayer to claim a tax credit for verified contributions to a child care provider in an amount up to 75% of the contribution. The tax credit issued cannot be less than $100, and cannot exceed $200,000 per tax year.

Employer-Provided Child Care Assistance that allows a taxpayer to claim a tax credit in an amount equal to 30% of the qualified child care expenditures paid or incurred with respect to a child care facility. The maximum amount of the credit cannot exceed $200,000 per taxpayer per tax

Child Care Providers Tax Credit that allows a child care provider with three or more employees to claim a tax credit in an amount equal to the child care provider's eligible employer withholding tax, and may also claim a tax credit in an amount up to 30% of the child care provider's capital expenditures. No tax credit for capital expenditures will be allowed if the capital expenditures are less than $1,000. The amount of any tax credit issued will not exceed $200,000 per child care provider per tax year.

The sponsor noted the tax credits are capped at $20 million for each calendar year. However, if all credits are exhausted the amount can be increased by 15 percent to provide credits to child care providers located in a child care desert. Each of the credits has a six-year sunset. She emphasized, "These tax credits make our businesses put skin in the game before the government ever gets involved to solve this problem. It is the perfect tax credit. No one gets rich. Everyone participates to solve the problem."

Another provision in the bill creates the Supporting Use of Child Care for Economic Stability and Security (SUCCESS) Tax Credit to help make child care more affordable for parents. Under the plan, an eligible taxpayer would be allowed a nonrefundable tax credit equal to the employment-related expenses for up to two qualifying children, not to exceed: (1) Expenses of $1,800 for each child who was under two years of age at any time during the tax year for which the tax credit is being sought; and (2) Expenses of $1,200 for each child who was two years of age or older during all of the tax year and under six years of age at any time during the tax year for which the tax credit is being sought.

The bill now moves to the Senate for consideration. LAWMAKERS GIVE STAMP OF APPROVAL TO BILL TO SIM-PLIFY GAS TAX REFUND Process (HB 519)

Missourians seeking a refund for the increased gas tax they're paying at the pump would have a simpler process under legislation approved this week by the House of Representatives. Lawmakers approved HB 519 by a vote of

The legislation began as a proposal to change the refund filing so it coincides with the calendar year rather than the fiscal year, which would allow taxpayers to file their refund claim when they do their taxes. The bill was expanded on the House floor to include a provision that would allow taxpayers to choose a standard refund option on their tax return. The standard refund would be $30 for the 2023 tax year, $45 for the 2024 tax year, $60 for the 2025 tax year and $75 for the 2026 tax year and every year

The bill's sponsor said the standard refund would simplify the process from the current one and noted that those who promoted the gas tax said, "The people of Missouri would have the opportunity to get their gas tax back." He added, "What was not said in the sales pitch is that the process would be unnecessarily complicated.'

'This bill fulfills that promise that the people of Missouri can get their gas tax that they paid in back if they so choose," he said.

MDC Reports Young Hunters Took 2,550 Turkeys

Preliminary data from the Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC) shows that young turkey hunters in Missouri harvested 2,550 birds over the past youth weekend, April 1 and 2. Top harvest counties were Osage with 71 birds harvested, Miller with 65, and Texas with 64.

Young hunters checked

2,881 birds during the 2022 spring youth weekend.

"The cool, windy weather on Saturday made for challenging turkey hunting conditions," said MDC Turkey Biologist Nicholas Oakley. "Fortunately, hunters stuck with it and Sunday's weather was more conducive to harvesting a turkey."

Louisiana Community Betterment Farmers Market has announced their opening date.

The Market will open on Wednesday, May 17. Opening bell will ring at 3 p.m. This is the seventh year for the Market to be held in Sunset Park on Georgia St. "A few folks have asked why I hold to a strict opening bell at

This gives vendors equal time to get set up, display their products and be ready for their first customer. If you do not have a set opening time, just as any other business, things become chaotic and then vendors are not prepared to service their customers in the proper manner.

Every customer is special to us and we want them all to be treated equally, and I emphasize this with our vendors," said Diana Huckstep, Market Manager.

"We are thrilled with the response and support of the Market from the community and appreciate their patronage. We have a wonderful, friendly Market and love being able to visit with our friends and neighbors and looking forward to opening day and welcoming everyone back to the Market," stated The LCBA Farmers Market is a Producer Only Market. They are also members of the Missouri Grown organization and go by the guidelines set forth by the state and local health departments. They emphasize on providing their customers with the most organically grown produce possible.

