The Lost City Of Pygmies Editor's note: This story

is the first in a series by con-Brent writer tributing Engel. A century ago, Pike County had an archaeological tale that would have piqued Indiana Jones.

St. Louis excavator R.D. Burchard claimed in November 1925 that he had discovered the ruins of an ancient race of pygmies who lived 20,000 years ago near what would become Bowling Green.

The outrageous tale had some elements of fact, but there were also pieces that sounded more like a fictional movie script.

Burchard announced he'd found 43 rooms and seven connecting passageways 65 feet underground while digging for Native American treasure on the Merle Baker farm a mile north of Bowling Green. National attention ensued.

"Burchard has staked his life savings on the belief that he is on the verge of a discovery that will stagger the world," the Kansas City Times reported.

The diggers "hope to find gold, pottery and possibly mummies or skeletons of the city's ancient inhabi-

The Louisiana Press-Journal jokingly went along with the hoopla, dubbing the find "Pike County's Valley of the Kings" in reference to the tombs of Egyptian rulers near the Nile River.

The Bowling Green Times was more skeptical, saying "we wish we could find an ancient city or something else in or near this place to assist in the progress of our city," but "we do not believe that a newspaper should assist in promoting any proposition unless it is reasonably sure of the success of that ven-

Burchard could sound plausible one moment and preposterous the next. If he had a degree or extensive experience, it wasn't revealed.

The digger told reporters he'd learned about the site from a mysterious Spanish man who had heard the buried treasure story from an unidentified Indian. He found the location with the help of a divining rod, and the entrance apparently was doubters who thought the marked by a rock in the shape of a horse's head.

A chain-like rod that the Press-Journal said was "as utante" was placed at the entrance of the six-footwide shaft. In it, Burchard said he found a concretelike material, soil anomalies and walls that appeared to have been "tamped into position" by "human hands."

The Quincy Daily Herald said a piece of leather, a splinter of wood and several other objects were found. The walls would give back "a hollow sound" when struck with metal tools.

"The 'divining rod' — a strange and almost uncanny instrument for locating gold, silver or copper — points the way to the buried treasure just as the faithful compass brought Columbus safely through unchartered the Press-Journal ofseas, fered.

There was one bit of comfort for local residents concerned about the big dig. At the outset, at least, Burchard was financing the operation himself at a cost of about $20,000 - more than $350,000 today.

Soon, however, requests for financial help would be outweighed only whole thing was a dirty boondoggle.

Vandalia City Council Approves Sale Of Building To Fire District With standing room only,

the Vandalia City Council held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 12, at the Lange Building.

Following roll call with all council members present, the Pledge of Allegiance, and approval of expenditures. Afterwards, the floor was opened to those wishing to speak on behalf of the newly formed Van-Far Fire Protection District.

The District was approved by voters at the Tuesday, Aug. 5, election. The matter before the council concerned buying the fire station building for $1, purchasing the trucks and equipment for $1, and transferring $70,000 to the District. The $70,000 has been held in a City of Vandalia account intended for adding a training room to the Vandalia fire station. This issue was previously discussed at the October meeting and was tabled at that time.

Heather Williams of Farber was the first to speak during public comment.

"I feel strongly that the City of Vandalia should support the Fire District with the transfer of all physical and financial assets to the Van-Far Fire Protection District," she told the council. "The City of Farber and the Rural Board have already pledged their support of all physical and financial assets. Transfer of assets will only continue to benefit the community.'

Williams, Following Vandalia resident Denise Chamberlin addressed the council.

"On Aug. 5, a special election was held in the City of Vandalia," Chamberlin said in part. "Voters were presented with a proposition to consolidate Vandalia and Farber Fire Departments into a single fire district. The voters approved that proposition, and the citizens made their decision.

"At the October meeting, it is my understanding the city administrator presented a recommendation for the council to approve the transfer of equipment and funds related to this consolidation, as well as the building. The city council chose to not approve the recommendation. That decision was not only disappointing, it was unacceptable. The voters spoke clearly. While each council member may have personal opinions, your responsibility is to represent the will of the citizens who elected

"The item on tonight's agenda should be approved—fully, cleanly, and without unnecessary strings attached. It aligns with the will of the voters, and it honors the people who serve this community daily."

Fire Chief of the Van-Far Fire Protection District/Vandalia Fire Department Brandon Straube was the final speaker. He noted, "The current fire station was constructed in 1994 with the intention of serving the entire Vandalia area—not only properties within the city limits, but the broader community as a whole. Much of the interior work at that time was completed through the volunteered labor of our firefighters, who donated their time, skills, and resources to finish the building. Since its completion, our firefighters have continued to volunteer their time and expertise to perform nearly all repairs and maintenance on the facility, helping the city save taxpayer funds over the years.

