Pike County 911 Board Hires First Director

The Pike County 911 Board has made the decision to hire Jim Porter as their first director.

Porter is coming to Pike County from Irondale. He is a husband, father and grandfather, and is also a veteran who has had a wide experience in public safety from being a fire fighter, president of the fire district, secretary of the ambulance district, certified E-911 director and instructor.

Porter was working for the Missouri Department of Corrections before taking this position.

The board felt his most notable work was with Washington County 911. He was part of a group that got a sales tax passed to first establish 911 there and went on to be the first director.

Over a ten year period he took Washington County from having no 911 at all to a fully-functioning center providing service to the entire county, including emergency medical dispatching.

The final decision to hire Porter and the unanimous vote took place during a closed session of the board's regular scheduled Nov. 7 meeting. A two-year contract was signed on Nov. 9.

According to the board, once Porter is established he will welcome questions from the public.

Crews Battle Large Blaze At Jensen Auto Body In Vandalia

Fire Claims Building, Contents, Several Vehicles

Vandalia firefighters spent over five hours battling a blaze on Sunday at Jensen Auto Body located at 102 N. Galloway Road.

The cause of the fire is unknown at this time. Fire Chief Rusty Strother said the building and its contents have been deemed a total loss.

He explained that crews were dispatched to the scene at about 9 a.m. on Sunday and remained on the scene until about 2 p.m.

"When we arrived flames were coming out of the northeast corner," he said. "It was really cooking through the ceiling area."

He noted the structure is very large and one-story.

"It's wide open inside. It's like a vault. There was nothing to stop it spreading everywhere."

He noted the building naturally had a great deal of chemicals and other products such as paint and paint thinners that had to be considered as crews were working to control the blaze.

"It was hot. It warped the ceiling beams which are super high," Strother explained. "It was really tough to access with the steel. It wasn't one we could chase," he added.

He noted that a cause could not be immediately determined. Strother said an investigator from the state fire marshal's office out of Montgomery City visited the scene and will provide a report. Strother noted the scene is not considered suspicious.

A total of 14 firefighters from the Vandalia Fire Department were on the scene and four trucks were called into service. Mutual aid was also received from the Farber Fire Department which sent a truck and about six crew members. No injuries were reported.

Strother said there were about three cars, a tractor and ambulance and a van for the Department of Corrections that were destroyed at the property.

The business is owned and operated by Scott Jensen.

Keeping An Eye On Progress

The new Champ Clark Bridge in Louisiana is past the halfway point to completion. Changes to the bridge are visible every day. All of the piers have been set and the steel girders are being put in place before the bridge's concrete deck is installed. The People's Tribune is including a photo every week as work continues until completion as a scrapbook to one of the biggest projects the area has seen. When finished the bridge will be more than twice the width it is now at 44-feet wide and will have a price tag of just over $60 million.

BGHS Class Of 1968 Celebrates 50 Years

The night of Friday, Oct. 12 was an evening of reminiscing of the "good ole days" of the BGHS class of 1968. The 50th class reunion was held at the Broken P Arena, a rustic hall decorated in a beautiful autumn harvest theme. A meal was catered and served by David and Laura Portwood. Thirty-seven classmates gathered to celebrate the milestone. The evening was spent swapping stories, laughing at elementary and high school pictures, taking pictures, and remembering those classmates that are no longer with us. They left, though much earlier than they did 50 years ago, looking forward to celebrating their 55th class reunion in 2023. From The Mayor's Desk...

In one week the landscape of our part of the world changed from green and a smattering of brown to the flourish of color we have come to expect around this time of year.

Then overnight a blanket of the first snow arrived, accompanied by a nearly record low for the date. Change comes quickly in life and is often unwelcome as in the rise of the river level resulting in flooding for example.

JO ANNE SMILEY, MAYOR
CITY OF CLARKSVILLE

Change can also result in magnificence, as in the birth of a child, recovery from illness or solution to a major problem affecting many people.

