MO DNR Opens 2026-27 Bus Grant Program

The Missouri Department of Natural Resources Division of State Parks is pleased to announce the opening of the Bus Grant Program grant round for the 2026-2027 school year.

This is a noncompetitive grant that is awarded on a first-come, first-served basis to qualified applicants. The deadline to apply is May 14, 2027.

The Bus Grant Program is available to public school districts, private schools, charter schools and youth-focused nonprofit organizations with 501(c) 3 status. The Bus Grant Program is available only to Missouri schools and nonprofit organizations.

MoDNR's Division of State Parks offers busing grants to underwrite the cost of the field trips for schools (pre-K-12 grade) and nonprofit organizations to connect youth with nature at our Missouri state parks and historic sites.

For more information and to download the grant application guidance, visit Missouri State Parks Bus Grant Program. For questions, contact mspgrants@dnr.mo.gov.

The primary source of funding for the state park system is half of the dedicated constitutional tax of one-tenth-of-one-percent Parks, Soils and Water Sales Tax. The tax provides about three-fourths of the division's budget for operation and development of state parks. All additional funding for Missouri's Division of State Parks comes from revenues generated in the state park system and some federal funds.

For more information on state parks and historic sites, visit Missouri State Parks. The Division of State Parks is part of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

How To Keep Snakes From Seeking Shelter In Your Home

Late summer and fall are good times to locate potential entry areas around your home or buildings and take action to prevent snakes, rodents and other nuisance critters from accessing these areas, says Robert Pierce, University of Missouri Extension state wildlife and fisheries specialist.

From late August through early October, snakes are moving around, looking for shelter, food or spots to spend the winter. In addition, young from species of nonvenomous snakes, such as western rat snakes and prairie kingsnakes, hatch from eggs during the late summer and will be on the move.

"Few animals are more disliked or misunderstood than snakes," Pierce says. "Irrational fears and feelings that people have about snakes come from misunderstandings and superstitions handed down from one generation to another. Snakes are not mysterious at all, and their colorful, fascinating life histories do not justify the anxiety many people feel about them."

Pierce notes that snakes are beneficial to have around: They eat a variety of foods such as insects, slugs, worms, and rodents such as rats, mice and voles, as well as provide food for predators, such as hawks.

Many times, humans are not even aware of snakes, such as in their gardens and flower bed. Snakes don't limit their house-hunting activities to winter. They are also seek out cool, dark and moist places in the summer, such as crevices between rocks, trees and house vents.

But these summer retreats can lead to attics, crawl spaces, garages and other entry ways into your home.

Pierce says there are some things you can do to make your home less inviting.

Reduce the cover that attracts snakes. Store firewood at the back of your property, not up against your home's foundation. Remove brush piles near your home. Cut back shrubs growing next to a foundation, and keep grass mowed.

Seal visible cracks and crevices around pipes and dryer vents. Use expanding foam or mesh hardware cloth. Repair cracks in mortar or your home's foundation.

Be aware of what snakes are common in your area. Know what species are likely to be found and that are commonly observed. Proper identification is important. Pierce recommends "A Guide to Missouri Snakes" published by the Missouri Department of Conservation and available as a free PDF at <https://mdc.mo.gov/magazines/freepubs/guide-missouri-snakes>.

Don't leave pet food bowls out overnight. This attracts unwelcome animals such as rodents, raccoons, opossums and skunks.

Keep bird feeders away from your house. Dropped seed attracts rodents and other animals, which, in turn, attract snakes. Store extra birdseed in metal containers.

Deal with underlying rodent issues. Snakes may come indoors because they're following a food source, such as rodents. Inspect the area to see if you have a hidden rodent issue. Eliminating the rodents will encourage the snake to hunt elsewhere.

What To Do If You Find A

Snake In Your House

If you find a snake indoors, the snake is likely just as scared as you are and wants nothing better than to escape, says Pierce. Follow these tips for removal:

Try to keep the snake contained in one room, if possible. Roll up a towel to keep it from slipping out under the door. If it's hiding under something like furniture, you can set out a rumpled wet towel which may attract it so you can reach the animal.

