New Name For Old Road

A new name was announced for U.S. Business Highway 61 during the final day of the Bowling Green Bicentennial celebration July 1. Starting this fall, the thoroughfare will be called "John Walter Basye Memorial Highway" in honor of the Pike County community's founder. Signs will be placed at the north and south entrances to town. The $2,500 cost was paid entirely from private donations and did not include taxpayer dollars. Pictured making the presentation, from left, are centennial organizer Don Hamilton, Basye family members Mike Basye, Josh Basye and Marjetta Atkinson, and State Rep. Chad Perkins, R-40, of Bowling Green. The name is pronounced BAY-zee.

Pike County Man Part Of Booze Ban Battle

BY BRENT ENGEL
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Editor's note: Following is the first part of a story series by contributing writer Brent Engel.

Perhaps nowhere is contradiction as prevalent as in politics.

No matter what the year, legislators find a way of setting new standards for irony.

Missouri U.S. Senator John Brooks Henderson of Louisiana was no exception. The man who introduced the 13th Amendment outlawing slavery once "owned" people himself.

But long after leaving Congress in 1869 and working on a host of progressive issues, the retired Pike County lawyer still had a dilemma on his hands.

More accurately, it lurked in his cellar. Near the end of his life, Henderson became a teetotaler and a prohibition advocate.

"No conscientious man now approves drunkenness, or even tolerates it with patience," Henderson said in 1905. "And at last it is this higher and increasing moral sense which marks the progress of civilization."

The trouble was, Henderson's spacious Washington home was stocked with hundreds of bottles of expensive wines that he acquired over three decades.

That was about to change, and the action taken would make headlines around the nation.

Henderson never specifically said what prompted his stance against liquor. However, it played a major role in his life.

Henderson's friend, David Patterson Dyer, described the senator's father as "addicted to the use" of spirits and "when in his cups was very quarrelsome." The elder Henderson died in a drunken brawl with a neighbor in 1836, when his son was 10 years old.

In 1865, Henderson served as a marshal for the second inauguration of his friend, Abraham Lincoln. The president asked Henderson to keep a drunken and rambling Vice President Andrew Johnson from speaking to the crowds.

Ten years later, Henderson served as a special federal prosecutor seeking convictions of people arrested as part of the Whiskey Ring tax scandal. President Ulysses S. Grant fired him when Henderson started indicting Grant's friends and close associates.

But the most likely source of Henderson's temperance was his wife, Mary Foote Henderson. The two were married in June 1868, just six months after Henderson spoke in the Senate about a proposal requiring distillers to use a certain type of meter to measure production output.

Even by today's standards, Mrs. Henderson was a staunch health advocate. Though a belle of Washington high society, she was no ordinary housewife.

Mrs. Henderson was an author, real estate broker, architectural consultant and a fund-raiser for many social concerns. The most prominent Americans and foreigners were treated to her hospitality. It was in sobriety, though, that she found one of her greatest causes.

In her 1904 book "The Aristocracy of Health," Mrs. Henderson called alcohol a "poison" obtained from "products of decay" that "were never intended to be used by man as food or drink."

"The germs of putrefaction are simply death agents," she wrote.

Mrs. Henderson went on to lambaste wine makers for what she likened to destroying one of God's perfectly good fruits.

"How must the perversion of this delicious food strike the sense of the Giver, when endless tons of it — enough for the poor man's table in all the world — is yearly converted into a decaying, putrefying mass, to be drunk as a poison beverage?" she asked.

Next time: A toast to temperance.

Community Bands Together To Help Injured Ambulance Crew

BY BRICE J. CHANDLER
EDITOR

Thousands of social media shares and national headlines have helped the Van-Far and surrounding communities support the two Van-Far Ambulance District crew members who were critically injured in a July 4 accident that claimed the life of a Bowling Green woman.

As many celebrated the country's Independence Day, it was just another routine work night for EMT Leslie Dahl of Farber and her partner, Paramedic Jason Bostic of Troy. The two were returning from a call after dropping off a patient at Hannibal Regional Hospital when they were hit head-on by a vehicle travelling in the wrong lane on U.S. Highway 61 in New London.

According to the Missouri State Highway Patrol, 43-year-old Terri Rucker was driving northbound in the southbound lane of US 61 at approximately 9:48 p.m., when she collided with the Van-Far ambulance.