Looking forward to holidays and the flurry of activities accompanying each of them, excitement and anticipation is all around. Clarksville, like so many small communities across this country, will decorate and prepare to welcome guests and provide a cele-brative atmosphere for residents and visitors alike. Thanksgiving will be here in a couple of weeks. The Eagles will soon grace the skies and provide their outstanding addition to life along the River. Santa will be in town in Santa Land on week-ends during the month of December. All in all, it sounds like a familiar schedule. Friends and family will gather, memories will be shared and grateful hearts will spill over with joy for time spent with those who are absent and it will be different.

Change comes to all, still the opportunity to unlock potential, innovation and to create new memories remains. Filling the days with commitment to others by embracing each obstacle and rejoicing with each success can wrap you in warm satisfaction and peacefulness beyond imagination.

Don't miss your chance to experience caring for others.

MO State Parks Announces Rate Increase For Campsites With Electricity

In response to campers' request for more electric sites and more sites with higher amperage, Missouri State Parks is raising its rates for campsites with electricity. For arrivals beginning May 1, 2019, campers will see a $2 per night increase for all on-season campsites with electricity.

Basic campsite rates will remain at $13 per night, and off-season rates will remain the same.

On-season is generally April through October but varies around the state parks. This is the first rate increase Missouri State Parks has implemented since 2013.

"The rate increase will help fund various electrification projects, including upgrading electrical service to 50 amp and repairing and replacing electrical systems," said Ben

Ellis, director of MoDNR's Division of State Parks. "We want to address the power issues that have resulted in closure of some campsites and better meet our customers' needs."

Drs. Luvell Glanton Jr., a pain management specialist at Hannibal Regional Medical Group, and Rahul Basho, a spine surgeon and director of the Spine Center at Hannibal Regional, are experts in their medical fields and have decided to put together a seminar for the community that will help unravel some of the mystery behind chronic pain.

The seminar, "Overcoming Pain," is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m., on Nov. 15, at the Quincy Holiday Inn, 48th & Oak Street.

The event is free to the public and will allow guests to take part in a question-and-answer session at the end of the seminar.

"Pain has gone high tech with apps to track and control pain," Dr. Glanton said. "Most implantable technology comes with apps to control and track pain for better outcomes. We're having amazing results with the new technology." New advances in this area make it possible for pain management specialists to provide numerous other alternatives for the control and treatment of pain than the standard medication prescription of just a few years ago. These non-pharmaceutical options can provide a safer choice for many patients who already require medications for other conditions.

"Learn how to keep your back healthy and what's on the horizon for new and cutting edge techniques in spine care," said Dr. Basho. The focus of the seminar will be causes of pain and the treatments available, but by also offering a Q&A at the end of the seminar, it will allow guests the opportunity to ask questions to learn more specifics about different types of pain.

According to the National Center for Health Statistics, pain affects more Americans than diabetes, heart disease and cancer combined. Pain is also cited as the most common reason Americans access the health care system. It is a leading cause of disability and it is a major contributor to health care costs.

Back pain specifically accounts for more than 264 million lost work days in a year - it is one of the most common reasons for missed work.

The seminar is open to the public at no charge, but pre-registration is required due to limited seating. Those planning to attend are asked to call 573-629-3569.

Discover Nature With MDC Through Eagle Days

From December through February, Missouri's winter eagle watching is spectacular. Discover nature with the Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC) through Eagle Days events around the state, or enjoy eagle viewing on your own.

Because of the state's big rivers, many lakes, and abundant wetlands, Missouri is one of the leading lower 48 states for bald eagle viewing. Each fall, thousands of these great birds migrate south from their nesting range in Canada and the Great Lakes states to hunt in the Show-Me State. Eagles take up residence wherever they find open water and plentiful food. More than 2,000 bald eagles are typically reported in Missouri during winter.

Eagle Days Events

MDC Eagle Days events are listed below. They include live captive-eagle programs, exhibits, activities, videos, and guides with spotting scopes. Watch for eagles perched in large trees along the water's edge. View them early in the morning to see eagles flying and fishing. Be sure to dress for winter weather and don't forget cameras and binoculars.

