Woman Finds Home In Bowling Green After Escaping From Hurricane Harvey

For Rita Webster, timing was everything.

She bought a house in Bowling Green through a program administered by the not-for-profit North East Community Action Corporation (NECAC) after living for 26 years in Texas — leaving the Lone Star State just before Hurricane Harvey swamped her Houston apartment complex.

"The good Lord moved me out of there just in time," said the 56-year-old Hannibal native. "It was like it was supposed to happen."

Webster spent decades in retail and the grocery business, but is now disabled and no longer works. Her mother, Leola Webster, lives in New London and had urged her daughter to move closer to home.

Webster, who had rented her entire life, called NECAC last year after hearing about agency homeownership programs from a Bowling Green sister, Penny Dixon. Webster looked into the USDA Rural Development 502 Direct Loan Program administered by NECAC.

"People told me I couldn't own a home because I'm on a fixed income," she recalled. "They said I should just sign up for housing assistance. The 502 Program is used by income-qualifying people to buy homes in rural areas. Participants must be able to afford the mortgage payments, including taxes and insurance. Loans are for 33 years, with the interest rate set by the lender. There is no down payment."

As part of the program, NECAC offers homeownership classes that teach participants about housing opportunities and financing, obstacles to homeownership, record-keeping, understanding credit, cash flow, meeting with financial institutions, getting a loan, taxes and other topics.

John Henderson's Mark On Impeachment Would Resound Today

Editor's note: The following is the first part of a story by Louisiana author Brent Engel about the role of Pike County lawmaker John Brooks Henderson in the 1868 impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson.

As new talk of presidential impeachment echoes in Washington, focus is cast upon a Pike County lawmaker who sat in judgment of another commander-in-chief 150 years ago.

Missouri U.S. Sen. John Brooks Henderson was one of eight Republicans who voted to acquit Democrat Andrew Johnson in 1868.

The decision cost an impervious Henderson politically. But his character outshone the dubious charges, which were questionable at the time and eerily similar to politically-motivated accusations of the abuse of presidential power being floated today.

Even as he was lobbied by Johnson's supporters and detractors on the 11 articles of impeachment, Henderson had plenty to say about the case, which boiled down to whether the President had the right to oust a cabinet member.

"I do not say the President is void of offense," Henderson said. "I have not said even that he ought not to be impeached and removed from office. But I have said, and I now repeat it with emphasis, that in my judgement a cool and deliberate future will not fail to look with amazement on this extraordinary proceeding as it is now presented to us, and the legal and discriminating minds of the world would visit with deserved condemnation a judgement of conviction on any one of these articles now pending."

As he did during seven years in office, Henderson turned to the Constitution for guidance. He argued the document gave Johnson the "undoubted power" to fire Secretary of War Edwin Stanton and appoint an interim until the Senate confirmed a replacement.

Henderson said the Founding Fathers "clearly and explicitly conceded this power to the President as a constitutional prerogative which could not be controlled or limited by law."

Others weren't so sure. As with so many squabbles past and present, partisan wrangling ignited the Johnson case. Over the President's veto, Congress in March 1867 passed the Tenure of Office Act requiring people confirmed by the Senate to remain in their jobs until successors were approved.

On Feb. 21, 1868, Johnson dismissed Stanton, a holdover from the administration of Republican President Abraham Lincoln. His chosen replacement was career Army officer and Stanton opponent Maj. Gen. Lorenzo Thomas.

Stanton, a Northern native, and the Southern-born Johnson vehemently disagreed on post-Civil War Reconstruction of the former Confederate states. Stanton refused to leave and barricaded himself in his office. He also had Thomas arrested for trying to steal his job.

The Constitution says the President and other civil officers can be removed from office by impeachment when convicted of treason, bribery "or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors."

• Louisiana's Past Looking Forward • Buffalo Fort Offered Early Settlers An Oasis From Danger

It stood for only a few years, but it provided a safe haven for early settlers.

Work on Fort Buffalo began in December 1811 as tensions with the Sac and Fox tribes rose due to British incitement in the buildup to the War of 1812.

The dimensions aren't recorded, but the primitive citadel got its name from the immense herds of bison that French explorer Rene-Robert de La Salle found in the area on his journey along the Mississippi River in 1690. Accounts differ as to whether a creek ran through the fort or flowed nearby. A channel may have been dug to bring water from it.

"Into this fort...more than twenty families were gathered, taking turns guarding and cultivating crops the next year," according to "A History of Northeast Missouri" by Walter Williams.