The force of the collision caused the ambulance to roll over with the front end completely smashed in. A heart stopping image for anyone, especially family and friends.

Tragically, Rucker was pronounced dead at the scene by emergency response crews who responded in minutes.

Both Dahl and Bostic were airlifted by Air Evac to University Hospital in Columbia, where they were listed as in critical condition with life threatening injuries.

Miraculously, both have improved.

"Leslie was taken off the ventilator and is doing great!" Wendy Hull, Administrator of Van-Far Ambulance District updated everyone via social media. "Jason is doing great!

Said he had so many visitors, they had to kick everyone out. They are both in for a long recovery but thank God they are still with us!"

News of the incident brought on an immediate response from the community and people across the country with fundraisers being set up to help with expenses as they set off down that long road.

A barbeque fundraiser on Monday, July 17 in the parking lot of the Bar Code Bar and Grill in Vandalia from 10 am until sold out. All proceeds from the event sponsored by White Rose Missionary Baptist Church will go to Bostic and Dahl. A t-shirt fundraiser has been set up by fellow Van-Far Ambulance District co-worker, Samantha Day.

"We are selling these shirts to help raise money for Jason and Leslie and their families," Day wrote on Facebook. "They are $25 with all proceeds going to the accounts for Jason and Leslie. We will take orders through the 17th and place the order then."

A poker run has also been set up by the Sons of Light and Bar Code Bar for Saturday, Aug. 26 to help the injured EMS crew.

According to Hull, the ambulance involved in the crash was deemed a total loss, leaving the district with just one remaining unit. The district will likely use assistance from mutual aid EMS agencies for staffing until a replacement ambulance can be purchased.

"We have been receiving a great deal of support from our community and surrounding EMS agencies," she wrote. "The ambulance involved in the accident is a total loss and leaves us with one remaining ambulance. Our crews may occasionally be responding to calls in a mutual aid unit until a replacement ambulance is able to be purchased. It is also likely that we will be utilizing intermittent assistance from mutual aid EMS agencies for staffing while we focus on taking care of Leslie, Jason, and their families."

Also in response to the incident, a bank account has been established at the United Credit Union in Vandalia to help Dahl and Bostic with medical expenses and loss of income during their recovery. Van-Far Ambulance District has also set up a Venmo account (@VANFARAMBU-LANCE) to receive online donations.

The Van-Far Ambulance District expressed gratitude for the support it has received from the community and surrounding EMS agencies during this time.

"Thank you to all the responders from Ralls County Ambulance District, Marion County Ambulance District, New London Fire Department, Hannibal Rural Fire Department, Air Evac Lifeteam, Survival Flight, New London Police Department, Ralls County Sheriff's Office, NorthEast Communications (NECOMM) 911 and the Missouri State Highway Patrol who responded to this difficult incident and took great care of our injured crew members," Hull wrote.

Why Rucker was traveling in the wrong lane remains under investigation.

Anyone interested in purchasing a t-shirt to support Bostic and Dahl should reach out to the Van-Far Ambulance District or Samantha Day for more information. For those interested in participating in the Saturday, Aug. 26 poker run, registration begins at 10 am until noon with $15 for riders and $10 for passengers.

Fitzwater-Perkins Secure $100,000 For PCMh

Sen. Fitzwater and Rep. Perkins are pleased to announce that Pike County Memorial Hospital will be receiving $100,000 for upgrades essential to its facility. Perkins said, "Rural healthcare has been under tremendous strain from a variety of factors, and this money will go a long way in alleviating those strains. I will always fight for my constituents to have access to quality local healthcare facilities, and will continue that fight while I'm serving as your state representative." Perkins added, "In addition to my efforts, I want to note that the efforts of PCMh CEO Tylie Mills and CFO Jeff Van Horn will be secured this funding was indispensable, along with that of our Budget Chair Cody Smith." NECAC Class Offers Practical Savings Lesson

Carolyn Martinez removes potato chips from a dehydrator.

Carolyn Martinez has found a handy way to cut down on food costs.

The Pike County woman enrolled in a dehydrating class sponsored by NECAC. It's just one of many life-skills classes offered by the agency.

"I've got a garden going and I'm ready to have some vegetables," Martinez said. "I'm going to try. I'm going to do good. We've got a good class here. Everyone is wonderful."