Trap it in a bucket or box. Use a 5-gallon bucket or large moving box and gently coax it into the container with a broom or other object. If it's a large snake, you'll probably need to cover the bucket, so it doesn't wriggle out as you're moving it outdoors. Make sure to seal any openings into your home so the snake doesn't return.

Call a reliable wildlife or pest control professional for assistance if needed.

Buy Native Trees, Shrubs From MDC State Forest Nursery

Need trees and shrubs for your landscape? Go native with tree and shrub seedlings from the Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC). Native trees and shrubs can help improve wildlife habitat and soil and water conservation while also improving the appearance and value of private property.

MDC's George O. White State Forest Nursery offers a variety of low-cost native tree and shrub seedlings for sale for reforestation, windbreaks, erosion control, wildlife food and cover, and other purposes.

bud, ninebark, elderberry, sumac, wild plum, witch hazel, and others. MDC recommends ordering early for the best selection.

"The nursery grows millions of seedlings each year, but some species are very popular and sell out quickly," said Forest Nursery Supervisor Mike Fiaoni. "And some seedlings occasionally succumb to harsh weather or hungry wildlife, despite the nursery staff's best efforts."

Fiaoni added that even if a species is listed as "sold out," customers can still place an order for those seedlings because other orders may get cancelled, freeing up inventory. Customers won't be charged for seedlings unless they are available to ship.

Seedlings are available in bundles of 10 or increments of 25 per species. Prices range from 44 cents to $2.75 per seedling. Sales tax will be added to orders unless tax exempt. There is a shipping fee and a $9 handling charge for each order. Receive a 15 percent discount up to $20 off seedling orders with a Conservation ID Number.

Orders will be shipped or can be picked up at the nursery, located near Licking, from mid-February through mid-May.

With rising costs to run the nursery, MDC has needed to increase all seedling prices by 10 percent. In addition, some plant species take two years to grow with nursery staff spending twice the funds to apply two years' worth of fertilizer and weed control. In the past MDC charged the same amount as the species that take one year to grow. MDC will be increasing the price for two-year-old seedlings of eastern white pine, hickories, pawpaw, buckeyes, deciduous holly, and American beautyberry.

Seedling orders can be placed online beginning Sept. 1 through April 15, 2027, at mdc.mo.gov/trees-plants/tree-seedlings.

The nursery provides mainly one-year-old, bare-root seedlings with sizes varying by species. Seedlings varieties include pine, bald cypress, cottonwood, black walnut, hickory, oak, persimmon, river birch, maple, willow, sycamore, blackberry, buttonbush, hazelnut, red-

From The Mayor's Desk...

As we bid adieu to the scorching hot dog days of summer and welcomely invite in the hoody and jean weather of the fall, let us not forget about Labor Day, and the meaning behind the beloved 3-day weekend?

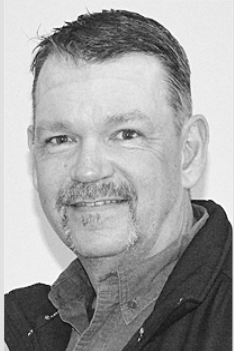

Labor Day was originally designed in the late 1800's to give union workers a day to celebrate the social and economic achievements that they have accomplished, and take a break from the everyday toils of labor. It is always celebrated on the first Monday in September, and provides a brief respite from the daily grind. A day designed to relax, kick off your shoes, and find a comfy, cozy recliner. A day to nap intermittently while attempting to watch your favorite program on the idiot box.

This holiday weekend I ask you to reflect on all the hard work that you put in to get you where you are today? Look around and understand that all the things in your house came from the sweat on your brow, the pain in your back, and the stiffness of every joint in your body. It is something to be proud of, because after all, you are trading time at work for these things. 1 1/2 hours at work you may have traded for that umbrella stand in the corner. Three hours of work you might trade for a dinner with the spouse? You may have traded 40 hours of work for a single month of having the car that sits in the garage, perhaps? Let us not talk about the work tradeoff for the garage and the house attached to it, please?

If you use this time wisely you can charge your battery, and batten down for the last working quarter of the year. I hope that next Monday brings you comfort, rest, and the energy you need to cap off the rest of 2026?