"The City's capital improvement funds for the fire department were originally established with the goal of adding a training center to the fire station, with an initial amount of approximately $40,000. Over time, that fund has been carefully maintained and occasionally supplemented, as the department has consistently practiced fiscal responsibility-spending only when necessary and striving to save taxpayers money whenever possible." Following Straube's remarks, the council voted unanimously to approve paying the Čity of Vandalia $1 for the building and $1 for the trucks and equipment.

The transfer of the $70,000 was tabled until the December meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 9, at the Lange Building, due to remaining tasks required before approval.

Free Variety Show Is Nov. 29 In Clarksvi

ing the stage in Clarksville, and it won't cost you a dime.

The Changelings theater troupe of Raintree Arts Council is offering a dozen acts as part of its annual Variety Show at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 29, at The Apple Shed in Clarksville.

Doors open at 6, and there is no admission charge. Changelings Director Mary Lang Fournier promises an entertaining evening.

"The range of talent is amazing!" she said. "It's what makes this so fun. Most productions have one director and a theme. For this, everyone is allowed creative license.

Donna Grote is a longtime performer in Changelings shows. She plans to sing the humorous 1991 song "Men" by the Forester Sisters. One verse reads "They buy you dinner, open your door; other than that, what are they good for?"

"Variety shows are fun because you can do any type of performance that you want," Grote said. "And variety is the spice of life!"

Fournier likes the idea of occasionally offering a nonadmission show.

'So often, we have big production costs that we need to cover and we have to charge admission so we don't land in jail," she said. "That excludes some folks from the fun. Costs are min-

Last-minute performers will be considered, but Fournier warns people need to contact her so she can "make sure they've rehearsed and have a clear vision before they are given a slot." She can be reached at 817-300-9796.

Shows at The Apple Shed date to 1979, when the Mallin family donated the former fruit processing facility and warehouse to the non-profit Raintree for use as a community and cultural center. Patrons could usually count on at least one big performance every summer, but by 2012 productions were limited.

Fournier her husband, Ricky, revived the venue's thespian tradition in 2018. Since then, audiences have been treated to plays such as "The Last Romance," "Murder Mystery Wedding" and "The War of the Worlds." Musicals have included "Little Shop of Horrors," "9 to 5," "Willie Wonka" and "The Addams Family." The troupe has even staged outdoor Shakespearean productions such as "Romeo and Juliet" and "Comedy of Errers."

The Shed also hosts community festivals, weddings and other artistic performances by outside groups.

Theater is an inclusive art form, and we're looking forward to seeing ALL of our friends and neighbors at the Variety Show," Fourier said. "Come and join the

Public Safety Recruitment, Retention Act Scholarship Application Now Open For 2026-27 Academic Year

The Missouri Department of Higher Education Workforce Development (MDHEWD) is pleased to announce that the application for Missouri's Public Safety Recruitment & Retention Act Scholarship for the 2026-2027 academic year is now open.

A key component of Governor Mike Kehoe's Safer Missouri public safety initiative, the scholarship helps cover the cost of tuition for eligible public safety personnel and their dependent children pursuing a qualifying license, certification, or postsecondary degree from a Missouri public or independent college or university or a Missouri Department of Health and Sen-Services (DHSS) accredited training provider.

"This scholarship is an investment to help support health and safety of others," said Dr. Bennett Boggs, partment of Higher Educaand tion Development. "By providing an affordable pathway not only fostering the growth and retention of public safety professionals but also strengthening the foundation of Missouri's communities."

Full-time police officers, firefighters, paramedics, telecommunicator first responders, emergency meditechnicians, advanced emergency medical technicians with at least six years of service may be eligible to receive the scholarship. Additionally, the dependent children of those with at least 10 years of service may also qualify. Applicants must also meet certain eligibility requirements, including be a Missouri resident and complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

To apply, interested individuals must create an account and complete the application through the State Financial Aid Portal. In addition to the application, individuals will be required to upload and submit documentation verifying employment, Missouri residency, and other eligibility requirements.

The scholarship application and supporting documents must be submitted to MDHEWD by Dec.15, 2025, to be considered for the 2026-27 school year. Interested individuals must apply for the scholarship each academic year to be considered for the award. This means that even if an individual recently completed an application for the 2025-2026 academic year, they would need to complete a new application to be considered for the 2026-2027 school year.

The Public Safety Recruitment & Retention Act Scholarship is a new scholarship established through Senate Bill 71. The scholarship application for the 2025-2026 school year was open from Oct. 1-Nov. 5. As of Nov. 5, the department has received nearly 400 applications for review and consideration.

For more information about the Public Safety Recruitment & Retention Act Scholarship, visit MDHEWD website. Detailed information about qualifying majors, eligibility requirements, application instructions, and more is available in the Public Safety Recruitment & Retention Act Scholarship FAQs.