Rising food prices have led many people to look for ways to save money. One alternative is to grow or preserve vegetables and fruit.

NECAC's free one-day class for income-qualifying participants offered lessons on dehydrating apples and potatoes to make chips.

"It enables them to have more food that's sustainable and to cut down on costs," said NECAC Pike County Service Coordinator Penny Dixon. "You can buy more fresh vegetables in the summertime than you can in the wintertime. It really helps."

Martinez was unfamiliar with the dehydrating process. After slicing a potato, she blanched the chips for four minutes in hot water, then shocked them for a minute in cold water. The chips were arranged on a tray and put into the dehydrator at 131 degrees. Completion takes six to 10 hours, depending upon the thickness of the chips.

As an added bonus, each participant received a dehy-drator to take home. NECAC Shelby County Service Coordinator Lisa Blickhan began the program this spring with 45 units and says there are about 15 left. She will teach the class in other counties upon request.

"We're very appreciative of what NECAC does and the people who come and teach us different things and how to save money," said another class member, Tammy Perez.

"It's a win-win for them," Blickhan said. "The families will be able to make their own food and cut down on their grocery bills."

Other life-skills classes offered by NECAC include gardening, healthy eating on a budget, canning, home safety, energy savings, stress management, fraud awareness and realistic renting.

More information is available by calling Dixon at 573-324-2207 or Blickhan at 573-633-2210.

This program is funded in whole or part with $3,000 of federal funds received from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), Community Services Block Grant, as provided by the Missouri Department of Social Services, Family Support Division. The funds received from the Family Support Division are all federally funded.

From The Mayor's Desk...

Thanks to all who supported the Bicentennial in any capacity. We thought it was a huge success.

Now is the time to transform problem properties. It's a perfect time to give a face-lift to older city buildings and aged houses. We have several single-family housing, duplexes, and triplexes being built to meet the expanding needs of Bowling Green. It is exciting to see new developments occurring throughout our city and outlying areas. Businesses, contractors, investors are being inspired to meet the needs of our wonderful town. Renovation and renewal are a sign of progress and progress means preparing for the present and the future. Times are changing, technology is accelerating, education and equipping are advancing and Bowling Green is a part of these advancements.

JIM ARICO, MAYOR

ences. Explore our parks and playgrounds and enjoy interacting with others, fresh air and exercise, and share stories of the past and dreams for the future. By the way, the Park and Recreation Board is looking for people interested in joining the Board and researching and advocating for further expansion and activities. Call Mayor Jim and let's talk.

While investigating the needs of Bowling Green now and for the future, I've again noticed the number of senior adults that are struggling to meet their basic needs. Under former President Trump, many food programs were established for the needy during the pandemic. Now that the pandemic has been declared "over," many of those programs have been cut back. With the crisis at the Border and the homeless escalating amazingly, emergency food allotments have ended or redirected. Bowling Green does not have an Emergency Shelter or homeless center to help rectify the many needy in our city and county. If you know of shut-ins, older adults, disabled, and veterans that are in need, let people know. If you are able, buy an extra bag of groceries, pay a light or water bill, buy a fan or air conditioner, notify NECAC. They are offering air conditioners for the elderly and disabled. Contact Kayla Wasson at NECAC. An annual survey by the Federal Reserve shows millions of Americans lives pay-check to pay-check and lack funds to pay for unexpected or emergency expenses. However, if you are fortunate enough, pay someone's bill in the line behind you, buy a gift card and give it to someone you think could use it, buy new clothes, and donate to the Hope Center and not simply give used clothes. This is the Bowling Green I've seen and heard about over the years!

Bowling Green and its Park and Recreation Advisory Board are committed to providing the best recreational and wellness opportunities we can afford. There is a direct correlation between a city's recreational activities and a community's vitality. That's why it is so valuable to invest in parks, playgrounds, walking trails, musical events, swimming pools, exercise equipment, and basketball courts. Investing in health and wellness applies to all ages and groups. If you look at a town and its recreational opportunities it will tell how much it cares about health, (social, mental, physical, and emotional) and the town's priorities and leadership. Parks and all their events allow all ages to connect, interact, learn, express ideas freely and openly plus exchange cultural, racial, and age differ-

Trees In Drought: Love, Water Deeply

With more than 90 percent of Missouri under drought, browning lawns and wilting cornfields are common sights. But don't forget about your trees. A lawn can be replaced in months, but it takes decades to replace a large tree, says University of Missouri Extension natural resources specialist Joni Harper.