Allow me to Thank You for doing whatever it is that you do? Keep churning away Bowling Green. You all are doing amazing things.

Fuel Your Fall Workouts With Chocolate Milk

Sunday, Sept. 27 was National Chocolate Milk Day, and, with football, volleyball, soccer, cross country and other fall sports in full swing, it's the perfect time to highlight one of the simplest and most delicious ways to recover after exercise: a glass of cold chocolate milk.

When it comes to post-workout nutrition, chocolate milk provides a 3-1 ratio of carbohydrates to protein, an ideal balance that helps recharge and repair muscles. "Proper refueling is an essential part of training," said Jessica Kassel, nutrition educator and registered dietitian with the St. Louis District Dairy Council. "Within an hour after exercise, your body needs three key things: carbohydrates to replenish the energy you used, protein to help repair and rebuild muscle, and water and electrolytes to rehydrate. Chocolate milk naturally provides these nutrients, making it a great recovery option."

Properly refueling after a workout will also reduce fatigue and muscle soreness, helping athletes prepare for their next practice, game or workout. An 8-ounce serving of chocolate milk not only provides 24 grams of carbohydrates and 8 grams of protein needed for recovery but also other essential nutrients like calcium and vitamin D to support strong bones; B vitamins to convert food into energy; and electrolytes, including potassium, magnesium, calcium and sodium, to regulate muscle and nerve function and fluid balance. Chocolate milk is also readily available in grocery stores and other retail locations, making it a convenient and accessible sible refueling option.

Chocolate milk isn't just for post-workout recovery. It can also be a delicious way to add high-quality protein and essential nutrients to your day. For those looking to increase their protein intake even further, try ultra-filtered chocolate milk, which offers at least 14 grams of protein per 1 cup serving. Ultra-filtered milk is made from real cow's milk that goes through a filtration process to concentrate protein and calcium while reducing some of the natural sugar. Many ultra-filtered milks are also lactose-free, making them an option for people with lactose intolerance. "For those looking to add more protein to their day, ultra-filtered milk is a convenient option that provides more protein per serving while still delivering the essential nutrients found in traditional milk," Kassel said.

Ultra-filtered milk can also be incorporated easily into everyday meals and snacks. Try using it in place of regular milk in oatmeal, smoothies, cereal or other recipes for an added boost of protein. And while the filtration process may be different, ultra-filtered milk goes through the same safety and quality measures as traditional milk, including testing and pasteurization before it reaches consumers.

Whether you're an Olympian, a student athlete or simply someone who enjoys being active, proper recovery can help you get ready for whatever comes next. After your next workout, help your body refuel, rehydrate and recover with a glass of cold chocolate milk.

The St. Louis District Dairy Council (SLDDC) is a nonprofit nutrition education organization funded by local dairy farmers. Since 1932, SLDDC has served 131 counties in central/southern Illinois and eastern Missouri as the go-to educational resource and advocate for the role of dairy foods as part of a healthful diet.

Dan was born July 31, 1931 in Jacksonville, Ill., to Fred and Kathryn Chance Buckley.

He grew up in Blue Mound, Ill. During his high school years he moved to Pana, Ill., where he started working at his dad's monument company at age 16 and was later drafted into the Army on Feb. 14, 1952 serving in the Korean War. He was honorably discharged at the the rank of corporal on Feb. 8, 1954. After being discharged he came home to Pana, Ill., where he met the love of his life, Shirley Jane Hilton. They were married June 5, 1955.

Dan and wife, Shirley eventually settled in Clarksville with their three children, Kathy Weiss and husband, Gary Webber, Brian Buckley and Mindy Jensen and Scott Hipes. Dan and Shirley were married for 63 wonderful years before Shirley's death.

Dan also has four grandchildren, Travis Glascock and wife, Amanda, Alex Jensen and wife, Emily, Kim Walters and husband, Keith and Dakota Hipes and Noah Birk; and had 10 great-grandchildren, Blaine, Jacob, Sarah, Abram, Bradyn, Bailee, Owen, Haley, Allie and Grant.

After many business adventures including sand-blasting, cabinet sales, re-frigeration, car restoration and sale, monument lettering and many more.