To Say No To Stress ing of me" or "I'd love to,

It's a tiny word that can make a big difference, says University of Missouri Extension assistant professor Karen Funkenbusch.

It's another little word that causes stress, burnout and exhaustion.

Learn when to say "no" and when to say "yes," says Funkenbusch. First Lady Nancy Reagan championed the slogan "Just Say No" in an antidrug campaign. If it were only that easy, there would be a lot less stress and pressure in the world, says Funkenbusch. But it's tough to say no, especially if you're a kind person.

Saying yes is a learned response for many people. From an early age, we're taught that saying "yes" is the right thing to do, whether at work, home or in the community.

Saying no makes us uncomfortable, and most of us fear rejection. But boundaries can reduce stress and create room for family, friends and hobbies that are enjoyable, she says. Most farm family members are kind – the backbone of the community, the first to offer their time, talent and money to any cause. They're the perfect volunteers: dependable, have a good work ethic and bring casseroles, tools and equipment. And they're likely exhausted.

"Certainly, we need community volunteers and co-workers who have a willingness to share the load," says Funkenbusch. "But there are times we need to take care of our own health by respectfully declining. Sometimes we need to shelve our guilt and put a protective shell around our physical and mental health."

Doing so gives us time to refresh and reenergize, says

Funkenbusch. Here are five ways to "just say no" to others and

'yes" to yourself: Be direct. Don't give mixed signals. Be respectful and kind, always, but be firm. Try saying, "Thanks for thinkbut I have other commitments."

Don't feel that you must justify your answer. Sometimes your mom was right. 'Well, just because."

Don't say yes if it drains you or exhausts you. Take care of you first. As you've likely heard, you must take care of yourself to take care of others, Funkenbusch says.

Say no to the request, not the person.

Dairy Foods, Fiber: Smart Pairing gestion of carbohydrate-rich istration.

November is National Diabetes Month — a national proclamation designed to raise awareness and education about dia-

In the United States, approximately 38.4 million people have this chronic disease that affects how an individual's body turns food into energy.

Food choices, in conjunction with medication and physical activity, are key to managing diabetes. Protein-rich, low-fat dairy, paired with fiber-rich foods, can play an integral role in this management.

Following a meal, the body's digestive system breaks down carbohydrates starches and natural or added sugars - into glucose, a simple sugar that is the body's preferred energy source. To provide the body's cells with this energy, the pancreas produces the hormone insulin, which allows glucose to enter the body's cells. However, when people have diabetes, they no longer make insulin (type 1 diabetes), or they make a reduced amount of insulin or do not use it efficiently (type 2 diabetes or gestational diabetes). The glucose, or blood sugar, then remains in the bloodstream, which can lead to health complications.

Protein and fiber slow rise of blood sugar

While diabetes is a complex and long-term disease, meal choices can make a positive impact on an individual's overall wellness. Including protein and fiberrich foods in every meal, for example, will slow the di-foods. This, in turn, helps slow the blood-sugar rise after meals and can make diabetes medications more effective. "Milk, cheese, yogurt and cottage cheese provide quality protein, healthy fats and varying amounts of carbohydrates," said Jessica Kassel, a nutrition educator and registered dietitian with St. Louis District Dairy

"When you combine one of these dairy foods with fiber-rich foods like nonstarchy vegetables, berries or whole grains, the bloodsugar rise post-meal will likely slow down. For example, a half cup of cottage cheese delivers 12 grams of protein and only six grams of carbohydrates. Low-fat dairy foods with low to no added sugar can be strategic additions to meals and snacks for diabetes management and for promoting a sense of fullness after meals." DAIRY PROVIDES CALCIUM

& VITAMIN D

Milk, yogurt and cheese are excellent sources of calcium. Milk and some varieties of yogurt and cheese are also fortified with vitamin D, which is essential for absorbing calcium in the diet. Both nutrients tie into insulin production, and some studies have shown that vitamin D may help reduce insulin resistance in those with type 2 diabetes. In addition, eating yogurt regularly, at least 2 cups (3 servings) per week, may reduce the risk of type 2 diabetes according to limited scientific evidence, per the U.S. Food and Drug Admin-

"According to the Dietary Guidelines for Americans, calcium and vitamin D are nutrients of concern as most Americans do not consume enough of these nutrients daily," Kassel said. "Calcium and vitamin D are essential for bone health throughout our lives. Vitamin D also supports the immune system and can help reduce inflammation, a trigger of type 2 diabetes. ## From The Mayor's Desk...

JIM ARICO, MAYOR

Congratulations to former Captain Bennie Church who is now promoted to Chief of Police for Bowling Green.

He has certainly proved himself capable of performing the duties that accompany the office. This promotion is well deserved and appreciated for his years of loyalty and achievement to Bowling Green. Many thanks to his family as well as they too, have sacrificed their time and energy to support and promote our amazing city.

