United Fund Of Calumet Township Seeks New Leaders To Help in Goals

The United Fund of Calumet Township was started in 1960 by a group of individuals whose goal was to financially help organiza-tions which benefitted people in their community.

It has helped children by supporting Khoury League, Early Childhood Education and After School Programs. It has bolstered community resources such as the Raintree Arts Council, Clarksville Library and the Inter-Church Council. Distributions to Pike Pioneer and OATS have helped keep our seniors in their homes. The fund has evolved and adapted as community needs have changed. For example, when Clarksville Khoury League no longer functioned, that money was sent to Eolia's Athletic Association to continue serving the children. Well over 100 volunteers have guided and supported the United Fund of Calumet Township over the years.

Work To Begin On Missouri Approach, Retaining Wall For New Bridge

Over the last several months, much of the work to build a new Champ Clark Bridge has been in the Mississippi River. While work will continue to progress to build the piers for the new bridge. one element of construction will soon be more visible on land - the work on the Missouri approach, including the new retaining wall

"The new bridge is being built just south of the existing bridge and will come into Missouri near the rock bluff behind the Ayerco station," said Michael Massman, design-build coordinator for the construction company. "To make room for the new approach, crews will remove some of the bluff and secure the remaining portion to ensure it stays intact for decades to come," he explained.

The excavation of the bluff and work on the retaining wall work does not limit traffic, but since it is a tight area between the bridge and the intersection, Massman asks drivers to watch for trucks entering and exiting the work

Earlier this year, Massman asked for input from the public, and with more than 500 people weighing in, the color rosemary and the pattern ledgestone were selected.

An example of what the selected options will look like is available on the construction page of the Champ Clark Bridge web site.

She was preceded in death by her parents, a son, Freddie Borndes; granddaughter, DeSjeun Kitchen of Marathon, Fla.; and six siblings

Ruth grew up in Curryville until the age of 16 when she moved to Salt Lake City, Utah for school. After she married she moved to Detroit, Mich., and had three children.

After divorcing she returned to Curryville in 1971 to care for her parents until their deaths. She became a Jehovah Witness at the age of 16 and devoted her life to teaching people what the bible says about the hope for the dead and the benefits of Christ's ransom sacrifice.

She fondly remembers hearing Judge Rutherford at her first convention in 1941 in St. Louis and receiving her children's book. Her joy was to teach the truths from the Bible.

She has remained active in the Bowling Green congregation as much as her health would allow.

Ruth loved to quilt, paint, garden and care for her flowers and wild greens. She will be fondly remembered and dearly missed.

Tebeau and Heap were named first and second alternate, respectiveshould any of the students be unable to attend.

This year's National Youth Tour will take place June 8-14. The seven-day youth tour provides an action-filled week for delegates, offering them opportunities to learn firsthand what it is like to be involved in politics, leadership positions, community service and today's pressing issues

Missouri's youth tour delegates will visit with representatives from their congressional districts and tour famous monuments, the Smithsonian Institution's museums and Arlington National Cemetery. Cuivre River Electric fully funds the participation of its delegates. There is no cost to students or families.

"We are dedicated to serving our communities where our members work and live, through exceptional service and a number of education, outreach and leadership programs," said Tim Schmidt, Youth Tour coordinator, "Each summer, the Youth Tour program provides six students from our service area a chance to visit our nation's capital and learn more about government, leadership and cooperatives. We are excited for this year's delegates to experience what many describe as a trip of a lifetime."

More than 100 students from 10 schools entered the preliminary stage of competition by submitting an essay. The top 12 students won the opportunity to advance to the final competition. In the final stage students took a cooperative knowledge quiz and presented their essays oral-

This year's topic was "What Do Cooperatives Mean to My Community?" Scores from all three contest seaments were combined to select the delegates and scholarship recipients.