"The crops raised in this way became common property of all, and though for a while they were permitted to work but little, yet so fruitful was the new cleared soil that no apprehension of famine was ever felt," reported the 1883 book "History of Pike County, Missouri."

Hunting expeditions also proved successful.

"If the earth could be made to yield the bread, the forests could be readily induced to supply the meat," the Pike County book offered. "Deer, turkeys and other game were abundant, and the hunter had little trouble in procuring all the necessities his household might demand."

Families listed as using the fort included those of John and Robert Jordan, Samuel, David, James and John Watson, William McConnell, James Templeton, James Mackey, John Farmer, Thomas Cunningham and Edward Byers.

COMMUNITY NEWS

February Is American Heart Month

It is this time of the year we want to celebrate all great things related to healthy heart and encourage everyone to become a little more heart healthier. Our heart is a very important organ within our body and we need to keep it happy and functioning like a well-oiled machine. Through eating right, exercise and living a stress-free life, we can extend the life of our hearts and bodies.

We all want to see our grandchildren grow up and learn new things, watch them walk across the stage to graduate and have families of their own. All of this can be possible with a few right choices throughout our every day. Do you drive around for five extra minutes looking for that close parking space to the grocery store? Maybe park in the back of the lot and walk in. Not only have you increased your steps for the day, but you also had to push that heavy cart back to your vehicle! Take the stairs instead of using the elevator. You may realize you will get to your destination faster than you would have had you searched for the easy route. Maybe replace one drink a day with a bottle of water. For some of us, the thought of drinking eight cups of water could be unbearable. So let's take it one small baby step at a time and just drink one extra cup today. Maybe choose a salad for lunch just one day a week. Do you eat one salad a week now? Maybe next week you can have two salads! Even with our busy lifestyles we need to take time to add a few heart-healthy changes to our day, so that we will be there for another day tomorrow. By adding in a few extra choices we are keeping our heart healthy and living a healthier lifestyle.

In celebration of American Heart Month, Pike County Health Department will be offering CPR and First Aid classes. CPR and First Aid could be the difference of being here tomorrow or not. By educating more of the public we are increasing our chances of survival in the event of a cardiac arrest. Starting chest compressions within the first 10 seconds of a cardiac arrest and notifying emergency services is crucial to recovery. — Robyn Orf, LPN, Certified CPR & First Aid Trainer

Pike County Health Department offers CPR and First Aid classes throughout the entire year. Feel free to call and register for a class. Below is a list of the classes being offered in February located at our office in the Community Conference Room (side entrance).

Friday, Feb. 16 American Heart Association Basic Life Support for healthcare providers starting at 8:30 a.m.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Being commander of our local VFW Post, I had a disabled veterans with PTSD contact me about the city's proposal to allow fireworks in the city limits on July 4.

Having PTSD he was concerned that he would have to leave town on that day because he would not be able to take the noise produced by the fireworks.

Please reconsider this proposal before making a decision and think of our veterans.

Thank you,
Jim Marshall

Discover Nature Girls Camp

The Missouri Department of Conservation will be offering its 11th annual Discover Nature Girls Camp in Monroe County at Mark Twain Lake State Park.

This free three-day, two-night girls camp is aimed at introducing young ladies ages 11-15 to a wide assortment of outdoors skills in a supportive learning environment. In 2018, the camp will be held July 10, 11, and 12.

Campers spend three fun filled days learning by participating in a "hands on" hunter education class; shooting firearms and archery equipment, walking through a safety trail, climbing a tree stand and taking the hunter education test. Throughout the camp, the girls will participate in a variety of outdoor skills such as canoeing, geocaching, building a campfire and setting up a tent. Campers learn about all aspects of fishing; from fish identification, casting, tying on a hook, filleting fish, and then go fishing. This all occurs in a group setting of their peers, being taught by knowledgeable instructors who make participants comfortable and willing to try new things.

The camp is limited to 60 girls ages 11 to 15 years old. To apply for Discover Nature Girls Camp, please contact the Northeast Regional Office at (660) 785-2420 to request an application. Completed application forms with hunter education knowledge portion must be received no later than May 25, 2018.

There are also opportunities for a camper's mother or female guardian to attend Discover Nature Girls Camp by becoming a chaperone at camp. The role of chaperone is not only a great opportunity to have a memorable experience with their daughter, but also gives them a chance to help others enjoy the outdoors. The camp has openings for 12 chaperones. Applications are available upon request.

