Secretary Of State Talks About New Voter ID Law

Secretary of State John R. Ashcroft offered a presentation at the Bowling Green Housing Authority last week regarding the state's new voter identification law.

Several area residents attended the presentation to learn more about the law and to hear details about obtaining a state identification card free of charge.

Ashcroft noted that any form of identification that individuals used before will still work under the state's new system, however, there are stipulations about the preferred types of identification. He provided informational handouts and had forms available for those who need to obtain new identification.

He also pointed out that even those who arrive at a polling place on election day with no identification will be allowed to vote with a provisional ballot.

"We need your voice, your vote," Ashcroft said. "We want your voice to be heard. If you're a registered voter, you can vote."

While there are no changes for individuals who vote using an absentee ballot, a new photo voter ID law went into effect on June 1 which outlines the various identification options for voters.

The presentation was part of a larger state-wide effort to make residents aware of the law change and to urge voter registration. The campaign "#ShowIt2Vote" provides complete information about the new law and how residents can get a free photo ID.

According to the new law, the preferred option for voting will be a state driver's license or non-driver license, U.S. passport or military identification.

Vandalia YMCA Location Seeks Help To Finish Fundraising Effort

To be prepared for the possibility of receiving the interest-free project loan through the Rural Economic Development Loan and Grant Program (REDLG), the Vandalia Recreation Corporation reviewed updated construction costs, plus other necessary costs for the Eastern Missouri Family YMCA Project at a July 18, 2017 meeting.

Through the generosity of the community and grants, the YMCA Project has raised $1,658,000. This amount is a remarkable amount to be collected in a small, rural area, but more is needed to actually open the doors for the area to start using the facility.

The current available balance will build a basic YMCA building, but it will not cover the expenses to furnish the facility with exercise equipment, office supplies, and other necessary supplies. In addition, YMCA's are required to have a year's worth of operating costs before opening the facility. Operating costs account for staff wages and benefits, plus utility costs to run the facility.

Having a secure operating balance ensures the YMCA will be successful and capable of paying expenses. Securing proper operating costs before opening a facility is good business practice, plus it is simply the right thing to do.

Below is a summary of the estimated project costs. In order to open the facility, an additional $264,500 needs to be raised.

Building Construction Estimate/Bid - $1,496,700
Architectural and Engineering Expenses for Construction Plan Development and Construction

Inspection - $127,700

Facility Equipment (Fitness, Office, Kitchen, etc.) - $92,500
Operating Expenses for 1-year (Staff wages and benefits, Utilities, etc.) - $205,600

Total Required to Open the YMCA - $1,922,500

Funds Raised

$1,658,000
Additional Funds Required
$264,500

The area should be extremely proud of the efforts to bring this project to its current state. Once notification is received regarding the second phase of the REDLG loan, construction will begin on the building. The YMCA committees are hopeful that notification will come soon.

Young Benefactors Give To Food Pantry

The Louisiana Community Food Pantry has been blessed by some extremely generous young people.

A small, but mighty, Girl Scout troop and the youth group that is sponsored by the First Baptist Church have both gone above and beyond to help the pantry. On Thursday, Aug. 3, the Pantry received gifts from its youngest benefactors to date.

Miss Lylah Diffey heard about the Pantry and its mission to help children have more food to eat. She told her parents that she wanted to use some of her own money to help get food for those who need it. With help from her sister Isabelle and encouragement from her mom and dad, Kyle and Leah Diffey, Lylah delivered tomatoes and a cash donation to the Pantry Thursday evening.

The Pantry is very thankful to the Diffey girls for their extraordinary gift.

Check Out The 2017 Solar Eclipse

BROUGHT TO YOU BY PIKE COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT, HOME HEALTH AND HOSPICE

For the first time in 148 years (August 7, 1869) a total solar eclipse will come to Missouri on August 21, 2017. A total solar eclipse occurs when the moon passes between the sun and earth and completely blocks the sun, and the moon casts a shadow over the earth. The 1869 the eclipse only clipped the northeast corner of our state. The upcoming eclipse promises to be even better as the center of the path will follow a diagonal line crossing Missouri from Buchanan County in the northwest to Perry County in the southeast. Depending upon where you are in the state, the eclipse will begin between 11:30 a.m. and noon until between 2:30 p.m. and 3:00 p.m.

