Kitzmiller Embraces New NECAC Role

Stephen Kitzmiller fondly remembers the advice his late father used to get him interested in finance.

"Accounting always makes the decisions," Kitzmiller said. "It always comes down to numbers and I love numbers. I have an affinity for them."

The 42-year-old Hannibal man has been named assistant finance director at NECAC. He replaces Sherry Windland, who retired recently after more than 30 years with the not-for-profit social services agency. "Stephen has been a great asset to the finance team and I look forward to the future as he steps into his new role," said NECAC Finance Operations Director Vicky Pritchett.

A graduate of Fort Zumwalt High School in O'Fallon, Kitzmiller quickly learned the ropes of assisting customers and clients. He spent 13 years as a customer service representative with Dierbergs, the St. Louis area grocery chain. He started as a NECAC finance specialist on Sept. 10, 2012.

With a budget of more than $26 million, Kitzmiller is excited that NECAC continues to assist disadvantaged clients in 12 Missouri counties with cutting-edge programs.

"I just want us to keep moving forward, get more efficient and just keep pressing on with technology," he said. "We need to keep growing."

Kitzmiller and his wife, Jennifer, have two daughters. He enjoys performing and producing music at his church.

Smart Agriculture: Farming In The Digital Age

Nearly one-third of Missouri's economy is tied to agriculture. That's why the state's land-grant institution, the University of Missouri, has launched the Digital Agriculture Research and Extension Center (DAREC). The center aims to help farmers and other agricultural producers move toward a future of sustainable agriculture by leveraging emerging digital technologies and artificial intelligence (AI) for increased agricultural productivity, sustainability and profitability.

"The skills needed for today's farmers are not the same as they were five to 10 years ago, and it's important for us to train the next generation of farmers to adapt and make use of existing and future technologies," said Shibu Jose, associate dean for research at the MU College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources (CAFNR). "This is the future of farming in Missouri and elsewhere, and people are looking to us as a proven academic leader in this space."

Formed by a partnership between CAFNR, MU Extension and the United States Department of Agriculture

(USDA) Agricultural Research Service, the center will explore key areas in agriculture such as crop production, soil health, precision livestock farming and engineering innovations through research by faculty and students, and collaboration with industry partners and agencies.

"We want to investigate the next generation of technology," said Jianfeng Zhou, one of the center's co-directors and an MU associate professor of plant science and technology. "For both teaching and research purposes, it's helpful to adopt the next-generation tools designed to improve the efficiency of agriculture."

One component of the center will be a field demonstration site located at MU's South Farm called the MU Digital Farm. The farm will also be part of the Central Missouri Research, Extension and Education Center.

"By demonstrating new digital technologies at the digital farm, we will be able to document their benefits and use that information to show farmers and other stakeholders how to use these digital tools, many of which have already been developed but are not fully adopted yet by the agriculture industry," Zhou said.

Adoption of any new technology takes time, and the center hopes to build trust and confidence in farmers and other stakeholders by being proactive in its education and outreach efforts.

"The Digital Agriculture Research and Extension Center will work with our MU Extension specialists to put new digital agriculture technologies into the hands of Missouri farmers," said Rob Kallenbach, associate dean of extension at CAFNR. "The information, demonstrations, trainings and research that will come out of this center will benefit our Missouri agricultural industry for years to come."

Leading this new initiative with Zhou will be co-directors Kent Shannon, an assistant teaching professor of plant science and technology and field specialist in ag engineering with MU Extension; and Ken Sudduth from the USDA Agricultural Research Service. The center is planning a symposium for this spring.

Mizzou's new Digital Agriculture Research and Extension Center will enhance research, education and outreach in emerging digital technologies for farming.

Hannibal Regional Heart Center The Clear Choice For Area Resident

Frankford resident Harry Benn is an avid quail hunter whose life took an unexpected turn just days before Christmas. Harry and his wife Alma enjoyed daily walks with their hunting dogs, but something was amiss. Harry, usually full of energy, found himself cutting these walks short due to breathlessness and fatigue.

A week before Christmas, Harry felt an unsettling shortness of breath and tightness in his chest as he climbed the stairs to bed. His wife, concerned, offered a trip to the hospital, but Harry hesitated, thinking rest would suffice. It wasn't until 3 a.m., that Harry, unable to shake off the persistent difficulties, woke his wife to inform her that he did indeed need to go to the hospital.