State Seeking Organizations To Serve Meals To Children During Summer

The Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services (DHSS) is looking for organizations throughout the state to help feed thousands of children who would otherwise go without meals during the summer months when school is not in session.

The Summer Food Service Program reimburses organizations for meals they serve to children who are at risk of not having enough to eat. The program is one of the ways Missouri is working to fight childhood hunger.

"Preventing food insecurity in children is an important step in improving the health of Missourians," said Dr. Randall Williams, DHSS director. "Without the assistance of organizations across the state many of Missouri's children would go hungry during the summer months. Thank you to all organizations who have participated in the past, and thank you to any organization considering participating this summer. DHSS would be happy to answer any questions an organization may have as they consider participating in this program."

The summer food program provides nutritious meals to children under age 18 during the summer months when school breakfast and lunch programs are not operating.

Organizations eligible to participate in the program include schools, faith-based organizations, camps, private nonprofit agencies and local government entities. The sites are required to be located in areas where at least half of the children are eligible to receive free or the federally funded program is administered by DHSS. The department will accept applications March 1-May 15 to participate in the program. Organizations interested in becoming sponsors are required to attend training.

More information about the Summer Food Service Program is available online at www.health.mo.gov/sfsp, by telephone at 888-435-1464 (toll-free) or through RELAY MISSOURI for the Hearing and Speech Impaired by dialing 711 or 1-800-676-3777. # Both Bowling Green Teams Draw #3 Seed And Will Face Winfield Teams To Kick Off District Action

april@thepeopletribune.com

The Bowling Green teams will take part in the Class 3 District 7 tournament at Winfield next week and both the Bobcats and Lady Cats are seeded third and will take on the host school in the opening round.

The Bobcats will take on (6) Winfield on Saturday, Feb. 17 at 4:30 p.m. Those teams squared off in the Bowling Green Tournament consolation final with the Bobcats coming out on top. If Bowling Green advances, they will face the winner of the opener between (2) Montgomery County and (7) MMA in the semifinal on Tuesday, Feb. 20 at 7 p.m. The championship is slated for Friday, Feb. 23 at 7 p.m.

Coach Cary Bibb said he believes the district is very competitive and that several teams could win it all.

"I am hoping with us getting healthy we can be that team but O'Fallon Christian and Montgomery are definitely the favorites," Bibb explained. "We need to be a better rebounding team and cut out our turnovers to be successful. We are looking forward to the challenge of being in a very competitive district."

The Bobcats defeated Elsberry

last Tuesday, 60-50, after having lost to the Indians in the opening round of the Bowling Green Tournament. The boys also picked up a win over Wellsville last week, 57-53.

The Bobcats are slated to host Clopton tonight (Tuesday, Feb. 13) and then North Callaway on Friday night to end the regular season.

The Lady Cats will take on (6) Winfield in the opening round as well. Bowling Green dismantled the Lady Warriors in the opening round of the Bowling Green Tournament. A win sends the Lady Cats to the semifinal where they will take on the winner of the opener between (2) Lutheran and (7) Wright City on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 7 p.m. The championship is set for Friday, Feb. 23 at 5:30 p.m.

The Lady Cats currently sit at 15-7 for the season. Coach Megan Aubuchon noted the team has gotten better defensively over the course of the season and has made that a staple when game-planning.

"We are still searching for an upset win vs a really good team and we are looking for a chance to do that in district," Aubuchon explained.

The Lady Cats have taken third at the Montgomery County Tournament, third in the Highland Tournament a collected second at the Bowling Green Tournament a couple of weeks ago.

"We got the three seed in our district and play Winfield in the first round. The first seed is Christian and the second seed is Lutheran St. Charles," Aubuchon reduced. "I think that our district is very evenly matched with lots of good competition. I believe that it was ultimately comes down to who comes to compete that night."

The girls took a big win over Elsberry on Monday, 54-43. The Lady Cats also pulled off a huge win over Wellsville, 37-17, on Feb. 9.

"We are excited for the remainder of our conference season and the start of districts," Aubuchon remarked.

The girls are scheduled to host Clopton tonight (Tuesday, Feb. 13) and then North Callaway on Friday to end the regular season.

"It started with a great summer and it has spilled over into the season. We've achieved so many things this year that hasn't been done since Mike was in school. We currently are at 20 wins with two games in the regular season left. We even have an opportunity to win our 1st conference title in 13 years and our 1st conference title involving all the schools (not large/small division title) since 2001 and we have a shot for it to be the 1st outright title since 1976

I believe. We are taking things one day at a time and are focusing on one game at a time," Connaway said.