Thank the Lord that the federal government shutdown is ending. So many aspects of American society were and still are impacted by this turing. The economic impact reaches all the way from Washington DC to local communities. The Congressional Budget Office, (CBO), estimates that the Gross Domestic Product which measures the state of the economy, has been reduced by $14-18 Billion in the 4th quarter of 2025 alone. SNAP, formerly Food Stamps, amounts to about $100 billion a year or $4 billion a month to local communities.

These allotments are normally distributed a month in advance. The United States Department of Agriculture covered October but not November. More than 2 million Americans are Federal civilian employees residing in every congressional district across the United States have not received a paycheck since October 1,2025. Yet, Congress-both House and Senate continue to get paid approximately $15,000 a month in salary despite the shutdown. So wrong! Head Start programs with nearly 700,000 children and 250,000 staff across 44 States are affected. I'm told that Bowling Green's Head Start is covered through November. Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, (LIHEAP), assists nearly 6 million households in paying at this time of year heating bills. This lapse can result in life-threatening situations.

anyone but as I have written very often, Bowling Green and Pike County have been affected by the shutdown and now is a vital time to "love thy neighbor!" For those who "have." we need to help the "have nots." The Hope Center's supplies have been reduced by over half at this time.

NO HUNGER HOLIDAY which has supplied 200+ turkey dinners has now had so many verifiable requests that they have increased their number this year to 300. University of Missouri Extension Master Gardener online spring 2026 course. The 15week class runs Jan. 2-April The online core training course is designed to provide in-depth horticultural knowledge, says MU Extension Master Gardener state coordinator Debi Kelly. The course includes presentations and weekly discussion forums. To become an Extension Master Gardener, participants must complete the training and volunteer at least 30 hours in the first year and 20 hours per year afterward through MU Extension. Gardening is an activity with many rewards, Kelly says. "One of those rewards is the satisfaction of sharing your plant knowledge with The Extension others." Master Gardener program provides in-depth horticultural training to individuals who then help others learn about gardening and the environment, she says.

"The program's motto, 'helping others learn to grow,' emphasizes service to others as the program's main objective," Kelly says. Participants will learn about the mission of the Extension Master Gardener protals of gardening and its terminology, she says. The course provides a foundation in plant structure and function, soils and plant nutrition, plant propagation, fruits and vegetables, herbaceous and woody plants, insects plant diseases, landscape design, lawns and safe pesticides use. Core training is the first step toward Extension Master Gardener certification. After core training, participants complete a minimum of 30 hours of volunteer service. Local coordinators help online trainees find volunteer opportunities to meet the service requirement. Since its inception in 2013, more than 4,800 people have gone through MU Extension online Master Gardener training. Extension Master Gardener programs are offered in every U.S. state and most Canadian prov-Participants will receive a

Marlene Nation

Memorial services for Marlene Nation, 86, of Vandalia, were at 2 p.m., Sunday at Bienhoff Funeral Home in Vandalia with pastor Jamie Franke officiating.

Visitation was Saturday from 5-7 p.m., at Bienhoff Funeral Home in Vandalia. Marlene Hitz was born March 3, 1939, three miles west of Laddonia on the Hitz family farm. She is the daughter of John E and Emma Elizabeth Righter Hitz. She attended school in Laddonia, and later at Community R-VI, graduating in 1957. She then attended Jewish Hospital School of Nursing for three years, graduating in 1960. She married the love of her life, Don Nation, in 1960 and they lived on a farm. Together they had four children, Warren Dale - 1961, Julie Gayle - 1966, Jolene Sue - 1967, and Wesley Dean - 1971. She was blessed with eight grandchildren, Nicole, Haley, Michael, David, Megan, Jeramiah, Emma, and Grace, along with 12 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. Marlene is also survived by one sister, Betty Fischer along with nieces, nephews, other relatives and a host of friends.

She is preceded in death by her parents, her husband, one brother, Walter Hitz, a sister, Anna Hill, and one great-grandchild, Gabriel Becker.

Marlene loved family, farming, sewing, baking cinnamon rolls, and creating gifts to give others. She enjoyed cooking a meal, once a week, for new single teachers from the Van-Far School District that she invited into her home for a time of socializing. She attended first Presbyterian Church in Vandalia. Marlene and her husband also enjoyed backpacking in the Rocky Mountains on vacation each year. They took a missionary trip to Honduras, and traveled often for pleasure. She and Don were active participants in the Heifer Project International. This organization helps families lift themselves out of hunger and poverty by not only giving livestock to those in need of help, but also training them to care for the animals properly and making provisions to keep the giving going to others. Marlene wants you all to know "Don't be sad for me. I've had a good long life, lived well and happy, and have literally been to the mountaintop!"