Three teachers were recognized for submitting at least 10 student essays and were presented a $50 classroom grant at the Aug. 11 banclassroom grant at the Aug. 11 ban-quet. They were Amanda Franke and Kristine Heimburger, both of Warrenton High School; and Sonya Borders, Liberty High School. Since 1964, Cuivre River has sponsored over 200 youth tour dele-gates for visits to Washington, D.C. More than 53,000 high school stu-dents sponsored by the nation's elec-dents sponsored by the nation's elec-tric cooperatives have participated in the youth tour since the educational leadership program began.

The annual contest is open to high school juniors who live and attend school in Cuivre River's general ser-vice area, or who have Cuivre River Electric service in their homes.

Home Run Against Hunger -MO Farm Bureau Teams Up

With 947,900 Missourians labeled as "food insecure" according to the Map the Meal Gap 2015 study, Missouri Farm Bureau Insurance recognizes the need to obtain and distribute food to hungry families across the state.

For the third consecutive year, insurance agents are accepting donations from April 16, 2018 to May 11, 2018 at their local offices to be distributed to one of the over ,500 Feeding Missouri agencies located in their communities

While most non-perishable donations are appreciated, there are some types of food items that allow local pantries to best meet the needs of the communities they These items include: canned tuna or chicken, boxed or bagged pasta, canned soup or chili, boxed crackers, peanut butter, fruit snacks and instant mashed potatoes. Monetary donaencouraged as well. All checks collected stay in the region and are reserved specifically for children experiencing food insecurity in their homes. According the Map the Meal Gap 2015 study, 258,610 Missouri children are experiencing food insecurity.

In the final weeks of May, each Missouri Farm Bureau Insurance office will take the donations to a local pantry to be weighed. A statewide grand total of donations in pounds will be announced along with the total monetary donations. Last year's efforts gar-nered nearly 10 tons of food and $4,000 for child food programs.

Please drop off non-perishable food donations or checks made payable to one of the six major Feeding Missouri food banks between April 16, 2018 and May 11, 2018 at 19 North Business Highway 61, Bowling Green, MO 63334, the office of Missouri Farm Bureau Insurance Agent, Holly Delgman – Pike County

The OATS group will also discuss their next Fundraiser to be held on Friday, May 11 at Crossroads lot in

Please try to attend if you can.

Agape House To Have Landscape Repairs In the regular April 17 meeting the board of directors, Agape House of Vandalia, members discussed having some repair work done on the shrubs and grasses at the front entrance. Paving stones will replace the existing trim. Additionally, weather stripping will be replaced at the front entrance and the storage-shed door will be repaired.

Guest surveys were entirely positive, both of the guesthouse and its management. The quarterly inspection of the house revealed a need for minor repairs to paint and wallpaper. Otherwise the and wallpaper. facility was found to be in excellent condition.

The house manager reported 40 guests had stayed at the house in March, including 13 children.

Board members were glad to learn that so many children had visited parents or other relatives in the local correctional facilities.

Board treasurer, Veanna Snodgrass, reported the annual audit had been completed with no problems noted.

Carlene Galloway, president, reminded members of the need for a substitute house manager.

Board members in attendance were Galloway, Janet Heim, Karen Holbrook, Sterling Holbrook, Linda Klug, Kay Robnett and Snodgrass.

Monetary gifts received in March include the following: Edgewood Baptist Church of Bowling Green; Ramsey Creek Baptist Church of Clarksville;

Centralia; Curryville Church and Elm Grove Baptist Church of Curryville; Farber Baptist Church; Grand Crossings Baptist Association of Fulton; Nancy White of Kansas; Mary Scheffler of Kirkwood; St. Peter' Lutheran Ladies' Aid and LWML of LaGrange; Lockewood Park Baptist Church and Friendship Baptist Church of Mexico; Santa Fe Christian Church; Hopewell Baptist Church and John Yost of Thompson; and Southside Baptist Church, First Baptist Church, First Presbyterian Church, and First Christian Church, all of Vandalia.

Non-monetary gifts included postage stamps by John Yost of Thompson.