"Districts this year will be quite a challenge with several good teams in the district this year. We have to face Clopton in the 1st round and they are the team that eliminated us last year so we will be focused to try and eliminate them this year. We just want to be playing our best basketball heading into District week and want to keep playing good defense. We know the road will be tough, but we are trying to get/stay healthy and we plan on being a tough out," Connaway stated.

Van-Far traveled to Wright City last night and will host Clopton on Friday night to end the regular season. That game is slated to be featured on TRIBCAST at www.thepeopletribune.com.

The Lady Indians are seeded seventh and will face (2) Paris in the opening round on Monday, Feb. 19. If they're able to beat the Lady Coyotes, then Van-Far will advance to the semifinal to see the winner of the opener between (3) Clopton and (6) Knox County on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 7 p.m. The championship is on Saturday, Feb. 24 at 4 p.m.

Coach Kelly Borchert said that looking back over the regular season that are there are things she would like to have changed.

"There are definitely some things that we wish would have went differently and games that we didn't win and should have, but with the losses and should have we also had those games that we did pull out a win or play tough against a tough team and with going into districts we know the potential we have and we know what needs to be done to be successful. When it comes down to it you have to bring your best and that is the plan," Borchert explained.

The Lady Indians will end the regular season by hosting Clopton on Friday night to end the regular season. That game is slated to be featured on TRIBCAST.

Bulldogs Seeded Third And Kicks Off Tournament Against Paris; Louisiana Girls Are #5 Seed To Face Scotland Co.

APRIL M. FRONICK • EDITOR
april@thepeopletribune.com

Louisiana will participate in the Class 2 District 6 tournament in Canton next week as the boy's team is seeded third and the girl's team is the five seed.

The Louisiana Bulldogs have drawn the three seed behind Canton and Van-Far and will face off with (6) Paris in the opening round of Class 2 District 6 action at Canton on Tuesday, Feb. 20 at 7 p.m. If the Bulldogs advance they will take on the winner of the matchup between (2) Van-Far and (7) Clopton in the semifinal on Thursday, Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. The championship is slated for Saturday, Feb. 24 at 6 p.m.

Coach Matt Smith said the main focus this week is finishing the remaining conference schedule.

"We are still in the running for the title just can't take any more losses. Looking ahead, I'm excited about how we are playing going into districts if we continue to play well throughout next week. I think the nice thing going into our district game with Paris is that we haven't played them yet. I think the last three out of four years we played South Shelby in the last regular season game of the year as well as the first round district game. I think top to bottom that any team can get beaten in our districts so we have to be playing our best," he concluded.

The Bulldogs are scheduled to host Centralia and then will travel to South Shelby on Friday, Feb. 16 to round out the season.

The Lady Bulldogs are seeded fifth and will square off with (4) Scotland County in the opening round on Monday, Feb. 19 at 8:30 p.m. If they win they will advance to the semifinal to face the winner of the opener between (2) Paris and (7) Van-Far on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 5:30 p.m. The championship is set for Saturday, Feb. 24 at 4 p.m.

Coach Jamie Boyd says she's proud of the way the girls have battled and improved over the course of the season.

"The team as a whole is shooting much better and playing as a stronger team. We are continuing to make improvements and adjustments on the large and small scale as a team. Looking to the future and districts, we have a tough opening round. Our plan is compete at the best of our ability and work hard throughout the rest of the season," Coach Boyd stated.

The Lady Bulldogs will end the regular season by hosting Centralia and then will travel to South Shelby on Friday, Feb. 16 to finish it up.

Clopton Girls Kick Off Districts Against Knox Co. As #3; Hawks Will Battle Tough Van-Far Team In District Opener

APRIL M. FRONICK • EDITOR
april@thepeopletribune.com

Clopton teams will compete in the Class 2 District 6 tournament at Canton next week.

The Clopton Lady Hawks will start the week of district action in Class 2 District 6 at Canton as the number three seed. They will take on (6) Knox County in the opening round which takes place on Monday, Feb. 19 at 4 p.m.

If the Lady Hawks advance to the semifinal, they will take on the winner of the game between (2) Paris and (7) Van-Far. The semifinal is set for Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 7 p.m. The championship game is Saturday, Feb. 24 at 4 p.m.