• JEFFERSON CITY: Jan. 26 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the MDC Runge Conservation Nature Center. Call 573-526-5544 for more information.

• CLARKSVILLE: Jan. 26 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Jan. 27 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Lock and Dam 24 and Apple Shed Theater in Clarksville. Call 660-785-2424 for more information.

Eagle Watching on Your Own

Can't make an Eagle Days event? Other hot spots for winter eagle viewing include:

- Eagle Bluffs Conservation Area on Route K, southwest of Columbia
- Lock & Dam 20, Canton
- Lock & Dam 24 at Clarksville
- Lock & Dam 25 east of Winfield sel and by material aid in the establishment of just democracy throughout the world."

The Rev. W.L. Meyers then offered a prayer and an appeal for additional donations to the United War Work campaign.

"All this has been accomplished by our boys," The Press-Journal said in its effort to drum up support. "They have saved the world. Is it now too much to do something from them?"

The ceremony continued after what the newspaper called "a mighty short dinner hour" with more speeches, including those by politically-prominent Louisiana attorney Ras Pearson and former Missouri State Sen. David Alexander Ball.

At 7:30 p.m., the crowds went to John Brooks Henderson Riverview Park overlooking the Mississippi River "where a huge bonfire was started which could be seen as far up and down the river as the eye could reach," the Press-Journal said. More speeches and prayers were offered.

"The park was crowded with autos and cheering crowds, and the skies were lighted up with sky rockets," the paper reported. "And this was the end of a perfect day. And it was perfect, both in atmosphere and the sense of perfect joy that permeated every human being at the thought of the cessation of four years of horror and bloodshed."

The momentous nature of the occasion may have inadvertently halted a mandate against such large gatherings. A virulent strain of the flu virus unlike any before or since had been killing people in the prime of their lives, and because of it Louisiana schools and churches had been closed.

The quarantine was lifted for services on Nov. 17 and classes on Nov. 18. Louisiana Presbyterian's service featured a reading from Psalms 46:9, which includes the line "He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth."

Louisiana Baptist promised its service would be "filled with worthwhile incentives to worship. Come knowing you are coming to the house of God and the time will be well spent."

The joy only increased when families received letters from their loved ones overseas. Landon and Louise Brown got notes from their sons, Abe and Elmer.

"There's no place like home, and a fellow finds it out when he gets so far away," said Abe, who died in 1950 at age 56. "I see some boy from Louisiana almost every day and it makes me feel better to get around and talk about that old place."

In the days that followed, residents turned to talk of needs that had been neglected during the war. Pike County Lumber & Supply Co. noted the $10,000 government limit on private building had been lifted and suggested "now is a good time to fix up the 'Old Home Place' before the Boys Come Home."

Wernert's Garage offered a "gigantic tire sale" on items ranging from $13 to $28. The Star Theatre showed "Allies' Official War Reviews" and promised to screen "The Freedom of the World" and "America's Answer" soon.

Mayor Frank Jennings told residents that all who wanted formaldehyde candles "for fumigating purposes" could pick them up at the Louisiana Police Department.

An article on Doan's Kidney Pills declared "Sex isn't the reason for backaches, dizzy headaches and urinary disorders" among women because "men have those troubles, too, and they often come from kidney weaknesses."

Amid all of the festivities, however, The Press-Journal turned its attention to almost 75,000 Americans who "made the supreme sacrifice and rest in foreign graves." It noted the dead included local men Warren Tillotson, Charles Frederick and William Guy Shannon.

The observance of Veterans Day harkens to the end of World War I hostilities at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918.