MO Agriculture Photo Contest Captures Best Of Farm, Rural Life

The Missouri Department of Agriculture today launched the 9th annual Focus on Missouri Agriculture photo contest, asking Missourians to share the unique stories and images of agriculture through photographs. The contest, which runs through June 15, is an opportunity for amateur photographers across the state to submit their best images of Missouri agri-culture. That image may take shape through a breathtaking farm landscape, an aerial shot of harvest, a farm tractor that has been in the family for years or a fun moment showcasing farm life captured on a mobile device

The longevity of this photo atest has allowed the contest Department to see amazing growth, in a variety of ways," said Director of Agriculture Chris Chinn. "Families have expanded and evolved, young toddlers have grown into teenagers, and land-scapes have blossomed. Despite all that change, the heart of agriculture remains the same, and it continues to be tell the legacy of Missouri agriculture.'

The Focus or on Agriculture Photo Contest is open to Missouri's amateur photographers of all ages. Participants may enter up to three photos in each of the six categories. The photo contest categories are: Beauty of the Farm, Faces of the Farm, The Farmer's Life, Pride of the Farm and Farm Selfie. Children's Barnyard, a special category for budding photographers ages 12 and under, is back for the 9th annual contest as well.

Entries will be judged on visual impact, creativity, memorable content and image quality.

The contest offers prizes and many chances to win thanks to the Missouri Department of Agriculture's Missouri Grown program. A $50 Missouri Grown Market gift certificate will be awarded to the first place winner in each of the six categories. A Ag

Missouri Grown Market gift certificate, valued at $100, will be awarded to the Best of Show. Category winners and Best of Show will also receive profession-al canvas prints of their winning Winners will be announced in mid-July, and winning images will be displayed during the Missouri State Fair in the Agriculture Building, Aug. 9-19, 2018.

To submit your photos, go to agriculture.mo.gov/focus and complete the online form. A complete list of rules and guidelines can be found on the same page. Photos submitted to the contest will be placed on the contest website and available on the depart-ment's Flickr stream. Photos must be submitted by June 15

Synthetic Cannabinoids, Henatitis A Could Be Fatal Combination

On April 9 the Missouri thetic cannabinoids also causing Department of Health and Senior Services (DHSS) issued a news release 'Use of Synthetic Cannabinoids Linked to Severe Bleeding in the US" informing the public about the national outbreak of bleeding illnesses among those consuming synthetic cannabi-noids which appear to have been contaminated with a long-acting anticoagulant usually used in rodenticides. The press release indicated that one person in Missouri was considered a part of the growing national outbreak.

Further investigation revealed the Missouri case's exposure to the synthetic ed in the cannabinoid Missouri, an area already hard hit with the outbreak of hepatitis A. Many of the outbreak cases are among people who are homeless and/or people who use injection and non-injection drugs. Because all coagulation factors are made in the liver, severe liver disease, including hepatitis A, may disturb blood clotting abilities by impairing clotting factor production in the liver. The presence of liver injury due to hepatitis A, and the simultaneous exposure to the syncoagulation disorder, may put a person at even greater risk of potentially fatal bleeding than patients using synthetic cannabinoids without having hepatitis. Physicians should ask patients who present with unexplained bleeding and coagulopathy about cannabinoid Physicians evaluating patients for hepatitis should also ask about the synthetic cannabinoid use. These substances are not detected on a routine urine toxicology screen.

Synthetic cannabinoids are known by various names, including K2, spice, legal weed, fake weed, synthetic marijuana, and many local "brand" names such as King Kong. If you have acquired synthetic cannabinoid product, do

garette Use Among Youth, Young Ad

BROUGHT TO YOU BY PIKE COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT, HOME HEALTH AND HOSPICE

This Surgeon General's report comprehensively reviews the public health issue of e-cigarettes and their impact on U.S. youth and young adults. Studies highlighted in the report cover young adolescents (11-14 years of age); adolescents (15-17 years of age); and young adults (18-25 years of age). Scientific evidence contained in this report supports the following facts:

E-cigarettes are a rapidly emerging and diversified product class. These devices typically deliver nicotine, fla-vorings, and other additives to users via an inhaled aerosol. These devices are referred to by a variety of names, including "e-cigs," e-noonale, "mods," "vape pens," "vapes," and

E-cigarettes are battery-powered devices that heat a liquid into an aerosol that the user inhales.