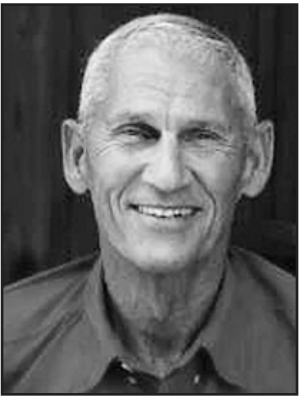

Dan was Lockmaster at Lock & Dam 24 for many years and retired after 30 years of federal service he retired in December of 1988. Even after retirement Dan would always be working on something. He was known for being the love of his family, being hard working and extreme knowledge of about every subject imaginable.

Dan was preceded in death by his loving wife of 63 years, his sisters and brother, Lorraine, Judith, and Dave, a daughter, Kathy Weiss, and a great-granddaughter Bradyn Jensen.

He loved the rewards of hard work, his family, and probably above all sitting on his porch enjoying the view.

Memorials can be made to Pike County Hospice.

Online condolences can be sent at collierfuneral.com.

Jim York, Sr.

Jim York, Sr., a lifelong educator, coach, photographer, Christian, and lover of animals, died Monday, Aug. 24, 2026, at Mercy Heart Hospital in St. Louis at the age of 84.

Born June 30, 1942, in Hannibal to Donald Lee and Leona Pennewell York. Jim returned to his beloved hometown of Louisiana, in 1970 and spent the rest of his life serving the community he loved.

Jim's family moved to Louisiana when he was in fifth grade, and he continued to attend the Louisiana schools, graduating from Louisiana High School in 1960. He graduated from Missouri Valley College in Marshall in 1964 and began teaching history and coaching football and track in Lee's Summit.

In 1967, Jim started and developed the football program at Van-Far High School in Vandalia, Missouri.

In 1970, Jim brought his family home to Louisiana, where he served in various positions in the school district: teacher, coach, principal and later as a member of the board of education. He also worked in inside sales at Sonoco Paper Products and as harbor master at Two Rivers Marina before returning to his first love: education.

Jim met Peggy Calhoun while they were students at Louisiana High School. They were married on Aug. 1, 1964. Peggy survives.

Also surviving are their two children, Melinda Webert and James York, Jr., and wife, Carmen; five grandsons, Chase Webert and wife, Bela, James York III and wife, Kathleen, Quentin Webert and wife, Olivia, Jonathan York and wife, Megan, and Tyler York and wife, Sarah; and great-granddaughter, Estelle Louise York.

Jim is also survived by nieces and nephews, Susan Liter and husband, Jason, Kim Brown, Randee Wahlgren and husband, Rob, Joe Calhoun and Rich Eickelman; and great-nieces and nephews, Amanda Brown and Shelly, Payton Weber, Macy McCurdy, Maddie Christal and husband, Kamaron, Marli Liter, Alex and Sam Wahlgren, Brittain and Chance Sinroll, Matthew Calhoun, Kaeden Jenkins, Sona McDowell, Colin, Charlie and Archie Calhoun, and Sean Eickelman.

Preceding Jim in death were his parents, Don and Penny York; his in-laws, Joe and Eleanor Calhoun; his sister, Sudy Jenkins; his brother-in-law, David Jenkins; and his brother-in-law, Rockne Calhoun.

While Jim enjoyed all of his professions, he was especially proud of his career as a high school principal. He had great love and respect for the students and teachers. His students remember hearing his shoes clicking in the halls, warning them that he was coming. They also remember "the snake bite," his special way of calling them to him by flexing two fingers. Jim was also known for wearing a suit and tie to school every day to show respect to his students and staff. When he retired, one student said, "But, Mr. York, what will you do with all your suits?"

Jim was an avid boater his entire life. Sharing the beauty of the Mississippi River with family and friends brought him immense joy. He spent many years running up and down the river with special friends the Bells, Harts, and Clarks, and in later years the Branstetters and Ballmanns. On any given day, you could find Jim at Two Rivers Marina cleaning on his boats. He especially enjoyed helping new boaters "learn the ropes" of boating on the river.