Millions of people will be outside on August 21st to watch the eclipse which is one of nature's grandest spectacles. Looking directly at the sun is unsafe except during the brief phase of the solar eclipse, known as totality. The only safe way to look directly at the un eclipsed or partially eclipsed sun is through special-purpose solar filters, such as eclipse glasses or hand held solar viewers. These may be purchased at Walmart, Amazon, eBay and several other vendors listed online.

Missouri will offer some of the best vantage points in the nation for witnessing this historic event, and many Missouri communities are planning festivals and other events for residents and visitors alike to take advantage of the fact that many Show-Me-State communities are directly in the "path of totality", meaning the areas will experience the longest period of darkness on that Monday afternoon.

According to some estimates, hundreds of thousands of additional visitors could be in the Show-Me-State to catch a glimpse of the eclipse, which will last approximately 90 minutes. This will coincide with summer vacations and the closing weekend of the Missouri State Fair. For this reason, the State Emergency Management Agency, other Department of Public Safety agencies and state and local partners began planning for the eclipse in the spring.

August in Missouri can mean extreme heat or severe weather. Keeping traffic moving smoothly and ensuring reliable communications are also key considerations. As a precaution, the state plans to activate the State Emergency Operations Center in the days leading up to the eclipse. This will allow for immediate state response and coordination if the need arises.

Here are some safety tips to ensure a safe and enjoyable experience for everyone:

- Plan in advance, book ahead, and avoid travel during peak times.
- Check your route, allow extra time and have alternate routes just in case, be patient and check MODOT's Traveler Info Map (<http://traveler.modot.org/map/>).
- Gas up.
- Don't wear "eclipse glasses" when driving.
- Don't stop along interstates or roads or park on the shoulder. Exit the road and find a safe place to stop to watch or photograph the eclipse.
- Prepare for congestion, watch out for extra pedestrians and cyclists.
- Keep your cell phone charged and know how to call for help. On the highway you can reach the Missouri State Highway Patrol at *55. In other locations dial 911.
- Have an emergency kit and plan. Include water, flashlights, batteries, sunscreen, insect repellent, prescription medications, food and a First Aid Kit.
- Have games, books and videos to keep children occupied and be patient since you may encounter traffic and crowds.
- To avoid heat-related illness, stay cool and stay hydrated.
- Share your experience of the 2017 solar eclipse: <https://www.mo.gov/eclipse/#MoEclipse>.

For more information on the eclipse visit <https://greatamericaneclipse.com/> and <http://missourieclipse2017.com/index.php>.

Rotary Installs New Fencing For The Learning Center

The Rotary Club of Bowling Green recently purchased and installed a chain link fence to increase the outdoor play space at The Learning Center.

The new fencing created two sections: one for a garden and one for an open play area.

The Learning Center children have enjoyed playing kickball, wiffle ball and dodge ball in the area designed as open space. They have also used the area to fly kites and to just run.

With the help of families, staff and Kids in Motion, the garden section of the new play space is gradually taking shape. In addition to the vegetable and flower garden, this new space will include a music area, a rock garden, a section for digging and a climbing structure.

Members of the Rotary Club donated hours of labor and materials to install the fence. These new play spaces are enhancing the learning opportunities for the children who attend The Learning Center.

Ashcroft said residents can contact the Secretary of State's office either online or by phone for more information. He noted that all of the forms will be handled free of charge and residents can receive a free photo ID for the purposes of voting.

Organizers of the event pointed out it's good for older individuals to get the most up-to-date information on such an important issue as voting.

Visit www.sos.mo.gov for more information.

From the Mayor's Desk...

Last week I wrote about the upcoming Clarksville OZ Festival which has now been canceled.