Louisiana Bridge History

Keith Killen, an engineer and project director for the Missouri Department of Transportation, shows Louisiana Area Historical Museum President Judy Schmidt and an audience at the facility's annual meeting Nov. 8 a plaque that once adorned the Missouri approach to the 90-year-old Champ Clark Bridge. The plaque lists the names of local men involved in the Missouri-Illinois Bridge Company, which raised funding for construction in 1927 – a year prior to completion. The new Champ Clark Bridge is being built just south of the existing one and is expected to be finished by fall 2019. The museum banquet had a theme of "Louisiana's Roaring Twenties." Schmidt thanked volunteers who staff the museum, updated the crowd on building renovation projects and cited happenings from the 1920s. Louisiana-born movie stars Claude Gillingwater and Cam Hardin, along with his wife, Gloria, were noted, as was Louisiana-born jazz musician Eddie South. Master illusionist Keith Jozzef provided the evening's program. The meal, which featured items popular in the 1920s, was prepared by Vicky Keely with the assistance of the Louisiana High School Interact Club.

The not-for-profit North East Community Action Corporation (NECAC) held its Annual Meeting and Installation of Officers and Directors Dinner on Oct. 23. NECAC President and Chief Executive Officer Don Patrick, left, and NECAC Board Chairman Lyndon Bode presented certificates of recognition to NECAC Pike County Board Members Bill Allen of Bowling Green, D. Randall Cone of Louisiana and Curt Mitchell of Clarksville. The agency celebrated 53 years of helping people and changing lives.

NECAC Installs Board Officers, Directors

Annual Meeting, Installation Of Officers And Directors Was Held On Oct. 23

The 12-county area not-for-profit North East Community Action Corporation (NECAC) 36-member Board of Directors held its Annual Meeting and Installation of Officers and Directors Dinner on Oct. 23 at the Church of the Nazarene Fellowship Hall in Bowling Green.

The dinner was well-attended by NECAC board members, employees and guests. Entertainment was provided by master illusionist Keith Jozsef of St. Louis.

In his annual report, NECAC President and Chief Executive Officer Don Patrick gave a thorough account of the past year's activities and offered praise to board members, staff and volunteers. Patrick said the agency is in a "strong and sound financial position" and that it had enjoyed "another productive and very successful year for our entire NECAC team" in serving the disadvantaged.

"We are NECAC," he said. "Because of all of you, NECAC still remains the largest, most active and the best Community Action Agency in the state of Missouri and still one of the major leading Community Action Agencies on the national level.

Presiding Marion County Commissioner Lyndon Bode of Palmyra was installed to his ninth two-year term as Chairman of the Board and thanked the board for allowing him to serve in the position.

"It's an honor and a privilege to be able to serve again as your chairman one more year," Bode said. "It's something I look forward to and I enjoy. NECAC is what it's all about — helping people. If there's a way to help people in their time of need, that's what we're here for."

Charles McCann of St. Joseph, former director of the Community Services Block Grant (CSBG) with the Missouri Department of Social Services and a Certified Community Action Professional (CCAP) with the National Community Action Partnership, performed the installation ceremony.

Along with Bode as Chairman of the Board, following are the other officers McCann installed for 2018-2019: Vice-Chairman: Fred Vahle of Warrenton, Warren County; Secretary: D. Randall Cone of Louisiana, Pike County; Trustees: Troy Dawkins of Shelbina, Shelby County; Mike Bridgins of St. Peters, St. Charles County; Jane Dorlac of Montgomery City, Montgomery County. Patrick also took the oath of office. The seven make up the board's Executive Committee.

Also sworn in were the following Directors for Pike County: Bill Allen of Bowling Green and Curt Mitchell of Clarksville.

NECAC is a 12-county area social service, community health and public housing Community Action Agency that contracts with federal, state and local governments, private businesses and other not-for-profit organizations to operate and administer self-sufficiency service programs for the low-income, elderly, youth, disabled and disadvantaged population. The agency's Central Administration Offices are located in Bowling Green, with NECAC Service Centers operated in each county.

NECAC is one of 19 non-profit Community Action Agencies in Missouri and part of a national network of 980 agencies.

Four BGHS Students Attend FBLA Leadership Conference

Over 800 Missouri middle and high schools students attended the 2018 Future Business Leaders of America — Phi Beta Lambda National Fall Leadership Conference in Chicago Nov. 2-3.

The BGHS Business Education Advisory Council made it possible for Ben Walker, Drew Bowen, Madeline Norton, Breanne Kroencke, and adviser Kim Luebrecht to attend.