Eugenia 'Jeanie' Sue Barton

Eugenia "Jeanie" Sue Barton, 83, of Curryville died Saturday, Nov. 8, 2025, at Country View Nursing Facility in Bowling Green.

Cremation rites are under the direction of Bibb-Veach Funeral Homes and Crematory in Bowling Green.

Jeanie was born March 22, 1942, to William E. and Leavon Lewis Norton at their home in Pike County. She was united in marriage to Robert "Bob" Barton on Oct. 29, 1960. Bob preceded her in death in May of 2025.

Jeanie grew up in the Pike County area and graduated from Clopton High School. Jeanie and Bob lived many places in Pike County until moving to Curryville in 1968.

During the early years of marriage, Jeanie was employed at the Louisiana Press Journal. Once the first child arrived, Jeanie was a stay-at-home mom until the youngest started kindergarten. At that point she began working at various garment factories. She worked many years at Bridal Originals in Bowling Green. Once that closed, she began working at Surf Brothers in Vandalia. From there she worked for the Bowling Green School District from which she retired in 2007.

Jeanie loved to sew and was very talented. She made many of her daughter's clothes and Halloween costumes. She also enjoyed reading and baking, although her family could tell you some stories about her baking endeavors. To the dismay of her family, she also enjoyed going to thrift stores. She and Bob rode motorcycles for many years, traveling to every state but They Hawaii. members of the Golden Eagle Motorcycle Club and had many friends that they rode with.

Jeanie is survived by her brother, Bob "Shorty" Nordaughters, Lynda Woods and husband, Keith of Cedar Hill, and Lori Schambach and husband, David of Middletown; grandchildren, Ryan Miller, Bethany Miller and Keith Grummel, Kayla Myers and husband, Larry, Shelby Langley, Clinton "Toad" Schambach and wife, Hannah, and Shayla Stafford and husband, Tyler; greatgrandchildren, Reece, Zoey, Aaden, Clint, Paige, Raylynn, and Jaxson; and greatgreat-grandchild, Walker; as well as many nieces and nephews, cousins, and extended family.

Jeanie was preceded in death by her parents; husband, Bob; and brother, Ed.

Stanton Exel Ehinger Stanton Exel Ehing

Stanton Exel Ehinger, 90, of Louisiana died peacefully Sunday, Oct. 5, 2025, surrounded by his loving wife, children and grandchildren.

He was an extraordinary son, cherished husband, father, grandfather, and true disciple of Christ. Born to parents Exel Stanton and Lucille Konarski Ehinger on March 9, 1935, in Adrian, Mich., Stan, as he was known to most, was raised with values of faith, honesty and hard work; principles that guided him every day of his life, he built a reputation as a man whose word was his bond, whose hands were never idle, and whose heart was always open.

Stan graduated with honors from Michigan Tech University in 1957 with a mining engineer degree. Later in his career, he earned his professional engineering license in St, Louis.

Stan's career began immediately after graduation at Cartier Mining in Northern Canada and then proceeded to Kennecott Copper Corp., at their Bingham mine in Utah. He continued to work for Kennecott Copper in between times of serving his country in the Army. In 1963, he was employed by Martin Marietta's Aetna Cement Plant in Essexville, Mich., as plant engineer. He was recruited by Dundee/Holcim, later Holnam Cement in May 1966 to help build and run the worlds' largest wet cement plant in Clarksville. After construction completion in March 1967, he stayed on to serve as plant engineer, manager of maintenance, engineering and raw materials. In 1981, he became plant manager. Upon retirement on July 1, 2000, Stan was very thankful for his employees because he left the Clarksville plant number one in the Holderbank's North American System.

The Army drafted Stan in 1958 where he was stationed with Elvis Presley; he regarded Elvis as a very nice person. He graduated from Officers Candidate School and was discharged as a first lieutenant in 1960. Shortly after marriage in 1961, Stan was recalled during the Berlin Crisis stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., discharged in 1962. He continued in the Army Reserve until 1963, discharged as a captain. He was patriotic and enjoyed his military experience. His memorable last experience of the military was attending the Honor Flight in 2015 with his grandson, Joseph Mayer and good friend, Ed Pennington. He was a member of the Louisiana American Legion.

Stan had a large community spirit throughout his life. Every organization he was involved with, he gave his best effort often in leadership positions. He was in ROTC and TAU BETA PI Honorary Program in college. Locally, he was in P.T.A., Louisiana JC's, Louisiana Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Buffalo Township United Fund, Friends of the Library, American Cancer Society, Republican Party, YMCA, scout leader, served nine years on the Louisiana R-II School Board where he was able to present his three children their high school diplomas. In state, director and president of Mining Industry Council. He was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church serving in every position as needed both spiritually and physi-

Stan was a farmer, he enjoyed cattle, horses, tractors and the wide open spaces; he loved being outdoors, always maintaining the farm and home. To the family, Stan was a combination of John Wayne, Ronald Reagan, and Winston Churchill, hard working and never idle, mentally and physically busy.