Upon arriving at the Hannibal Regional Emergency Department, they initiated typical heart attack testing protocols. Dr. Al-Dabbas, cardiologist at Hannibal Regional Heart Center, met with Harry. Despite normal results from Harry's EKG, echocardiogram, and a negative heart enzyme test, Dr. Al-Dabbas, considering Harry's symptoms, performed a cardiac catheterization. Dr. Al-Dabbas' suspicions were confirmed when the procedure revealed multi-vessel heart disease with a significant blockage in the left main artery of the heart. Dr. Al-Dabbas explained that open heart surgery would offer Harry a much better outcome than placing stents. Grateful for Dr. Al-Dabbas' persistence Harry says, "I was really glad that, even though all my tests were coming back normal, Dr. Al-Dabbas continued to probe and get to the bottom of my symptoms."

Harry then met with Dr. Jose Torres, cardiothoracic surgeon at Hannibal Regional Heart Center, who explained the open heart surgery process. Despite being a new offering at Hannibal Regional, Harry had no hesitation about having the surgery there. "Dr. Torres reassured me that he had performed this surgery thousands of times before, so I knew I was in good hands." The alternative for Harry would have involved traveling to St. Louis or Columbia, Missouri, but the proximity to Christmas and the stress it would impose on his family made Hannibal

Regional the clear choice.

On Dec.20, amid the holiday buzz, Harry underwent open heart surgery, becoming the sixth patient to experience this groundbreaking procedure at Hannibal Regional. Miraculously, the recovery was swift. By Christmas Eve, Harry was not only discharged but also reunited with his family for a Christmas that held profound significance. "Dr. Torres and the incredible team at Hannibal Regional made my Christmas extra special. I'm profoundly thankful for their exceptional care that ensured I could cherish the holiday with my family!" Harry exclaimed.

In the heart of adversity, Harry's story proves that sometimes, the most extraordinary gifts come wrapped in unexpected packages. For more information about cardiology services at the Hannibal Regional Heart Center, call (573) 629-3960.

From The Mayor's Desk...

It is a new year with new opportunities to get plugged into Bowling Green. Don't allow yourself to be an "Invisible Citizen." I co-authored a book entitled "Middle Level Activities for Invisible Students."

It was directed towards reaching the students, especially our inner St. Louis city students to include and promote their ownership in their school(s). The same can apply to you as a citizen that feels like you have no voice, no in-pot opportunity, no recognition as to belonging to something bigger than yourself.

Your city leaders want you to be a vital part of Bowling Green. A big way to get plugged into Bowling Green is the April 2 elections. No matter who you vote for, please simply get out and vote. That's one way to make your voices heard. It is your right and your responsibility! Another opportunity as the Nation enters 2024 and begins the next presidential election cycle and both the Iowa and New Hampshire caucuses completed, we must ask ourselves how will state and national results affect us. This is another way to get involved and vote for your state and national candidates!

Candidates and the press may focus on "hot topics," but it is up to you to seek out the truth as you understand such, check voting records, and support topics and issues with which you agree. There are such dividing National issues, we at the local level must make sure we deal with the issues that affect us—where the rubber hits the road in uniting and helping our communities. Let us not allow politics, race, ethnic origins, or our belief system to divide our tremendous city! For instance, there is a law-making group that proposes cutting social security benefits to reduce inflation and government debt. Social Security does not contribute to National debt! This issue alone could unite us and promote emailing our Senators and Representatives and let them know how we feel.

JIM ARICO, MAYOR
CITY OF BOWLING GREEN

Did you know innovation creates Dynamic, Resilient Communities? Look at what covid produced with new procedures and innovations. Let's continue in Bowling Green and Pike County to continue to invite new businesses, manufacturers, new or improved transportation routes, and more utilization of our Municipal Airport, rail system, and even our waterways.

I have just completed the College of Professional Studies at George Washington University. It is The Center for Excellence in Public Leadership. There was no expense with your tax dollars. I write this modestly and only to let you know that I want to be the best I can be while I am your mayor.

AARP has a division of their organization called Rate Your City in their Public Policy Institute. Bowling Green is rated and hovers around 48-50 percent for qualities about our city. However, it only ranks 28.6% in accessing exercise opportunities which then affects and brings down other categories and ratings in "obesity prevalence," "smoking deterrence programs," and unfortunately, "Health Care." Check out AARP's Public Policy Institute for more information on Bowling Green.