"It was a great learning experience for everyone."

The National Fall Leadership Conference is the premier leadership opportunity for America's business students each fall. In total, nearly 2,800 members traveled from across the country to the Windy City for two days of leadership development and career planning.

"Missouri always has an amazing showing at the National Fall Leadership Conference, and I believe that is a testament to the experience based learning opportunities we focus on in our education system," Chris Dzurick, Missouri FBLA-PBL State Adviser.

At NFLC, members toured businesses like the Federal Reserve Bank, explored the city's magnificent lobbies and underground tunnel network on an architecture tour, and attended workshops hosted by student leaders and business representatives from across the country. Exclusive tracks were also available for students who were new to FBLA-PBL, providing them with a chance to learn leadership essentials.

Two general session keynotes rounded out the conference, with speakers Brandon Lee White and Carlos V. Spencer. FBLA North Central Region Vice President Eli Amyx, a senior at Gainesville High School in Gainesville, Mo., assisted in leading the sessions. Missouri was awarded largest FBLA (high school) chapter in attendance.

Missouri FBLA-PBL, a chartered member of National FBLA-PBL, is a registered 501(c)3. Their mission is to bring business and education together in a positive working relationship through innovative leadership and career development programs. Missouri FBLA-PBL membership exceeds 16,000, making it the second largest state chapter of the organization in the nation and the second largest career and technical student organization in Missouri.

The Bowling Green High School Business Education Advisory Council made it possible for four students to attend the 2018 Future Business Leaders of America — Phi Beta Lambda National Fall Leadership Conference in Chicago on Nov. 2-3. Those attending were Ben Walker, Drew Bowen, Madeline Norton and Breanne Kroencke with advisor Kim Luebrecht.

Public Invited To Attend Gospel Concert At Centenary United Methodist Church On Nov. 16

The Lesters

Everyone is invited to attend a special event at Centenary United Methodist Church at 7th & Georgia Streets in Louisiana on Friday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. The Lesters, from St. Louis, (often called "St. Louis' First Family of Gospel Music") have been sharing The Word through song for four generations.

With more than a 90 year history and numerous albums behind them, the group proudly brings the third & fourth generation to the church sanctuary for a sound that is 100 percent "PURE LESTER."

Their signature sound is a blend of inspired arrangements and vocal artistry, led by longtime performer Brian Lester. Brian, who also serves as emcee and manager, has been singing with the family since he was four. His vibrant voice and easy rapport with audiences ministers to young and old alike.

As a fourth generation performer, Jonathan Lester brings a real freshness to the group.

Like his father, Brian, Jon was "born to sing," performing at a very young age. But he remains inspired by the generations of Lesters who went before him and by the message of God's eternal grace.

The newest vocal addition to The Lesters is Jonathan's wife, Bailee Lester. She has been inspired and influenced by listening to gospel music her entire life. Since a young child her family would attend concerts at Meramec Caverns to hear all the great gospel groups. Little did she realize that God was preparing her for something special; not only as a part of the family, but to "Sing For The Glory of God."

The Lesters take pride in their family heritage, but consider God's greater family as the real reason for their continued work. As they prayerfully pass their legacy to future generations, The Lesters hope to move others to a deeper level of spiritual commitment.

Preceding the concert will be a chili and soup supper served from 5-7 p.m. in the church's annex. Sandwiches and pie will also be served. There is a charge for the meal but the concert is free, with a free-will offering being taken in the sanctuary for the Lester Family's appearance.

Silex FFA Chapter Attends Washington Conference

Eleven members of the Silex FFA Chapter recently attended the National FFA Organization's 2018 Washington Leadership Conference on July 17-22. Members attending included: Rachel Klein, Katy Millwood, Justin Havlik, Hank Kientzy, Trey Mudd, Kozlin Sanders, Drew Kientzy, Brian Henke, Kate McDonald, Brecken Johnston, and Caitlyn Twellman.

The annual conference focuses on leadership development, personal growth and community service. More than 2,400 students from throughout the U.S. who are FFA members attended one of the conference's eight, week-long sessions in June and July.