The liquid usually has nicotine, which comes from tobacco, flavoring, and other additives.

E-cigarette products can also be used as a delivery system for marijua-na and other illicit drugs.

E-cigarettes are now the most commonly used tobacco product among youth, surpassing convention-al cigarettes in 2014. E-cigarette use is strongly associated with the use of other tobacco products among youth and young adults, including cigarettes and other burned tobacco products.

In 2015, more than 3 million youth in middle and high school, including about 1 of every 6 high school stu-dents, used e-cigarettes in the past month. More than a quarter of youth in middle and high school have tried e-

Among high school students, ecigarette use is higher among males, whites, and Hispanics than among females and African-Americans.

There is a strong association between the use of e-cigarettes, cigarettes, and the use of other burned tobacco products by young people. In 2015, for example, nearly six out of 10 high school cigarette smokers also used e-cigarettes. Research has found that youth who use a tobacco product, such as e-cigarettes, are more likely to go on to use other tobacco products like cig-

E-cigarette use among youth and young adults has become a public health concern. In 2014, current use of e-cigarettes by young adults 18-24 years of age surpassed that of adults 25 years of age and older.

Among young adults 18-24 years of age, e-cigarette use more than doubled from 2013 to 2014. As of 2014, more than one-third of young adults had tried e-cigarettes.

The most recent data available show that the prevalence of past 30-day use of e-cigarettes was 13.6 percent among young adults (2014) and 16.0 percent among high school students (2015).

The most recent data available shows that the prevalence of past 30day use of e-cigarettes is similar among middle school students (5.3 percent) and adults 25 years of age and older (5.7 percent).

Among young adults, e-cigarette use is high among males, whites, Hispanics, and those with less education.

The use of products containing nicotine poses dangers to youth, pregnant women, and fetuses. The use of products containing nicotine in any form among youth, including erettes, is unsafe.

Many e-cigarettes contain nicotine, which is highly addictive.

The brain is the last organ in the human body to develop fully. Brain development continues until the early to mid-20's. Nicotine exposure during periods of significant brain developrupt the growth of brain circuits that control attention, learning, and susceptibility to addiction.

Ingestion of e-cigarette liquids containing nicotine can cause acute toxi-city and possible death if the contents of refill cartridges or bottles containing nicotine are consumed.

E-cigarette aerosol is not harmless. It can contain harmful and potentially harmful constituents including nicotine. Nicotine exposure during adolescence can cause addiction and can harm the developing adolescent

The constituents of e-cigarette liguids can include solvents, flavorants, and toxicants.

The aerosol created by e-cigarettes can contain ingredients that are harmful and potentially harmful to the public's health, including: nicotine, ultrafine particles, flavorings such as diacetyl, a chemical linked to serious lung disease, volatile organic com-pounds such as benzene, which is found in car exhaust, and heavy metals, such as nickel, tin and lead.

E-cigarettes are marketed by promoting flavors and using a wide variety of media channels and approach-es that have been used in the past for marketing conventional tobacco products to youth and young adults. E-cigarettes are an estimated $3.5 BILLION business in the United States. In 2014, e-cigarette manufacturers spent $125 million advertising their products in the U.S.

In 2014, more than 7 of 10 middle and high school students said they had seen e-cigarette advertising.

source of this advertising, followed by the internet, TV and movies, and magazines and newspapers.

The 2012 Surgeon General's Report on tobacco use among youth and young adults found that tobacco product advertising causes young people to start using tobacco prod-ucts. Much of today's e-cigarette advertising uses approaches and themes similar to those that were used to promote conventional tobacco

E-cigarettes are available in a wide variety of flavors, including many that are especially appealing to youth. More than 85 percent of e-cigarette users ages 12-17 use flavored e-cigarettes, and flavors are the leading reason for youth use. More than nine out of 10 young adult e-cigarette users said they use e-cigarettes flavored to like menthol, alcohol, fruit, chocolate, or other sweets.