Coach Deaven Streed pointed out the season has been up and down but added she's been very pleased with the growth they've demonstrated.

"We have had the ability to play some really good competition throughout our conference as well as some of the non-conference games we have been able to pick up. We were able to play a couple really competitive Illinois teams in shoot-outs as well as a really good Warrenton team in recent weeks. The girls and I have experienced our share of 'growing pains' as I call them, through learning our team roles and embracing changes while also learning to play together in our new roles," she said.

"We've had some really high points during the season and some lows but all in all I feel like we have rallied through adversity and have learned what it takes to be successful. We hope to end the last week of season on a high note and hopefully carry that over to the beginning of districts."

The Lady Hawks will finish out the regular season at Bowling Green tonight (Tuesday, Feb. 13) and then at Van-Far on Friday, Feb. 16. That game is slated to be featured on TRIBCAST.

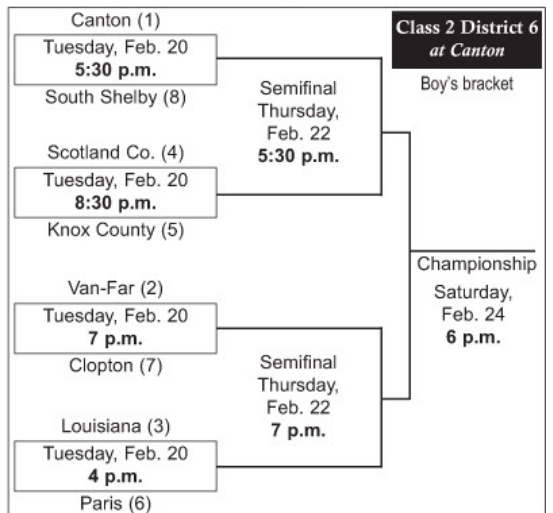

The Clopton Hawks drew the number seven seed and will kick off the tournament against (2) Van-Far on Tuesday, Feb. 20 at 7 p.m. If Clopton advances to the semifinal they will take on the winner of the opener between (3) Louisiana and (6) Paris on Thursday, Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. The championship game is slated for Saturday, Feb. 24 at 6 p.m.

Coach Craig Smith noted it's a competitive district.

The district has some strong teams at the top with Canton, Louisiana, and Van-Far. Scotland

Co and Knox are teams that will make it tough for their opponents in the 1st 2 rounds. 6-8 seeds sound like they are on the up swing and playing their best at the right time. As for us we are starting to put things together and having some players take a bigger role and flourishing in those roles. If we can get contributions from those players to help Landon on both ends I believe we could surprise some people and give ourselves a chance to play for a trophy. It will be tough we will play Van-Far 2x in less than a week, with one of those contests being a win or go home game. I am pleased with our players and how they have responded at times this year. It is tough to stay engaged when things are not going your way. This will make them stronger people for later in life when tough times encounter them. Thanks for all the coverage this year and the past I know the players appreciate it as well as us coaches," Smith concluded.

The Hawks will also end the regular season at Bowling Green tonight (Tuesday, Feb. 13) and then at Van-Far on Friday, Feb. 16. That game is slated to be featured on TRIBCAST.

FORT

What may have been the first wedding in Pike County took place in the fort. Again, accounts vary, but Peter Brandon and Mary McConnell likely took their vows in 1812 from either John Jordan or Samuel Watson. The Northeast Missouri book says Brandon was "one of the soldiers" who participated in the war.

Peace ensued until March 30, 1813, when 41-year-old Capt. Robert Jordan and his 22-year-old son, James McGee Jordan, were shot as they returned from working in the fields. Some accounts list the son's age as 17, but cemetery records have him as being born in 1791.

Shortly before her death at age 68 in 1915, Caroline Maria Coulter Jordan described an ominous premonition James Jordan apparently had.

"The morning the boy was killed, he begged his mother to cut his hair short, so if killed by Indians they would not scalp him," she wrote. "They did not, but scalped his father."

Two family members heard the gunfire and found the bodies. They speculated the British or French had supplied the guns.

The April 10, 1813, edition of the Missouri Gazette, one of the region's first newspapers, reported on the murders. It said "there are several small bodies of Indians in that tract of country between the Illinois and Mississippi (rivers) who are constantly watching the settlements and a very numerous collection preparing to burst into that country, and may be expected early next month." The prediction seemingly proved correct.