At home, Stan was the rock of his family. He was a devoted husband to his loving wife, Barbara for 64 years. They built a strong and caring family grounded in faith, love, laughter, and shared values. He took immense pride in his children, grandchildren and greatgrandchildren, teaching them through example the importance of honesty, kindness, and doing what's right - especially when no one is watching. Stan's strength, humility and moral compass leave a legacy that will live on in the lives he touched. He will be deeply missed.

He is survived by his wife, Barbara Joyce Steele Ehinger; his children, Sabrina Mayer and husband, Wayne of St. Charles, Todd Ehinger and wife, Adelaida Branch and husband, Chris of Paradise Valley, Ariz.; 15 grandchildren; five greatgrandchildren; and siblings Calvin Ehinger and wife, Darlene of Peoria, Ariz., and Craig Ehinger and wife, Chris of Toledo, Ohio; brother-in-law, Robert H. Steele and wife, Sandie of South Jordan, Utah; and many nephews and nieces.

Stan was preceded in death by his parents, Exel and Lila Ehinger, and his siblings, Chad and Karoll Ehinger.

Collier Funeral Home in Louisiana will hold a visitation from 11 a.m.-1 p.m., with services starting at 1 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 29. A late lunch for all will be held at the Keely Center following the family's private graveside service.

The family asks that donations be made to the charity of your choice.

Harlan Craig Rudnick

Harlan Craig Rudnick, 61, of Eolia, went home to Glory on Monday, Nov. 3, 2025.

Since it would have been Grandma Mott's 99th birthday and knowing Harlan's sense of humor, he probably arrived at Heaven's door saying "Hey Grandma Mott – I'm your birthday present this year".

Cremation for Harlan was handled by Bibb-Veach Funeral Homes and Crematory of Bowling Green.

A Celebration of Life was held Saturday, starting at 1 p.m., at Mt. Zion Baptist Church. Pastor Gus along with James and Chuck under the direction of the Holy Spirit helped the family celebrate Harlan's home going. The Word was shared, singing songs of praise, sharing memories of Harlan, and enjoying food at the carry-in afterwards. The burial of his ashes was a private family affair.

Harlan, the son of Kenneth and Renee' Rudnick, was born in New York Aug. 14, 1964. Their family moved to California. While there, Harlan became a believer and went to Bible College where he got his love for mission work. He went on several mission trips, one of which was to the Naomi House in Arizona where he worked with the Native American children. While there he met the love of his life, Angel Joy Steadman. The city boy followed the country girl back to Missouri and got married in 2011. They have two children, Josiah and Hannah.

Since moving to Missouri, Harlan had been employed at Dairy Queen and for many years he has worked for True Manufacturing at the Bowling Green plant. Harlan worked hard to provide for his family, but

He found joy in encouraging others and leading others to the God of the Bible. He hurt when others hurt and rejoiced with others in their success. He made friends wherever he went as could be seen in the many people world-wide praying and requesting updates on his health since his heart attack on July 29, 2025. Harlan's special qualities will be greatly missed.

Survivors are Harlan's

mother, Renee' in California; a brother, Matt Rudnick and wife, Julia; their children, Justin and wife, Alicia, also Baby Rudnick due next month, and Lauren and husband, Jonathan, all from Texas; the in-laws, Grandma Betty DeVore from the state of Washington; David (Pa) and Betty (Mom) Steadman; brother-in-law, Jeremiah; sister-in-law, Amy and nephew, Elijah; along with lots of aunts, uncles, cousins, friends, and co-workers Preceding him in death

Louisiana; along with many nieces and nephews.

She made her home in Clarksville for most of her life before later residing in Louisiana. Ginger was a devoted member of the Elkettes, the Clarksville Boat Club, the Chautauqua Club, and several quilting clubs. She took great joy in creating beautiful quilts and in playing cards with her friends at Trimble House. After moving to Lynn's Heritage House, she especially enjoyed spending time with her dear friends putting together puzzles, a pastime she treasured. Ginger was also a faithful member of Dover Baptist Church.

The Buzz On How MU Extension Helped A Veteran Grow Her Busin

Jessica Johnson's experiences with University of Missouri Extension have been as golden as the honey she sells.

Johnson, the owner of Ladybird's Bee Yard, participates in MU Extension's Missouri Heroes to Hives program for U.S. military veterans, which aims to improve financial and personal wellness through free professional training and community development centered around beekeeping.

A Marine Corps veteran, Johnson was introduced to Heroes to Hives in 2024 by MU Extension natural resources specialist Joni Harper, also a Johnson learned about bees from her grandfather, Alton Gilmore, a U.S. Army Korean War-era veteran and beekeeper. The hum of home was never far away, even when she lived halfway across the country from her grandfather. When Jessica and her husband, Cory, packed up their Texas farm to move to Cory's family farm in Stover, Mo., her grandfather set the young couple up with their own hive.