Action can be taken at the national, state, local, tribal and territorial levels to address e-cigarette use among youth and young adults. Actions could include incorporating e-cigarettes into smoke free policies, preventing access to e-cigarettes by youth, price and tax policies, retail licensure, regulation of e-cigarette marketing likely to attract youth, and educational initiatives targeting youth and young ban on vending machine sales unless in adult-only facilities and a ban on free samples and sales to minors.

Parents, teachers, health care providers, and others who influence youth and young adults can advise and inform them of the dangers of nicotine, discourage youth tobacco use in any form, including e-cigarettes, and set a positive example by being tobacco-free themselves.

Newly Engaged? What's The Next Step?

Making the commitment to live life with another person is a large step. It marks the beginning of your future together.

Planning a wedding can be big undertaking. Many times the course of planning from the moment of engagement to the wedding day can stretch over several years. It requires patience, budgeting and organization. A wedding binder or filing system can help keep receipts and information all in one place. Additionally, use these steps as guidelines for your own event.

1. Engagement party: Many couples enjoy having an engagement party to announce that they're planning a life together. Engagement parties are receptions on a smaller scale. It's not necessary to invite all of the guests you'd be inviting to the wedding unless you have the budget to do so. Keep it to immediate family, including grandparents, aunts and uncles and first cousins. You may also want to invite close friends. If finances are an issue, consider a brunch or a cocktail party with passed appetizers instead of a full sit-down dinner.

2. Set the date: Once you decide you're getting married, you should consider when you want the big day to occur. This can depend on what month of the year you enjoy or when you think you may have saved enough to cover the cost of the wedding itself. Prime months include the spring and summer. If you want to have your wedding relatively soon, you may find that certain dates are already booked up for houses of worship and reception halls. Choose an off-peak time of the year, such as January, March, November or December, instead.

3. Establish a budget: The scope of your wedding will depend largely upon what you can afford. Many of today's average weddings range from $25,000 to $35,000. Make a list of all the costs you will have: wardrobe, clergy fees, reception hall, flowers, photography, gifts for wedding party, transportation, honeymoon, etc. Figure that the majority of the costs will be around $2,000 each (excluding the reception site, honeymoon and ceremony). Seeing the end cost will help you develop a plan for saving. Keep in mind that many of the payments and deposits are made over time, so you won't have to come up with the lump sum all at one time.

4. Wedding sites: Once you have a date and budget, your next step is to make arrangements with the church, synagogue or other place where the ceremony will take place. Most houses of worship prefer you secure the day with them before booking your reception site. Many places book a year or more in advance, so it is important to shop around and secure your locations as soon as possible. When looking at reception locations, it helps to have a preliminary idea of how many people you'll be inviting to the wedding so you can compare costs and decide on room sizes. Certain places offer lower rates for Friday and Sunday than Saturday night. This can help to keep your reception more budget-friendly.

5. Photography, Music, Flowers, Limos, Hairstylist: Some wedding vendors book up as fast as reception sites, particularly if they come well recommended. Secure your date for services with these people shortly after you reserve your ceremony and reception site. Vendors will likely require a deposit and balance paid before the wedding.

6. Wardrobe: The ladies in the wedding will need to browse for and decide on gowns roughly 6 to 8 months before the wedding. This allows time for the dresses to be ordered and alterations to be made. Gentleman can typically shop for tuxedo rentals a month before the wedding.

7. Registry: If you want to select gifts from a specific store, register for them as far in advance as possible. This way if people want to give you gifts from the registry in advance of the wedding, they'll know what to choose. Definitely register by 2 to 3 months before the wedding, because this is when the bridal shower is typically held.