I attended the Chamber of Commerce meeting in which the decision was made and listened to the mountains of considerations on the table for discussion. In the end the group assembled made the cancellation decision. The opinions shared coupled with comments from throughout the community brought forth the conclusion that time, money and effort would be better spent preparing for next year rather than at this time, trying to mitigate existing problems.

Clarksville, the original area

JO ANNE SMILEY, MAYOR

In the meantime, a variety of other events await you in Clarksville and we hope you can attend many of them. ## MDC To Eliminate Feral Hogs

When Ken Hobbs bought his 362 acres in Reynolds County, it was pristine and he planned to farm cattle and goats on the land. Then feral hogs moved in. Feral hogs are an aggressive invasive species. Their violent nature, rooting habits, and known diseases pose a threat to wildlife, farm crops, and the balance of nature.

"I had planned until this problem got so big to have cattle and goats in here," Hobbs said. "I'd be afraid to put cattle out there because there's no way I'm going to have a herd of cattle out there without broken legs, it's not going to happen."

The feral hogs didn't only dash Hobbs' hopes of farming his land, they've also significantly decreased the numbers of wildlife that once thrived on the property.

Hobbs first began to try to control the feral hogs by shooting them and enlisting the help of his friends to trap small numbers of them at a time.

Now, on any given night, more than 30 feral hogs will congregate in Hobbs' front yard, leaving scat every foot or so and rooting up his once flat, lush yard into continuous divots. His fields are in even worse shape.

"These spots get rooted eight-to-10 inches, quite often though it's 12, 16, sometimes 18-inches deep," he said.

Those damaged fields, the dashed hopes of farming, and the general destruction Hobbs has endured on his property are why he and other landowners reached out the Missouri

Department of Conservation (MDC) to help. MDC, United States Department of Agriculture and other partner agencies are working with private landowners to teach them how to trap whole sounders of feral hogs at a time, which is more effective than shooting the feral hogs.

Dean Bridger is an Iron County landowner about 20 miles away from Hobbs. Bridger also understands that it's just not possible to control feral hogs by hunting.

But trapping isn't the only strategy that must be used against feral hogs.

Mark McClain, a wildlife management biologist with MDC, is working hard to trap hogs and to pull people together on the effort. McClain leads feral hog elimination efforts in south-east Missouri. He spends a lot of his time with landowners like Hobbs and Bridger, outlining plans to trap the feral hogs on their property. This cooperation between landowners and conservation groups is the key to success in feral hog elimination.

So far in 2017, MDC and partners have removed 4,128 feral hogs from Missouri, which is a great increase from previous years. This is nearly double the progress that was made at the same time in 2016. Increased efforts and better technology continue to show success each year and McClain says MDC and its partners will continue improving until their goal is met.

The following health and safety tips are from the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP).

Making the first day easier:

- Remind your child that she is not the only student who is a bit uneasy about the first day of school. Teachers know that students are anxious and will make an extra effort to make sure everyone feels as comfortable as possible.
- Point out the positive aspects of starting school: It will be fun. She'll see old friends and meet new ones. Refresh her memory about previous years, when she may have returned home after the first day with high spirits because she had a good time.
- Find another child in the neighborhood with who your youngster can walk to school or ride with on the bus.
- If you feel it is appropriate, drive your child (or walk with her) to the school and pick her up on the first day.

TRAVELING TO AND FROM SCHOOL

SCHOOL BUS

- Wait for the bus to stop before approaching it from the curb and do not move around on the bus.
- Check to see that no other traffic is coming before crossing and make sure to always remain in clear view of the bus driver.

BIKE

- Always wear a bicycle helmet, no matter how short or long the ride.
- Ride on the right, in the same direction as auto traffic and always use appropriate hand signals.
- Respect traffic lights and stop signs and wear bright color clothing to increase visibility.
- Know the 'rules of the road.'

WALKING TO SCHOOL

- Make sure your child's walk to a school is a safe route with well-trained adult crossing guards at every intersection.
- Be realistic about your child's pedestrian skills. Because small children are impulsive and less cautious around traffic, carefully consider whether your child is ready to walk to school without adult supervision.
- Bright colored clothing will make your child more visible to drivers.