Trees are a valuable part of home landscapes, says Harper. They beautify surroundings and help save energy by providing shade.

Signs of stress include wilted foliage, off-color leaves, leaf scorch, leaf drop and early fall coloration.

Most of the tree's active roots are within the top 12 inches of soil and extend beyond the tree canopy. Prolonged heat and drought can bake the soil. This can damage or kill fragile roots critical to water and nutrient uptake, says MU Extension state forester Hank Stelzer.

Harper recommends the "screwdriver test" to check soil moisture. "Try to push the head of the screwdriver 6-8 inches into the ground around the tree root zone," she says. "If it doesn't push in easily, it is time to water."

DESE Five-Year Plan For MO Ag Education

The Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education's (DESE's) Agricultural Education section, along with partners at the Missouri Department of Agriculture (MDA), developed a new Five-Year Strategic Plan to provide direction from 2024-2029 for agricultural education.

The "Reinventing Agricultural Education for the Year 2020" strategic plan has served as a valuable resource to lead the industry for more than 20 years. Now, DESE has an updated plan to withstand the rapid changes and growth taking place in technology, agriculture, and education.

The 2024-29 Missouri Agricultural Education Five-Year Strategic Plan identifies four key priorities:

Comprehensive Reach of Agricultural Education Programs

Quality Curriculum and Resources

Agriculture, Food, and Natural Resources Literacy

Quality Instructors and Instruction

Additionally, each priority establishes guiding themes to be carried out through the Missouri Agricultural Education Vision and Mission statements. Representatives from education — including instructors, administrators, and students — government, and industry, along with other key stakeholders, met in a multi-stage process to affirm the key issues facing agricultural education in Missouri.

Ollie Thomas 'Tom' Hays

Ollie Thomas "Tom" Hays, 82, of New Hartford died Thursday, July 6, 2023 at his home.

Funeral services for Tom were held Monday at 11 a.m., at Bibb-Veach Funeral Homes and Crematory in Bowling Green with Steve Marshall officiating. Burial was in Keith Cemetery in New Hartford.

ried the love of his life, Linda Ruble on Nov. 25, 1967 in Pittsfield, Ill. She preceded him in death.

Also preceding Tom in death were his parents; a half-brother, Arlin Hays; a half-sister, Loretta Schneider Lanvermeier; and two grandsons, Dustin Burt and Jarrod Tolbert.

Surviving are three daughters, Susan Bolton and husband, Steve of Bowling Green, Cynthia Tolbert of New Hartford, and Marsha Burt and husband, Keith of Eolia; nine grandchildren, Keith Burt Jr., Justin Peak, Jeremiah Peak and wife, Amber, Austin Hays, Tyler Locklin, Whitney Briggs and husband, Nathan, Zachary Tolbert, Kassandra Hale and husband, Dakota, Shelby Tolbert, and Hunter Burt; 15 great-grandchildren; sister, Ida Sue Gastler of Mexico; brother, Arthur "Bill" Hays of Bowling Green; several nieces and nephews; and special friends, Brian Peak, Larry Tolbert, Charlie Davis, and Roy Sisson.

Tom joined the Army in 1963, training in Fort Benning, Ga. He was called home early to help on the family farm after his father was injured in a sawmill accident.

Tom farmed the majority of his life. After retiring from farming he worked at Townsend Tree Service and Charleswood Manufacturing in Wright City. Taking care of his family also kept him busy.

Tom enjoyed playing games with all the children, and above all teasing them and cracking jokes. Tom never met a stranger; welcoming any and all into his home. He also never hesitated to help anyone in need.

He had a sweet tooth and had two phrases he would say often, "Eat dessert first", and "I only like two kinds of pie...hot and cold."

Tom was a faithful servant to God, attending church when he could and reading his Bible every day.

Pallbearers were Keith Burt Jr., Justin Peak, Jeremiah Peak, Austin Hays, Zachary Tolbert, and Hunter Burt. Honorary pallbearers were Whitney Briggs, Kassandra Hale, Shelby Tolbert, and Tyler Locklin.