8. Stationery: Order your invitations, save-the-date cards, etc. 5 to 6 months before the wedding so you have time to check the proofs and ensure they're printed correctly. Wedding invitations are usually mailed out 1 to 2 months prior to the event. It is customary to stamp the RSVP card so that guests simply put it in the mail.

 Religious requirements: Some houses of worship require classes or retreats before a wedding ceremony to prepare the couple for marriage in a religious sense. Make sure these tasks are completed.

10: Honeymoon: It used to be the groom's task to book the honeymoon, but most couples do it together these days. Book the honeymoon and apply for passports if necessary, several months in advance.

11. Seating arrangements: This can be one of the most challenging parts of wedding planning. Once the majority of your RSVPS are in hand, you'll want to think about seating. Most reception halls will give you a seating map that you can use to determine seating. If you are a visual person, you may want to enlarge the map and actually cut out the names of guests to stick and re-stick in different areas of the room until the seating is just right. There are also computer programs that can help you with seating tasks.

12. Balances due: In the last months to weeks before the wedding, most balances will be due for the services. The reception hall will want a final seating count and you will be picking up your gown. When paying these balances, it's also a good idea to confirm with musicians, photographers and limo companies.

13. Rehearsal: Set a rehearsal a week prior to the wedding or within a few days before. This gives everyone a trial run. A dinner is customary following the rehearsal.

14. The big day: Rest up the night before and organize all of your wardrobe, honeymoon packing and then get set for one of the most momentous days of your life.

Master The Wedding Save-The-Date

Many couples' weddings take more than a year to plan. Couples want all of the special people in their lives to witness their vows, and giving guests advance notice can ensure as many loved ones as possible attend the ceremony.

To be certain that guests have ample

To be certain that guests have ample notice to clear their schedules, many couples now turn to save-the-date cards, which announce weddings well in advance of the actual wedding day. Save-the-date cards once were reserved save-the-date cards once were reserved only for weddings that required travel or special circumstances, such as destination weddings. But such cards have now become commonplace for all weddings. That's because many people plan vacations or business trips anywhere from four to six months in advance. Busy people require plenty of notice to include this important date on their calendars, particularly when wedding dates fall during popular travel seasons or around the holidays.

Kleinfeld Bridal, a premiere New York bridal boutique, says that save-the-date cards are typically mailed six to eight months prior to the wedding, though some are sent as early as a year before the big day. Once a date and a location is secured, save-the-dates can be ordered and mailed.

Save-the-date cards require couples to assemble their guest lists well in advance of the wedding. The leading bridal resource The Knot notes that everyone who will get a wedding invitation should also receive a save-the-date card. There's no turning back once cards are sent, so couples will need to be certain everyone they want to attend is getting advanced notice.

It's acceptable to mail save-the-date cards even if some wedding day details are still up in the air. Guests really only need to know the date and location of the wedding. Couples also can use the save-the-date card to direct invitees to a wedding website where guests can learn the details of the wedding as they unfold.

RSVP information does not need to be

RSVP information does not need to b included on the save-the-date card.

Save-the-date cards are much less formal than invitations, so couples can have fun with them. They can showcase couples' clever personalities or funny quirks. Keep in mind it is in poor taste to mention gifts or registries on save-the-date cards. There will be plenty of time to direct guests to registries later on.

Couples are increasingly turning to savethe-date cards when planning their weddings to make sure busy friends and family will have enough time to make plans to attend their weddings.

DID YOU KNOW?

It's well known that weddings can be expensive. But just how much money defines expensive? Although couples ultimately control how much they spend on their wedding, the average cost of the main ingredients to a wedding indicate that many couples prefer to splurge for their special day.

Reconnect During Wedding Planning

Wedding planning can be intense and often requires dedication and many hours of work. Coordinating a wedding often requires that couples make many different decisions and spend a considerable amount of time in the weddingplanning trenches.

Couples expend so much energy planning their weddings that it can be easy to lose sight of the bigger picture - namely the relationship that is the basis for the marriage in the first place. But as easy as it can be to get lost in wedding planning, couples can use this time together to connect on a deeper level and learn to work cooperatively.