"Our vendors use as little to no hazardous chemicals to treat their produce and fruit. There are other markets that allow vendors to purchase product at vegetable auctions. They have no way of knowing what these products have been treated with. The LCBA Market does not allow this. We want to provide the healthiest vegetables and fruits possible, stated Huck-

When Jan Golian's husband died of a heart attack in the middle of harvest season in 2004, friends and family helped her get the crop in and the cattle sold.

MDC Encourages Public To Be Bear Aware This Spring

Missouri is home to an estimated 900 black bears with most being in the southern part of the state. As spring gets underway, these magnificent mammals leave their winter dens in search of food. The Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC) reminds Missourians to "Be Bear Aware."

MDC Black Bear Biologist Nate Bowersock said it is important that people remove or secure bear attractants from their property, such as bird feeders, trash, barbeque grills, pet food, and food waste.

"As black bears become active in spring, they are on the search for food," said Bowersock. "Keeping areas free of attractants to allow bears to find natural foods on their own is in everyone's best interest. If you see a bear, leave the animal alone and enjoy the sighting, but be sure to not offer it any food."

He noted that intentionally feeding bears can be dangerous as it makes the bears comfortable around people. It can also lead bears to cause significant damage to property while searching for a meal.

"When bears lose their fear of humans, they could approach people in search of food or become defensive around food sources or territory they associate with people, which can make them dangerous," said Bowersock. 'When this happens, the bear cannot be relocated and has to be destroyed. A fed bear is a dead bear."

Food is usually a bear's main motivator, but that also means it can be a main source of conflict. MDC offers these tips to avoid attracting black bears to possible food sources:

Stash and latch trash. Store garbage, recyclables, and compost inside a secure building or in a bear-proof container until trash pick-up

Keep grills and smokers clean and store them inside.

Don't leave pet food outside. Feed pets a portion at each meal and remove the empty containers.

Refrain from using birdfeeders in bear country from April through November.

Use electric fencing to keep bears away from beehives, chicken coops, vegetable gardens, orchards, and other potential food sources. Keep campsites clean and store all food, toiletries and trash in a secure vehicle or strung high between two trees. Do not keep food or toiletries in a tent, and do not burn or bury garbage or food waste.

Avoid conflicts with bears damage occurs before through prevention rather than dealing with a bear that already has discovered a food source. Learn more at mdc.mo.gov/wildlife/nuisance-problem-species/blackbear-control.

While black bears are generally a shy, non-aggressive species and bear attacks are rare, follow these tips when outdoors in bear country:

Travel in a group if possible.

Keep dogs leashed.

Be aware of surroundings. If there is sign of a bear, such as tracks or scat, avoid the area.

Leave bears alone! Do not approach them, and make sure they have an escape

In addition to directly educating Missourians on how to Be Bear Aware about black bears in the state, MDC is also affiliated with the Bear-Wise® program. BearWise is a multi-state education effort developed by black bear biologists and supported by state wildlife agencies, such as MDC, that provides sound information and smart solutions that help people, neighborhoods, and communities prevent problems with black bears and keep bears wild. As you head outdoors this spring to enjoy the warmer weather, it's likely you'll encounter a variety of newborn animals. Young wildlife can pull on our heartstrings as they appear to be abandoned, but that's rarely the case. The Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC) reminds the public that interfering with wildlife does more harm than good.

According to MDC State Wildlife Veterinarian Sherri Russell, young animals are rarely orphaned.

"When we see newborn wildlife alone, that means the parents are likely out searching for food and will return," Russell explained.

A common newborn species people can come across in the spring season is young birds.

"If you see a chick with feathers hopping on the ground, leave it alone because it's a fledgling and the parents are nearby keeping watch," said Russell. "Fledglings can spend up to 10 days hopping on the ground learning to fly. If you find one that has no feathers, you can return it to the nesting area if possible, as it likely Russell also warned against "rescuing" newborn rabbits.

"Rabbits seldom survive in captivity and can die of fright from being handled," she said. "Even if the animal is injured, it's best to return it to the nest because the mother will most likely return."

Human scent does not cause wild mothers to reject their young, and most newborn animals do not survive in captivity.

"It takes a lot of knowledge to care for and rehabilitate wild animals," stressed Russell. "It requires special training, permits, and facilities. Not to mention, it's illegal to possess many wild ani-

Russell also noted wildlife can become dangerous as they mature, and can carry disease, parasites, and cause property damage.

"We know people have good intentions, and it can be tempting to take these cute, young animals in our homes, but the best thing we can do for wild animals is to leave them be," she said.