After her grandfather's death, she obtained his hives and honey-processing equip-

Jessica, Corv and their children live on a Missouri Century Farm that has been in Cory's family since 1885. The process obtaining a Century Farm designation was her introduction to the local MU Extension center, which led her to explore Heroes to Hives and MU's Missouri Agriculture, Food and Forestry Innovation Center (MAFFIC).

The idea for a small familyrun business began with the bees and honey but soon grew to include value-added products like beeswax candles, lotion bars, fresh-cut garden flowers and more.

Harper showed Johnson how to use the MAFFIC website to find help to scale her business dreams.

As part of the businessbuilding process, MU agribusicounselor Whitney Schmidt guided Johnson through developing a customized enterprise budget, an essential tool for understanding startup and operating costs while rightsizing her business for long-term feasibility.

Together, they explored potential markets and demographic trends in her area using the Ag Intel Market Intelligence tool, layering that information with Johnson's own observations to ground her plans in real-world opportunities. Schmidt also introduced the Break Even Pricing tool, helping Johnson see how thoughtful pricing can sustain and grow a business over time.

During the slow season, when the bees stay close to their queen in their hive, the plan is to draw on all the data collected from Jessica's first year of sales to craft financial projections, explore possibilities for enterprise stacking with cattle and refine pricing strategies across different market channels. "Our goal is always to ensure resources are aligned with both profitability and purpose, and I'm confident that Jessica has the grit it takes to persevere," says Schmidt.

Throughout, Johnson continued to tap into MU Extension programs, including Missouri Beginning Farmers, Master Pollinator Steward, the Pearls of Production livestock program for women and 4-H. She also serves on the MU Extension Council in Morgan County.

She frequently checks the county extension page and MAFFIC's website and uses MU Extension enterprise budgets. Harper's office in the Morgan County Courthouse is a frequent source of information.

"Jessica has done an excellent job utilizing the resources that extension offers and putting them into progressive action," says Schmidt.

Johnson's latest adventure is writing a series of children's books. The first, "Ladybird's Bee Yard," focuses on Ladybird, "a beloved bloodhound," one of six family dogs. The book tells the story of when Ladybird mysteriously grows flowers from under her doghouse and then grows an actual garden. She takes the flowers to market and follows the path to becoming an Extension Master Gardener.

Johnson says MU Extension programs complement her military training to build a balanced home and work life.

'The Marine Corps taught me resilience and self-discipline, and that has stayed with me as a valued resource. I carry those values into my current life as a farm wife and a stay-at-home mom of three wonderful daughters, whom I homeschool. Parenting, like military service, requires adaptability, leadership and strength. Those skills now show up in everything, from how I run our household to how I run our business.'

Johnson, her husband and three daughters are intentional about sourcing supplies locally from produce and flower auctions, farmers markets and small businesses. other Through MAFFIC and Heroes to Hives, they've learned the importance of value-added products to boost revenues. They've also tapped into advice and mentoring from

"Starting and growing this enterprise has been a journey of lifelong learning, and the University of Missouri Extension has been an essential partner every step of the way," says Johnson. She credits Harper and Schmidt with supporting her and bringing the reliable, unbiased research of MU to her rural area.

Van-Far Claims First District Football Title In 25 Years With Thriller At Grandview

BY BRICE J. CHANDLER EDITOR

After two hours on the road, four quarters of grit, and one last defensive stand, the Van-Far Indians are district champions again. For the first time since Van-Far brought home the Class 1 District 2 Championship on Friday night after outlasting Grandview 22–18 in a dramatic finish that kept the crowd on edge until the final whistle.

The game, held at Grandview High School, opened with early fireworks as both teams reached the end zone in the first quarter. Grandview struck first at the 8:35 mark, but the Eagles' missed point-after attempt proved costly. Van-Far answered minutes later on a quarterback keeper by Kasen Christian, followed by a successful two-point run from Gaven Gaston, giving the Indians an 8–6 lead that held until halftime.

From there, the night became a defensive slugfest.

Van-Far's defense repeatedly collapsed the pocket, sacking the Eagles' quarterback several times and stuffing runs behind the line of scrimmage. Senior receiver Pacey Reading, who led the team with six tackles, said the mentality was simple: refuse to bend.

"It was a dog fight," Reading said. "I'm proud of how we responded. We fought until the end. We drove two hours here, and we weren't going to come home without the title."

The Indians forced Grandview into turnoveron-downs situations throughout the game, including a critical stop on 4th-and-short early in the third quarter. But Van-Far struggled to capitalize, fumbling twice in the second half to keep Grandview within striking distance.