· Divide and conquer. Separate wedding planning duties so that both of you feel you are contributing equally and no one person gets overly stressed out. Stress can lead to short tempers and arguments.

planning be all-consuming. Schedule days that allow you to enjoy yourselves together without having to think about or discuss your pending nuptials. This may include date nights that may have fallen by the wayside since getting engaged or periodic day trips to get away from it Explore your mutual hobbies or try something new.

Learn to laugh at the little things. Not every detail will go off without a hitch. How you react as a couple may influence how much you enjoy your wedding. Recognize that certain things will not go your way, but that unforeseen circum-stances will not ruin your wedding day, no matter how unpleasant they may seem. Laugh at what cannot be changed and recognize that, in the long run, the details you think are major today may actually prove trivial when you look back on your wedding day in the years to come.

TIPS FOR WRITING YOUR OWN WEDDING VOWS

for many couples, so brides and grooms wish for the event to be momentous and memorable. As such, couples are increasingly integrating personal nuances into their ceremonies and receptions to tailor weddings to their unique visions. The desire to include personalized wedding vows continues to be a popular trend.

If you are considering personalized wed-ding vows, first realize that it may not be a simple task. That's because you want the message conveyed to be dear to your heart, and that can be challenging when faced with the pressures and planning of the rest of the wedding. That isn't to say that writing your own vows is impossible. Here are some guidelines for personalizing your ceremony with your own sentiments

* Schedule time for writing. Amid the bustle of dress fittings and interviews with photographers, it can be easy to put off the important task of writing vows for another day. But as any great writer can attest, it takes writing -- and rewriting -- to achieve a finished product you can be proud of. Give the task of writing your vows your undivided attention. Mark it in on your calendar or set a reminder on your computer just as you would any other appointment.

* Be aware of ceremony guidelines. It is best to check with your officiant and con-firm that personalized wedding vows are allowed. During civil ceremonies it's often acceptable to customize vows as you see fit. However, during religious ceremonies there may be lines of scripture that need to be read or certain passages required. Before you spend hours working on the task, be sure that it is allowed and that your spouse and you are on the same page.

* Jot down your feelings. Answer some questions about what marriage means to

These notes can serve as the starting points for the actual vows

Read inspirational writings. Perhaps there is an author or a poet who inspires you? You can quote certain writers in your vows or let the tone of their works help shape the words of your vows. There also are suggested wedding readings and other

* Decide on a tone. Although the day is based on love and affection, you may not feel comfortable spouting words of adoration in front of friends and family. Feel free to an into your unique personality. Humor to tap into your unique personality. Humor can be used if it aligns with the way you normally express your affections. Be sure to weave this tone into more traditional passages to create a cohesive expression of your feelings.

* Establish an outline. Put together all of the words and phrases you've jotted down into an outline to help you organize the flow of the vows, using these words as a blueprint for the vows and building upon them. Make sure the vows will be concise. Aim for your entire speech to be around 1 minute in length to keep everyone engaged and the ceremony moving along.

* Put everything together. Draft your vows and then practice them by reading out loud. You want to avoid long sentences or anything that trips you up. Although large words may sound impressive, they could make the yows seem too academic and not necessarily heartfelt. Enlist the help of a friend or two to act as your audience to see if the vows sound good and are easily understandable.

Writing your own vows can be a way to include personal expressions of love into a couple's wedding day. Public speaking is seldom easy, nor is finding the perfect words to convey feelings about a spouse. However, with some practice and inspiration, anyone can draft personalized you and how you feel about your spouse. Try to avoid trite sayings and think from your heart and personal experiences. Think Personalized about what is the most important thing you Cups • Plastic Cur Throw A Casual Napkins · Invitations Floor Graphics Wedding To Remember Wedding Drograms

Elegant, lavish weddings provide moments couples will remember for years to come. But while such storybook ceremonies and receptions remain popular, casual affairs are gaining popularity.