Silex FFA members worked with other members from across the US to develop Living to Serve Plans to bring back to our local community and reach others throughout the state. One LTS plan Silex FFA members created was a program to help alleviate hunger in the Silex area. Silex FFA plans to work with other school organizations and the community to put their plans into action and make a difference in their school and community.

In addition to working to develop Living to Serve Plans, members toured many sights in Washington DC, networked with members from across the country and built many unforgettable relationships. The conference provided a motivation for our members to make a difference in the lives of our students and community.

The 2018 National FFA Organization's Washington Leadership Conference is sponsored through the National FFA Foundation by Monsanto, CSX, and Farm Credit.

The conclusion of each weekly session of the Washington Leadership Conference is a Day of Service, where students work together on a real, hands-on community-service project. Students worked together to package meals for the local food banks.

"CSX is proud to support the participation of FFA members in this life-changing leadership development conference," said Tori Kaplan, AVP, CSX Corporate Social Responsibility. "The Washington Leadership Conference is an awesome opportunity for students to learn how to become a visionary and develop their decision-making and goal-setting skills while expanding their understanding of agribusiness and participating in community service. The experience and skills that students will learn will stay with them for a lifetime."

PCMH MEDICAL MINUTE

Stephanie Walker, FNP

It's that time of year!
Preparing for cold weather, family gatherings, and holidays.

But have you prepared for FLU season?

What is the flu (Influenza)? Influenza is a respiratory illness caused by influenza viruses that infect the nose, throat, and sometimes lungs.

What are symptoms of the flu? Influenza can cause mild to severe illness and can even lead to death. Flu is different from a cold and symptoms usually come on suddenly. People frequently label vomiting and diarrhea as "the flu" while usually also caused by a virus these are not typical influenza symptoms. People who have the flu often feel some or all of these symptoms:

- Fever
- Cough
- Sore throat
- Runny or stuffy nose
- Body aches
- Headache
- Chills
- Fever

How is the flu spread? Usually spread by tiny droplets that are made when people with the flu cough, sneeze, or talk. These droplets can land in mouth or nose of people nearby. It's also possible that a person could get the flu by touching a surface that has the flu virus on it then touching their mouth or nose.

How long is a person contagious? You can pass the flu to someone else before you even know you are sick. A person is the most contagious in the first 3-4 days after their illness begins. However, you may infect others 1 day before you develop symptoms and up to 5-7 days after you become sick. You may develop symptoms anywhere from 1-4 days after exposure.

Are there complications of the flu? Yes, you could develop pneumonia, ear infections, sinus infection, worsening of chronic medical conditions. Each year many people die from these complications.

How can you keep from getting the flu? The most important step to flu prevention is getting a flu vaccine each year. Please note that it takes 2 weeks after getting a flu vaccine to develop immunity, which is why it is important to prepare before flu season happens. Influenza vaccine has been shown to reduce flu related illness and risk of serious flu complications. CDC also recommends everyday preventive measures like covering coughs and sneezes, frequent hand washing, not being around people who are sick.

How do you know that your symptoms are related to the flu? It is difficult to know if influenza is the cause of your illness based on symptoms alone. There are tests that your healthcare provider can perform to diagnose flu. If you suspect you have the flu it is important that you limit exposure to other people to prevent the spread of illness.

So while you are getting winter coats, gloves and hats, groceries for holiday meals and gifts for exchanges don't forget to get your flu vaccine to help you stay healthy this flu season.

Louisiana Representatives Attend District Student Council

On Friday, Oct. 26, seven LHS students and 26 LMS students traveled to California to attend District Student Council. The theme for the day was "Find Freedom in Leadership." Students listened to Kyle Scheele, a motivational speaker (who also spoke at National FFA), and attended different discussion groups on various aspects of leadership and on student council activities other schools do. Each school also had to make a poster that showcased a landmark of our town. The LMS STUCO ran for second vice president this year and won! The position included organizing a group activity for 400 middle school students that was led by LMS Student Council. The activity they led was a "Finish the Lyrics" game.