That changed in the final quarter, where all the night's tension finally broke loose.

Van-Far extended its lead to 16–6 with 9:29 left in the game when Evan Utterback punched in a short touchdown run, followed again by a successful two-point run from Gaston. But Grandview answered quickly with a touchdown through at the 7:31 mark, cutting the lead to 16–12. Momentum seemed to swing toward the Eagles when they recovered a Van-Far fumble with 4:30 remaining, threatening to take their first lead since the opening quarter. The Indians' defense responded with perhaps its biggest stand of the game, forcing an incomplete pass on 4th down inside the Van-Far 20.

Two plays later, the Indians' ground attack finally broke free. Gaston sprinted 41 yards for a touchdown with 2:18 left, giving Van-Far a crucial cushion at 22-

Grandview wasn't done. The Eagles found the end zone again with 43 seconds remaining but once more missed the extra point, bringing the score to 22–18. When Grandview recovered the ensuing onside kick, the home crowd came alive, and the Indians found themselves defending their season one last time.

Grandview moved the ball with short passes, but Van-Far's relentless pressure held when it mattered most. The Eagles' quarterback was chased backward and forced to throw the ball out of bounds on consecutive plays. A final intentional-grounding pushed Grandview even farther behind the chains, and the last-second heave fell incomplete as time ex-

Assistant coach Cale Utterback said the win reflects years of dedication by this senior group.

'These kids had so much heart," Utterback said. "You could tell they had nothing left, but they just kept pushing. It's been about 25 years since the last district title, and these boys earned it. They've been working since they were freshmen.

Reading said winning for the community was its own motivation. "We wanted this for Van-

Far," he said. "It's huge for us and for everyone back

Area Runners Close Out Cross Country Season

By Brice J. Chandler EDITOR

Bowling Green boys finish 9th in Class 3; Van-Far boys 7th in Class 1; Clopton pair earns all-state; multiple PRs across area.

Runners from Bowling Green, Van-Far, Clopton, and Silex wrapped up their seasons at the MSHSAA State Cross Country Championships at the Gans Creek Cross Country Course in Columbia on Nov. 7–8, turning district berths into solid state finishes.

Bowling Green's boys closed out the year with a 9th-place team finish in the Class 3 race.

Senior Brendan Finnegan led the Bobcats, placing 46th in 17:26.4. He was followed by teammates Logan Pontius (53rd, 17:33.0), Dallas Bair (81st, 17:53.1), Nathan Schellman (84th, 17:54.8), and Eamon Finnegan (105th, 18:16.7) in the scoring pack. Stephen Smith (152nd, 19:34.6) also competed for Bowling Green. On the girls' side, Bowling Green's qualifiers each finished in the top half of the field. The Bowling Green cross country program noted that McKinley Vanhooser placed 50th at state with a 40-second personal best, while Harley Haywood finished 61st overall and ran right at her personal best. The team congratulated both athletes and the boys squad on a great season.

Clopton had a big weekend at Gans Creek, with both a boys and a girls runner earning all-state honors and one more school record falling.

Jason Hoffman raced to 4th place overall in the Class 1 boys race with a time of 16:46.2, once again breaking the Clopton school record. On the girls' side, Beau Beauchamp finished 21st in 21:25.8. Both Hoffman and Beauchamp were named to the Class 1 All Clopton's girls placed as a team at state, with additional finishes from Briley VanBebber (105th, 24:27.9), Charlotte Haskins (143rd, 28:04.3), Trinity Marler (144th, 28:08.3), and Katherine Truetken (155th, 32:08.1). The Hawks program noted that many of their runners beat their personal records and offered congratulations to all of their athletes on a great season.

Van-Far's boys capped their postseason with a 7thplace team finish in the Class 1 race, highlighted by three medalists and a new school record.

Junior Slade Keller broke his own school record with a new personal best time of 17:12.3, good for 10th place. He was joined on the medal stand by teammate Garrett Hopke, who placed 29th in 17:38.6. Completing the Indians' scoring were Jaydon Hug-Hernandez (86th. 18:49.8), Brady Puls (104th, 19:06.4), and Cristian Sastre (127th, 19:38.6), with Tyler Carlyle (139th, 20:10.9) also competing.

On the girls' side, Van-Far's Khloe Wallace medaled with a 30th-place finish in 21:49.9, and teammate Kylee Gibson finished 98th in 24:09.9. The program celebrated the day by noting that Slade, Garrett, and Khloe all medaled, the boys placed 7th, and there were "lots of PRs again today" in what they described as an amazing state performance.

Silex senior Joey Noxon returned to the state meet and turned in another solid run in the Class 1 boys race. Noxon placed 52nd overall in 18:07.9.

The Silex program extended its congratulations on social media, noting Joey's 52nd-place finish and "great job and great season."