According to the bridal resource The Knot, more and more couples are opting for less pageantry and more laid back panache when planning their weddings. For those who prefer something more intimate and more personalized, casual weddings may be right on target.

There are many advantages to having a "luxe with less" wedding, including the ability to break molds and impart more of the couple's personality into the event.

Another advantage is the price tag. The average U.S. wedding, according to The Knot 2014 Real Weddings Study, costs $31,213. In some urban areas, particularly New York City, average costs are three times that amount. Golden Girl Finance, a leader in financial digital media, has found that Canadian weddings average $31,000 with honeymoon included. Although wed-ding costs have gone up, the average numof wedding guests has gone down. As such, certain couples might look to rein in other aspects of their wedding. such, certain couples might look to rein in other aspects of their wedding. Transforming the festivities into a casual affair can help keep the overall budget low while still allowing for an exciting and enjoyable event. To put casual plans into motion, consider these ideas to help the wedding vision comes to fruition. wedding vision come to fruition.

VENUE

Catering halls and other reception sites do a wonderful job of meeting the needs of their clientele. However, food and beverage costs are often the most expensive wedding expense. To reduce the per-guest cost and also incorporate some variety into their wedding days, couples can consider a venue change. Look for public locations that allow couples to hire their own caterer, which may be a favorite restaurant or specialty food shop. The cost per person may decrease dramatically from the venue costs.

Changing the venue also enables couples to pick unique spots that may hold special meaning to them. For example, couples can choose the site of their first date or the location where their proposal took place.

CONTRAST Enjoy a casual, free-spirited wedding that incorporates some aspects of formality in an off-beat way. Think about serving fast food, such as fried chicken or pizza, on fine china. Those wearing tuxedos and gowns can opt for casual footwear, such as athletic shoes. Place wildflowers in crystal vases. These are just some methods to give a rich

PERSONAL TOUCHES

Menus or wedding programs printed at home in a fun font can set the casual tone couples are looking for. Look for eclectic fabrics to use as gift tags or napkin holders. Hand-painted signs or a hodge-podge of picture frames can display pertinent information, such as itineraries or seating arrangements. Encourage friends or family to contribute a favorite menu item to the food offerings. A home-baked dessert can be delicious and budget-friendly.

WARDROBE

Clothing often indicates the formality of an occasion. Everyone from the wedding party to the guests can dress down. Sundresses can replace taffeta bridesmaids gowns. Guys can opt for tailored sports coats with jeans. Guests may feel comfort-able in less formal attire that facilitates dancing and mingling.

Page 20 - The People's Tribune - Tuesday, April 24, 2018 Hannibal Design Team Awarded Winning Champ Clark Bridge STEM Challenge

Hannibal High School's interpretive panel design won the STEM Challenge at last night's award ceremony held at the Twin Pike YMCA in Louisiana.

The winning team's panel will be constructed in Louisiana's River View Park upon completion of the demolition of the existing bridge.

"Hannibal's proposal incorporates lattice beams, gusset plates, rivets and a plaque from the existing bridge into their interpretative panel design, documenting the significance of the historic bridge," said Champ Clark Bridge Project Director Keith Killen.

Technology Science Engineering Math (STEM) has recently been prevalent in local schools. The purpose of STEM is to familiarize students and encourage them to pursue occupations within these fields of study. The new Champ Clark Bridge team, made up of engineers from the Missouri Department of Transportation, Illinois Department of Transportation, and Massman Construction Company, students from area schools to a competition to design an interpretive panel to help preserve the his-toric bridge that is being replaced.

Schools that participated in the competition included Louisiana, Bowling Green, Pike Lincoln Technical Center, Pittsfield and Hannibal.

"All five teams did an outstanding job of researching the history and importance of the historic bridge and each provided a unique proposal for the interpretative panel," Killen said.

"Since the interpretative panel will use pieces from the historic bridge, it will not be constructed until the new bridge is completed and the historic removed," he added.