State Representative Chad Perkins Report

Rep. Chad Perkins

Ruby Leigh Comes To The Capitol

Ruby Leigh, who was the runner-up on this season of "The Voice", came to the Capitol today to be introduced on the House and Senate Floors and meet with the governor. Representative Perkins had the privilege of welcoming the talented singer before his colleagues in the House, where she received a warm reception. Members expressed their admiration for the musician and excitement that she was visiting their state capital. During her day touring the Capitol and meeting legislators, Ruby Leigh radiated kindness and gratitude. It was an honor for Rep. Perkins to host the rising star and spend time learning more about how her experiences on "The Voice" have shaped her promising career.

HB 1769 Sponsored by Rep. Perkins Clears

First Hurdle
The Firefighters Procedural Bill of Rights cleared its first legislative hurdle on Thursday when it was voted out of the Committee on Public Safety. Upon passage Perkins said, "This is the first step in a long process. I look forward to being a vocal advocate for this important legislation every step of the way until it reaches the governor's desk."

Elections Committee Hears More Initiative Petition Proposals

The House Committee on Elections and Elected Officials in Missouri, one week after hearing proposed changes to citizen-led initiative petitions, recently discussed three more bills aiming to modify the process of adopting Constitutional amendments. These bills seek to raise the standards for majority votes, requiring approval in both legislative districts and statewide votes, while one bill proposes increasing the threshold from a simple majority. The goal is to improve the process of citizen-initiated ballot measures by increasing transparency, improving accountability, creating stricter deadlines and rules to ensure verified, legal signatures, and curb outside influence from special interest groups.

Improving Rural Economic Development

The House Committee on Rural Community Development recently considered two bills aimed at enhancing rural economic development in Missouri. This endeavor is vital for rejuvenating and sustaining rural communities, tackling demographic challenges, fostering job creation, diversifying the economy, and enhancing overall quality of life.

HB 2170 introduces the "Missouri Rural Access to Capital Act," promoting economic development by offering tax credits to investors making capital investments in rural funds. The credits start at zero percent for the first two years and rise to 15 percent for the subsequent four years, with an annual cap of $16 million. Rural funds must undergo an approval process, adhere to investment criteria, and could face credit recapture for non-compliance. Eligible businesses must meet specific criteria, and rural funds are required to submit annual reports. The program sunsets on Aug. 28, 2030.

Governor Parson, along with Senator Fitzwater and Reps. Perkins and Doyle hosting Ruby in the Governor's Office.

Obituaries

Robert Harrison Bailey

Robert Harrison Bailey was born Jan. 3, 1944, in Mt. Clemens, Mich., to Ella Barbara Tock and Marlin Nelson Bailey.

The family lovingly remember Robert Bailey, who leaves behind a legacy of warmth, wisdom, and generosity.

He is survived by his wife, Sally; and their children, Carolyn Bailey and Greg Cissell, and Michael Bailey and wife, Amy. Robert was a cherished grandfather to Ella Durbin, Amanda Durbin, Parker Bailey, and Gavin Bailey. He also leaves behind a brother, Dr. Thomas T. Bailey and wife, Judy; and was a caring uncle, great-uncle and admired father figure to many.

He joins his parents and older brother, John M. Bailey in eternal peace.

A proud alumnus of Mt. Clemens High School, class of 1962, Robert furthered his education at Michigan State University. He started his career as an engineer at Continental Motors and later found his calling as a thoughtful and successful insurance professional and business owner. Known for his sage and plentiful advice on any topic, Robert's engineering mindset made him the family's go-to fixer of all things.

An avid outdoorsman, Robert had a true passion for upland bird hunting and fishing in the rivers and Great Lakes of Michigan. His volunteer spirit shone brightly as a youth soccer coach for the RYSL from its inaugural season, celebrating his team's journey to the Pontiac Silver Dome with immense pride.

Robert also dedicated himself to the Kiwanis Clubs of Rochester, Mich., and Fountain Hills, Ariz., where he tirelessly raised funds for local schools. His positive influence was felt at every event, always ready to build a float with the Marian High School Senior girls, carry supplies, sell fry bread, and build relationships with Habitat for Humanity (AZ). He will be deeply missed but forever remembered with love and admiration.