Jim was also a lover of all animals. There was no such thing as a stray animal to him. He and his dog, Wulf, were a familiar sight driving through the streets of Louisiana.

A visitation was held at Collier Funeral Home in Louisiana Friday from 4-7 p.m.

Funeral services were at Collier Funeral Home on Saturday at 10 a.m. A luncheon at the Keeley Center in Louisiana followed.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations be made to the Louisiana Football Boosters Club or the Louisiana John Cotton Animal Shelter.

Dale W. Menne

Dale W. Menne died Saturday, Aug. 22, 2026 while in Canada on a fishing trip. Dale W. Menne was born Aug. 8, 1956. The second son of Bernard W. Menne and Marilyn D. Twellman Menne. He grew up in Troy and attended Troy schools, graduating from Troy Buchanan High School in 1975. While in school, Dale met his first wife, Beverly Ann Thornhill. They were married on Oct. 16, 1976 by The

Rev. Zacher, and through that marriage they had two sons, Christopher Edward Menne, and Lance W. Menne. Bevi Ann, as Dale would refer to her, was called to heaven along with their unborn child. After which Dale started to date and then marry Beverly L. Havlik. They were married on Sept. 12, 1981. They had two sons, Jared D. Menne of Troy, and Bryce W. Menne. After graduating, Dale then attended Quincy Tech in Quincy, Ill., where he would receive his degree in electrical and refrigeration while working nights at UPS. Dale then came back to Troy where he became a silent partner in many businesses, one of the first being Briggs TV and Small Appliance Shop just off Main Street in downtown Troy with partner Howard Briggs. That is where Dale honed his customer skills and ability to as many would say "work on anything." While with Briggs TV and Appliance Shop, Dale had the TV rental contract with the Troy hospital where he and The Rev. Zacher would walk the halls together. Dale would always say when he was with the reverend, he was told that he would need asbestos underwear if he did not change his ways. That same year he graduated from Quincy Tech, Dale started Menne's Refrigeration and Electrical. Later the name would streamline to Menne HVAC & Electric. Dale's familiar phrase when answering the phone was almost like a trademark "Yelloow, Menne's" was the greeting he gave to customers and friends alike. If you knew Dale, then you knew his true love for hunting and fishing. A love that had allowed him to travel throughout North America with many friends. Also, making four trips to Africa. Dale passed away on his last trip while in Canada. He was heard while at the main base of Rusty Myers Fly-in Service that this year marked 45 years since his first trip with the "boys" from Iowa. One of many trips Dale would go on a year with best friend Mike McConahay. Dale could be found at every bait and tackle store to buy one or two of a special lure that was destined to catch the "big one". Dale also had a passion for farming, whether helping Lance in the fields with planting & harvest or Jared in the hay fields with cutting or raking his love for being outside was known. Dale also loved to travel on the many adventures with youngest son Bryce; from their trips to the gulf or going with Bryce to the beach for a family get away. He could also be found at the Lincoln County fair working throughout the years later carrying on with the watermelon eating contest. Dale was known for working hard and instilling those work ethics in his sons. He was also passionate about grandchildren. Dale leaves behind five grandchildren, Reagan Menne, Isabella Menne, Avery Menne, Christopher Menne, and Anna Menne. Dale is also survived by his wife, Beverly Lynn Havlik Menne; son, Lance Menne and wife, Angie of Troy, son, Jared Menne and Drew Proir, Ashley Menne of Troy, son, Bryce and Jeanette of Troy; parents, Bernard and Marilyn Menne of Troy; older brother, Butch Menne and wife, Jeanette of Silex; a sister, Kay Bobeen and husband, Tracy of Troy; brothers from another mother as Dale would call them, Brad Danback and Darryl Mordt; sister-in-law, Liz Harrelson and husband, Brett of Bowling Green, Nancy Pieper and husband, Bill of Troy; and a brother-in-law, Mike Havlik of Silex. He is preceded in death by a son, Christopher Edward Menne, Beverly Ann Thornhill Menne and infant son, in-laws, Bob and Bertha Thornhill, and Henry and Betty Havlik, brother-in-law, Tom Havlik. Dale is also survived by countless nieces and nephews. Countless walk-about friends, Mike McConahay, Rick Henke, Keith Sturm, Dennis McVey, Jim Price, and many more. "He was the best husband, father, grandfather, and friend anyone could ask for." Visitation will be from 2-8 p.m., Thursday at McCoy-Blossom Funeral Homes & Crematory, 1304 Boone St., Troy. A funeral service will be at 10 a.m., Friday at the funeral home with Pastor Jack Gillespie to officiate. Pallbearers will be Brad McConahay-Luke Shafer-Brad Danback-Nick Howard-William Menne-Dustin Harrelson-Dusty Thornhill, and Mike Crouch. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to: (Troy FFA Alumni) for future scholarships, c/o the funeral home. Family and friends are invited to sign our online guestbook at: www.mccoy-blossomfh.com have a safe and happy Labor Day weekend!