"The murderous Indians were on the war-path, and the safety of the white man depended alike upon his caution and skill," the Pike County book says. "But the greatest care was sometimes without avail, as the settlers were occasionally waylaid and shot down near their homes and in their fields."

"The people were now thoroughly alarmed and requested Governor (William) Clark at St. Louis to send soldiers for protection," Williams wrote.

Meanwhile, families took refuge inside the fort.

"Here they were a long time confined and forced to a dreary, monotonous life," the Pike County book noted. "Still they bore their hardships with that heroism characteristic of the early settlers, and seldom complained of their hard fate, but each did his or her best to encourage the other, while all found in their confinement some degree of social enjoyment."

Samuel Watson pleaded with Clark, who just seven years earlier had returned with Meriwether Lewis and the Corps of Discovery after exploring the Louisiana Territory. Clark turned down the request for staffing the fort, but agreed to have troops protect families who would abandon it and come to St. Louis.

Matters were made worse when the wife of James O'Neil and their nine children were killed and scalped near what would become Clarksville. O'Neil survived only because he at the time was attending a meeting about how to best defend settlers' homes.

Fort Buffalo was torn down in 1815, the year the War of 1812 ended. Many of the families that left for St. Louis returned after the massacres and established the towns of Clarksville and Louisiana.

The Jordans were buried where they were killed in what is now known as Buffalo Cemetery, which is accessible today. A marker was placed at the fort site by the Pike County chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in July 1917.

In addition, a mural depicting the fort hangs on the south outer wall of The Mercantile Bank of Louisiana.

HENDERSON

On Feb. 24, 1868, the House of Representatives overwhelmingly voted that Johnson's firing of Stanton qualified.

Among those casting a ballot with the majority was Civil War veteran and Missouri Republican Congressman George Washington Anderson, a native of Johnson's home state of Tennessee and a Pike County lawyer who knew Henderson well.

Anderson would play a key role in lobbying the senator, even as he faced questions about the legitimacy of his election to office.

Next time: Henderson is called "a man of superior ability and unblemished character" who was "a refreshing contrast" to members of his party who were out to get the President.

PCMH Athletic Trainer Ryan Pitzer Helps YMCA Lifeguards Save A Swimmer

Being at the right place at the right time can also mean choosing to do the right thing.

Ryan Pitzer was recently in that very position. He was at the YMCA running on the track on the upper level over the pool. He happened to notice the life guard jump into the water and pull a swimmer from the pool. He then heard the call for help and for someone to call 911.

Ryan, an Athletic Trainer

Certified, is also a certified CPR instructor at PCMH. He assisted the two YMCA life guards with CPR on the non-responsive swimmer.

While waiting for EMS crews to arrive on scene, Ryan quickly set up the YMCA's AED (Automated external defibrillator). After continued CPR and delivering two shocks with the AED, success at last! The swimmer was responsive!

"Having this knowledge from being a CPR instructor, you do this over and over again in class. This has prepared me for times just like this. I would encourage everyone that they should take a CPR course. Life is precious - you never know when you may need to use this skill!" said Ryan Pitzer.

PCMH is very thankful to Ryan for being a good Samaritan. Way to go Ryan Pitzer!

HURRICANE

Each year, NECAC homeownership programs put more than 50 families on the road to a house purchase. In addition to USDA Rural Development, the agency works in partnership with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the Federal Home Loan Bank, NeighborWorks America, Rural LISC, the St. Louis HOME Consortium and other organizations to provide home-ownership opportunities in Missouri, Illinois and Iowa.

Webster looked at several houses in Bowling Green before she found one on East Main Street.

It's perfect," she said. "I fell in love with it right away, especially the kitchen because it's so big."

Webster's mother and another sister, Patsy Whitley, drove to Texas and helped her pack. The three left Houston the night Harvey hit the Gulf Coast.

"We got out just ahead of them turning the highways counterflow, where all you can do is go north," Webster said.

The trio arrived back in Missouri Aug. 20. NECAC Homeownership Programs Director Alicia Lopez hopes

Webster serves as a role model for others who would like to buy a home through the 502 program.

"It was a pleasure working with such an admirable woman," Lopez said. "Rita is an inspiration and example that realizing the dream of homeownership is possible to many who think it's not."

Webster, who has three grown children and nine grandchildren and shares her home with an enthusiastic black cocker spaniel named "Shadea," encourages others to take the leap of faith and call NECAC at 573-324-6622.

"Don't let people tell you that you can't do it," she said. "You can do anything you set your mind to."