A celebration of Robert's life was held Saturday at Harry's Tavern in Bowling Green. The family memorial was held from 10-11am followed by Family & Friends luncheon from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in honor of Robert H. Bailey to Tunnels for Towers noting the Homeless Veterans Program www.t2t.org.

Martha Jean Bradshaw

Martha Jean Bradshaw, born June 10, 1959 in Grand Rapids, Mich., the fourth daughter of Lynn and Paula Bradshaw, died peacefully on Thursday, Jan. 25, 2024 surrounded by family.

Martha was the embodiment of kindness and generosity, wielding her considerable baking prowess to share delectable treats like chocolate sundae cake, cinnamon rolls, biscuits, and all manner of pies with those she loved.

She was good with numbers, and worked in accounting for most of her career, making forever-friends everywhere she went, from Michigan to Indiana and Missouri. She had a wicked sense of humor and an infectious laugh, as well as bottomless empathy for others.

Her proudest accomplishment was Tessa, the daughter she had with her one-time husband, Dave VanVlerah, who inherited her mother's sweet spirit. Martha also shone as stepmother to Lauren VanVlerah, and never let a trifle like blood-relation stop her from being a mom to whoever needed it.

In addition to Tessa and Lauren, she leaves behind four brothers, Craig, Sam, Ben, and Jim Bradshaw; four sisters, Leslie Bradshaw, Melissa Burla, Amy Vazquez, and Marjorie Bradshaw; her beloved Corgi "Dumpling"; and a truly astonishing number of nieces and nephews.

She was predeceased by her parents, her ex-husband, Dave VanVlerah; and her sister, Ellen Bradshaw.

Countless friends will feel the void Martha leaves behind, which she would recommend they fill with gravy.

A celebration of life will be held on Saturday, March 16 at the home of Mike and Jane Vodohosky at 2 p.m., until the evening. Food and drink will be served with some of Martha's favorite dishes, BYOB. Save the date and join them in celebrating Martha's life.

Donations in memory of Martha can be made to the non-profit Prison Performing Arts at the following link: <https://www.prisonperformingarts.org/support-us>

In 1956, "Charlie" went to work in the chemistry lab for Hercules, Inc., for 35 years. He was a proud member of the Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers Union. He was also a member of the Louisiana Carpenter's Union. Upon retirement in 1992, he followed his passion to be a full-time farmer until his formal retirement in 2002.

He was a long-time member of Grassy Creek Baptist Church where he met his wife, Mary Ann, while her father, Edwin K. Hampton, was pastor. He served in a variety of leadership roles including teaching Sunday school classes, serving as Sunday school director, serving as a deacon, and chair of the deacons. Charles Roy was a member of the local chapter of the Lions Club and was a Gideon. He also served on the Fairview Cemetery Board.

Charles Roy enjoyed a vibrant and fulfilling life. His travels took him to Alaska, Hawaii, Canada, Puerto Rico, France, Italy, Switzerland, Hungary, Austria, and most of the 50 states. He and his wife moved to Kearney in 2005 to be nearer to his family - especially his grandchildren.

He was a life-long learner of trade skills and a handy man extraordinaire. With the help of his father-in-law (to be) he built the house he would move into with his wife and remain during their time in Louisiana.

He learned from working with others and took classes at the vocational school in Eolia to become proficient in heating and air conditioning, auto mechanics, electrical wiring, concrete foundations, welding, and drafting. Along with his wife, with an understanding of the future, he rented a computer long before every household had one, and took computer programming classes in St. Louis.

Charles Roy loved the outdoors and sports. He spent many an afternoon or vacation on the river or lake water-skiing, fishing, and camping. He always owned a boat. He played slow pitch softball for the church softball team playing pitcher and infield. He was a life-long Cardinals fan until his conversion by his grandchildren to a Royals fan after he moved to the Kansas City area.

Though he would not describe himself as such, he was a disciple of the social gospel. His talents and generosity touched many people. He would always greet you with a smile and ask, sincerely, "how are you?"

Pallbearers were Eddy Love, Jake Anderson-Jones, Croy Anderson, Keller Anderson, Myers Anderson, and Hunter Anderson-Jones. Honorary pallbearers were Sawyer Anderson, Briggs Anderson, Tim Booth, Jarrod Green, and Mark Shellhorse.

Memorials may be given to the Fairview Cemetery, Louisiana or donor's choice.