Where did Labor Day come from?

On September 5, 1882, some 10,000 workers assembled in New York City to participate in America's first Labor Day parade. After marching from City Hall to Union Square, the workers and their families gathered in Reservoir Park for a picnic, concert, and speeches. This first Labor Day celebration was initiated by Peter J. McGuire, a carpenter and labor union leader who a year earlier co-founded the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions, a precursor of the American Federation of Labor. McGuire had proposed his idea for a holiday honoring American workers at a labor meeting in early 1882. New York's Central Labor Union quickly approved his proposal and began planning events for the second Tuesday in September. McGuire had suggested a September date in order to provide a break during the long stretch between Independence Day and Thanksgiving. While the first Labor Day was held on a Tuesday, the holiday was soon moved to the first Monday in September, the date we continue to honor. New York's Labor Day celebrations inspired similar events across the country. Oregon became the first state to grant legal status to the holiday in 1887; other states soon followed. In 1894, Congress passed legislation making Labor Day a national holiday. For many decades, Labor Day was used by workers not only to celebrate their accomplishments, but also to air their grievances and discuss strategies for securing better working conditions and salaries. Nowadays, Labor Day is associated less with union activities and protest marches and more with leisure. For many, the holiday is a time for family picnics, sporting events, and summer's last hurrah.

September Library Book Review

Hunger Winter by Rob Currie (Juvenile Fiction)
Reviewed by Brenda Gower, Farber Branch Library Manager

Hunger Winter takes place in late 1944 in the Netherlands. The Nazis are expanding their empire, and the Allies are making headway, as well as the Resistance. The main character is Dirk who finds himself, at 13-years-old, solely responsible for his six-year old sister. His mother has passed away and his dad is a leader of the Resistance and is in hiding; the Gestapo has captured his older sister. The Nazis know who he is and are searching for him and his younger sister. Can they make it across the Netherlands to safety?

War is a difficult subject to read about and it takes a good author to bring it to life for younger readers. This story was a page-turner. It exposes the reader to the challenges of living at this time without the descriptive horrors of war, which World War II had a lot. This is a good book for a middle school reader, as well as an adult, to learn of another time.

I enjoyed this book and will give it a 5/5. There is also a sequel, Time for Courage, which I look forward to reading. Hunger Winter can be checked out at your Mexico-Audrain County Library.

Clowning Around With Purpose

What can juggling, mime and balloon animals teach young people about handling life's challenges? Quite a bit, according to University of Missouri Extension's 4-H Clown College, which uses clowning arts to help rural youths build confidence, resilience and healthy coping skills.

Launched in the summer of 2024, 4-H Clown College has reached youths ages 8 to 12 across Shannon, Reynolds, Ripley, Carter and Oregon counties. Delivered in local schools, 4-H day camps, community clubs and vacation Bible schools, the initiative pairs traditional clowning arts with foundational social-emotional learning and mental well-being skills, says program creator Emily Doosing, MU Extension 4-H specialist.

Teen 4-H Ambassadors ages 13 to 18 assist in delivering the curriculum, providing near-peer mentorship throughout the program.

Participants explore key life skills, define personal boundaries, learn to respect the boundaries of others and establish boundaries to foster safety. Through activities like painting "Scribble Stones" and performing color-changing scarf magic tricks, members learn that differences strengthen communities, Doosing says.
